ADJUDICATION OF GEORGIA'S FINANCIAL TANGLE TO OPEN BEFORE THREE-JUDGE COURT HERE TODAY

COMPROMISE PLAN ON RESERVES TAX GATHERS SUPPORT

House Subcommittee Proposes Sliding Scale, Imposing Stiffest Levy on Corporations Withholding Largest Percentage.

PLAN ENVISAGES MAXIMUM OF 45 PCT.

Companies Diverting 'Normal' Amount of Earnings Would Pay No More Than Present Rates

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP)—A compromise method of clapping a broad tax on undistributed corporation earnings, key proposal in the Roosevelt tax program, was suggested today by members of the house ways and means subcommittee on taxes.

Their suggestion, roughly, was:

If a corporation diverts a high percentage of its profits into reserves, instead of distributing them to its stockholders as dividends, a stiff tax should be levied on the amount so withheld.

If a corporation turns most of its earnings into dividends and diverts only a small percentage into reserves the tax rate on the sum diverted should be proportionately lighter.

That the schedules be so arranged that a corporation falling in the latter group would pay a total of federal taxes no greater than is exacted by the law now in effect.

To illustrate, one committeeman said a 15 per cent tax might be applied when a corporation converts 10 per cent of its profits into reserves, and scaled upward to a point at which a corporation withholding 40 per cent of its earnings would pay at a rate of 45 per cent.

Vinson Supports Plan.

Such a plan, it was argued, would meet the insistence of treasury spokesmen that there be no exemption from the new corporation levy, and at the same time satisfy general objections by permitting accumulation of reasonable working reserves without unduly heavy taxation.

By contrast with the arrangement proposed today, President Roosevelt this week suggested a heavy tax on undistributed profits, the rate increasing with their amount, but with no regard to whether 10 per cent or 90 per cent of profits was withheld from the stockholders.

Chairman Samuel B. Hill, democrat, Washington, said the new suggestion, coming from within the subcommittee, received attention at today's session, at which treasury experts again were present. Representative Vinson, democrat, Kentucky, added that he was prepared to back it.

Hill indicated the meeting was given over largely to a survey of sweeping proposals already received for possible ways of adding to the government's income. He left the impression that the treasury would have no more major sources to suggest beyond revised income taxes, processing levies and a manufacturers' excise tax, already submitted.

Chairman Doughton, democrat, North Carolina, of the ways and

England Forwards Stern Protest To Il Duce in Red Cross Bombing

Major and Three Subjects Said Killed by Italian Fliers; Fascist Plane Reconnoiters Over Addis Ababa; Thousands Flee to Hills.

LONDON, March 6.—(AP)—(AP)reat Britain ordered its ambassador to Rome today to protest strongly against the alleged bombing of a British Red Cross unit in Ethiopia by Italian planes.

Sir Eric Drummond, the British ambassador, was instructed to urge Premier Mussolini's government to press an investigation of the attack and to order his military leaders on the war front to make certain such an incident did not occur again.

Government officials asserted they had no official word of Addis Ababa reports that Major G. A. Burgoyne, attached to the British Red Cross unit near Quoram, Ethiopia, had been killed.

Information from Dr. Melley, of the Red Cross group, stated Addis Ababa reports that three subjects of Great Britain had been killed were not true.

Dr. Melley reported, however, that a bomb struck a Red Cross flag spread on the ground. He asserted about 40 bombs were dropped by the airplane which flew low over the ambulance unit, situated about two miles from the nearest troops in an open spot. The bombing occurred Wednesday.

Three patients in the hospital tents were killed and several were wounded, but there were no casualties on the staff of the unit, Dr. Meller reported. He said three hospital war tents, the operating and sterilization tents and one truck were destroyed.

Anthony Eden, foreign secretary, and Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin decided on the protest by the British government after a long conference.

There was plain indignation in official quarters. An authoritative source near the government asserted: "It is most obvious that the Italians knew what the unit was."

FARMERS URGED TO BACK SOIL ACT

Wallace Announces Probable Contributions of Land to Soil Depletion.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 6.—(AP)—A tumultuous ovation for Secretary Wallace here today at a regional meeting of farm leaders was followed quickly by an outburst of criticism as an Alabama delegate demanded to know whether or not the south will receive a fair share of soil conservation subsidy payments.

Speaking at a hurriedly called general session near noon, after a morning of executive committee meetings, Wallace urged the farmers to pledge their faith to the administration's $500,000,000 soil conservation program as a long-range plan dedicated to the general welfare of the United States.

The south, Wallace said, might be expected to contribute 12,000,000 to 13,000,000 acres of the diverted soil-depleting crop lands this year. Of this amount, he added, 11,000,000 acres probably would be cotton lands.

Wallace Departs.

Closing his address amid wild applause, Wallace hurried from the platform in a local hotel ballroom. W. H. Robertson, a delegate from Auburn, Ala., leaped to his feet.

Robertson address H. R. Tolley, former assistant AAA administrator, who was attempting to adjourn the session.

"Do you expect the south," Robertson shouted, "to account for 43 per cent of the acres to be shifted to conserving crops this year in return for only 21 per cent of the total amount of subsidy money?"

Tolley was visibly stunned by the inquiry. Farmer delegates, many of them halfway out of the hall, stopped and turned. Reflecting a moment, Tolley replied that statements concerning such a distribution of funds "have not come from this platform."

Later, Wallace declined comment on the Robertson outburst.

Warning the delegates that "efforts will be made in ensuing years to take the soil conservation act away from the farmers," Wallace said:

"I hope you will hold as resolutely onto this act as I formerly said I hoped you would hold onto the processing taxes so long as tariff walls existed.

"Now that the taxes have been taken

REICHSTAG CALL ISSUED BY HITLER

Locarno Treaty Signers Invited To Confer With Nazi Dictator Today.

BERLIN, March 6.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler tonight called a special session of the German reichstag for tomorrow and invited ambassadors of the four nations which signed the Locarno treaty to visit him before the national assembly convenes.

With a terse announcement the reichsfuehrer summoned the members of the German parliament to meet at noon tomorrow. Shortly afterward he invited the British, French, Italian and Belgian ambassadors to call on him successively beginning at 10 a. m. Well-informed sources said that Hitler, speaking personally before the reichstag, will make a last appeal to the Locarno signatories to observe the spirit and the letter of the treaty guaranteeing mutual security in western Europe.

Only if this appeal fails, these informed sources declared, will Germany move to the final consequence of denouncing the five-power pact.

Army Staff Meets.

It was further learned that the army general staff met today to consider a subject the nature of which was not disclosed. This meeting was considered to have unusual significance in the light of the forthcoming reichstag session, officially announced to consider "administrative explanations" which were expected to deal with the Locarno treaty and the future German course in the Rhineland.

Announcement of the parliamentary session climaxed a day crammed full of diplomatic maneuvering in expectancy of Hitler's latest "gift" to the nation before the annual memorial day Sunday.

The first indications of the special session were contained in reports that reichstag members had been summoned to the capital for a "get-together" session. Nazi offices refused to confirm the reports and embassy officials hurried from one building to another in a vain effort to obtain an official announcement of the pending developments.

To Broadcast Session.

Finally, the official news bureau made a brief announcement of the session together with the statement that the reichstag session would be broadcast throughout the nation.

Diplomatic quarters expressed firm belief that the reichsfuehrer may announce a moderate course, neither completely withdrawing from the Lo-

Cobb Says: Suicide Is the Only Solution

By IRVIN S. COBB.

(Copyright, 1936, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 6.—Alberta, in Canada, produced an economic Messiah, a spouting John the Baptist of the dispensation, who came out of the wilderness with a lovely device called a "social credit system" which, among other pleasant things, guaranteed every adult in the land $25 a month for life.

So the voters overwhelmingly elected him as premier and from over the dominion flocked in thousands to share in the distribution. Now they're busted; the province is busted; the budget is a sieve; citizens are faced with ruinous taxes—and nobody yet has collected that twenty-five a month.

Industrial depression always spawns its self-anointed saviors who promise to restore prosperity by giving money they haven't got to people who haven't earned it. After awhile, in spite of human folly, good times return, whereupon some promotion gent induces us to invest our little all in a company which is going to turn out Etruscan tear-jugs for the Etruscan trade—and once more we start drowning in a Red sea of red ink.

Seemingly, the only way to beat this game of living is to commit suicide.

YUGOSLAV DEPUTY FIRES AT PREMIER IN FLOOR DEBATE

Bullet Hits Near U. S. Envoy, Who Keeps Seat as Stoyadinovich Hides; Solons Brandish Pistols.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 6. (AP)—An enraged deputy fired four revolver shots in the crowded Yugoslav chamber of deputies today and Premier Milan Stoyadinovich narrowly escaped death.

One bullet struck the railing of the diplomatic gallery where Charles S. Wilson, United States minister to Yugoslavia, sat with other foreign representatives. Wilson, whose home is in Bangor, Maine, remained in his seat while some other diplomats scurried for cover.

Premier Stoyadinovich ducked under the desk of the speaker's rostrum. The three other shots buried themselves in the floor.

Other deputies brandished pistols and a dozen of them pounced on the assassin, Damian Arnantovich, crushing him to the floor. Gendarmes who led out the 40-year-old Arnantovich, a Macedonian school teacher and deputy from a southern district, said he had been drunk.

Assassin Incoherent.

Authorities said Arnantovich, greatly agitated, could make no coherent statement.

There was great confusion in the chamber, although no more shots were fired. Stoyadinovich, his morning

WARDEN, 2 OTHERS KILLED IN 'BREAK'

Visitor Arms Brother, Pal, Seize Warden; Trio Halted by Lead Stream.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., March 6.—(AP)—A hitch-hiking Kansas gunman's attempt to release his brother from the penitentiary brought death to three persons and wounds to two others here today in one of the most sensational prison breaks in the history of the state.

Warden Eugene Reiley, 72, and Phil Ray, St. Paul desperado serving 30 years for bank robbery, were killed in a running gun fight with a posse. Berlan Meisel, of Webster, S. D., died in a hospital early tonight from wounds suffered when he and his fiancee, Miss Freda Rausch, also of Webster, were ordered from their car by fleeing convicts.

Miss Rausch was slightly wounded. Claude Carrier, 18-year-old Kansan who engineered the escape, was critically wounded in the chase and George Collins, a deputy sheriff, also suffered gunshot wounds.

Shortlived Attempt.

The sensational attempt at prison delivery came with startling suddenness shortly after 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Less than an hour later Day and Reiley were dead and Claude Carrier and his brother, Harold, were back inside the prison walls.

Blood-soaked and weak, Claude Carrier, who said he hitch-hiked here from Kansas City, gave police a vivid account of the break.

"The break was my own idea."

"I stuck two gats under my belt and went up to ask the warden if I could see my brother," Carrier said. "I talked with my brother for about ten minutes. He said 'Okay' and I pulled out a gun and covered the guy nearest me. I gave the other gun to my brother."

Claude told how Harold then went into the cell block to release Ray before the trio took the turnkey's rings and raided the arsenal, taking a machine gun and some rifles. Seizing

'SWANKY' HOTELS OF MIDTOWN N. Y. BESET BY STRIFE

5,000 Dining Room Workers Expected To Join Walkout; Militia Ready; Waldorf Is Threatened.

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP)—Building service strikers laid siege to the midtown hotel area today and by nightfall had claimed approximately 8,000 new recruits.

In nearly every case the managements disputed the union's figures, declaring that while some elevator operators, maids and housemen had walked out there was no serious disruption of service.

Strike headquarters announced 62 hotels were affected and six others had capitulated to union demands. Picketing went forward with little disorder in front of approximately 1,820 other buildings that have come under strike rule since the walkout began Sunday.

Two other developments heartened the strikers on their first pay-less pay day:

45 Buildings Signed.

An agreement ending the strike in 45 buildings, including the Fifth Avenue hotel, was signed by the Prudence Company. The pact included a "preferential shop" clause, one of the chief demands of the union.

Paul N. Coulcher, secretary-trasurer of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes' Union, announced 5,000 kitchen and dining room workers in 100 hotels would go on the picket line

HAGOOD REMOVAL INQUIRY IS BARRED

Senate Group Spikes Quiz, 12 to 2; Roosevelt Is Planning No Action.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP)—The political tempest over removal of Major General Johnson Hagood from his command lulled at least temporarily tonight as the senate military affairs committee rejected a proposed investigation and President Roosevelt said he contemplated no further action.

The committee voted 12 to 2 to accept a subcommittee's unanimous report that there was no justification for an investigation of Hagood's removal from command of the eighth corps area such as proposed in a resolution introduced by Senator Metcalf, republican, Rhode Island. Hagood had criticized WPA spending policies before a house subcommittee.

The President, asked at his press conference whether he expected to take any further action in the Hagood case, said he did not. He has never commented on Hagood's removal. Senator Metcalf said recently he understood the case had been discussed at a cabinet meeting before the War Department's order was issued February 21.

The Metcalf resolution, made in the aftermath of republican condemnation of the administration for "gagging" critics in a "reign of terror," asked for investigation to determine whether Hagood's right of free speech had been abridged, who was responsible for his removal, why he was relieved of his command and ordered home, and whether the action was in accordance with usual military discipline.

The subcommittee, composed of Senators Logan, democrat, Kentucky; Duffy, democrat, Wisconsin, and Carey, republican, Wyoming, in its report holding criticism of the President by army officers in violation of the articles of war, said that General Hagood had subjected himself to the War Department's disciplinary action.

The full committee report said that while army officers should be permit-

Complete State Political Control Is Sought by Talmadge This Year

Governor To Put Candidates in Field for Every Office To Be Filled by Vote of Georgians; May Ask Election to Governorship Again.

Governor Talmadge this year will attempt to gain complete political control of Georgia. He will have Talmadge candidates for every office to be filled by vote of the people.

The Governor let it be known yesterday that he would be in state politics this summer and that he would make his dictatorship of state finances a big issue, if not the big issue, of the campaign.

Whether or not Talmadge will oppose Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., who is up for re-election or whether he will seek a third term as governor was not told. But, in a statement, issued over his signature, he announced that "the gun is going to fire July 4." It probably means that Talmadge has abandoned all hopes of getting into the national political picture but it doesn't mean that he is not going to continue to fight the Roosevelt program. It probably means something the people have pretty definitely known all along, that there won't be a presidential preferential primary under the direction of the Talmadge-controlled state democratic executive committee. The Talmadge forces will get as far as the door of Philadelphia's convention hall, where the Governor will loudly proclaim his record in Georgia, for consumption back home if nothing else.

The Talmadge statement came after he had read a letter from Speaker E. D. Rivers to The Constitution. The speaker is generally regarded as the outstanding candidate for governor, a candidate to be opposed by Talmadge himself or by a man or a woman, yes a woman, of Talmadge's choosing. The speaker had charged the failure of the general assembly to pass an appropriations bill to the Governor and the Governor was coming back at Rivers.

Rivers had charged that the Governor took himself away from a general assembly he had previously dominated when he refused to permit passage of a series of bills providing for Georgia's participation in the Roosevelt recovery program.

Previously Talmadge had laid the situation to the New Deal and the big-

H. L. DOHERTY DEAL IN STOCKS BARED

Sold Out, Regained Control at $17,700,000 Profit, Lobby Probe Discloses.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP)—The senate lobby committee was disclosed tonight to have followed up its mass seizure of private telegrams by a widespread subpoenaing of records of long-distance telephone calls.

Authoritative word of this action preceded briefly a radio speech by Jouett Shouse, president of the American Liberty League, in which he charged the committee's seizures furnished an "example of governmental terrorism."

A day-long session of the lobby committee earlier had brought out testimony that Henry L. Doherty, dominant figure in Cities Service Corporation, sold out much of his interest several months before the financial collapse in 1929 and a few weeks later bought himself back into control at a profit of $17,700,000.

The first few of the seized records of telephone conversations actually played a part in today's questioning of utility company witnesses about the drive they conducted last summer against enactment of the Wheeler-Rayburn utility holding company control bill.

A source close to the committee disclosed they had been requisitioned wherever they could be used to direct questioning or to disclose new evidence of lobbying.

Mammoth Protest Urged.

In his radio speech, replying to criticism of the league by Chairman Black, democrat, Alabama, Shouse urged his listeners to "join with us in a mammoth petition of protest against this monstrous invasion of our fundamental rights which has been perpetrated by the present administration at Washington."

Earlier, the lobby committee had heard not only testimony about Doherty's activities, but also a number of other unusual statements.

George K. Brobeck, 300-pound legislative representative for the Veterans of Foreign Wars, turned on Black, charging him with "rounding up" influence last session against confirmation of the promotion of General John H. Russell, commandant of the marine corps, and commented to newsmen afterward:

"If that isn't lobbying, I don't know what is."

Then came the story of how William J. Hagenah, of Chicago, counsel for Standard Gas & Electric Company, employed Brobeck to "do absolutely nothing" in Washington, and then found himself with a legislative representative on his hands who was eager—for $100 a week—to supply information on the progress of the Wheeler-Rayburn public utility holding company bill enacted last session

RAID ON CONGRESS RUMOR REPORTED

Governor May Try To Install 'De Facto Congressmen,' Capital Is Told.

Congressman Braswell Deen, of Alma, in Atlanta yesterday for a brief visit, said there are reports in Washington that Governor Talmadge may seek to revoke the commissions of and supplant several members of the Georgia delegation in congress.

The situation was revealed in a brief written statement, made public by the congressman. It said:

"Music is not all that goes 'round and around' in Washington. It is rumored that some members of the Georgia delegation in congress may also be fired by the Governor of Georgia and de facto members appointed in their places. It is true that commissions conveyed to the members of the Georgia delegation in congress following the general election in 1934 were issued and signed by the Governor of Georgia. However, I am for the renomination and re-election of President Roosevelt regardless of whether or not I might be replaced by either a de facto or a non-de facto successor.

"I am speaking only for myself and not for any other member of the Georgia delegation.

"There are some things worse than being fired and one of them would be playing politics with human misery."

The congressman said he had made a hurried trip to Atlanta to confer with some of his constituents on pending legislation. He is returning to Washington this morning.

Congressman Deen's statement created some discussion here over what power the Governor would have to "fire" a congressman.

The Governor signs the commissions of congressmen after their election as he signs those of state house officials. Members of congress, however, are the sole judges of whether a congressman shall be seated.

If Talmadge should order the commission of a member of the delegation revoked and appoint another in his place, it would be up to the congressional body involved to decide who should be seated.

OUSTER LEGALITY WILL BE DECIDED IN INVOLVED SUIT

Fulton County Jurists Will Sit in Judgement on Petitions, Interventions, Cross Bills Filed by Interested Parties.

OUSTED TREASURER ASKS RECOGNITION

Hearing of Charges Is Expected To Take Three Days; Dorsey Replaced on Own Disqualification

A three-judge Fulton superior court today will begin an exhaustive hearing on a series of suits, cross-suits and interventions filed in an effort to determine the legality of Governor Talmadge's ouster of Comptroller General William B. Harrison and State Treasurer George B. Hamilton.

The petitions before the court were filed by the three Atlanta banks, the National Bank of Marietta, by Hamilton and by J. B. Daniel, of LaGrange, appointed by the Governor to succeed Hamilton.

As attorneys for the banks and the individuals involved made final preparations for the presentation of their pleadings, evidence and arguments, the Governor began actual payment of highway certificates due on March 25 and issued a statement indicating that he may seek a third term in September, pitting his campaign on his dictatorship of the state finances.

Recognition, Receiver Asked.

Ousted Treasurer Hamilton formally entered the court proceedings as a litigant yesterday when he filed a cross-bill to a petition filed Thursday by Daniel. In his cross-bill Hamilton asks the court to recognize him as state treasurer and further asks the appointment of a receiver, if necessary to care for and conserve state funds.

Another court action, seeking to conserve state funds, is pending before Judge B. P. Gaillard, of Gainesville. This was filed by the holder of some highway certificates, the petitioner claiming that Governor Talmadge's action in seizing highway funds for other departments of the state government jeopardized the value of his certificates. This matter is set for a hearing next week.

The litigation to be called for hearing today will be heard by Judges John D. Humphries, E. E. Pomeroy and Virlyn B. Moore. Judge Pomeroy was substituted for Judge Hugh M. Dorsey yesterday when Judge Dorsey disqualifid himself. In his disqualification Judge Dorsey said that he did not feel that he should sit on the case because the incorporated estate of his late father owns stock in the First National Bank, one of the banks involved.

Three-Day Session Seen.

It is expected that all of the pleadings will be heard in a three-hour session this morning when an adjournment will be taken until Monday morning, at which time the presentation of evidence will be begun. The hearing is expected to require three or four days.

The first action docketed today is the interpleadings filed on behalf of the First National Bank, the Fulton National and the Citizens & Southern National, of Atlanta, and the Marietta bank whereby they seek to have

Douglas Fairbanks, Lady Ashley Will Be Married in Paris Today

PARIS, March 6.—(AP)—Their request for suspension of French marriage laws officially approved, Douglas Fairbanks Sr. and Lady Ashley set tomorrow noon for their wedding.

The last legal obstacle to the marriage was removed late today when the state's attorney delivered the papers which the actor has sought from numerous French officials since his arrival here several days ago from the United States.

The suspension, however, came too late for a wedding today and the couple found the doors of city hall closed when Fairbanks' attorney delivered the final notification.

Mlle. Susanne Blum, attorney for the actor, and secretary to Joseph Paul-Boncour, minister of state without portfolio, obtained the permission which waived the 30-day residence period and the 11-day publication of banns required by French law.

Before the permission was granted, however, Lady Ashley sent to London for her birth certificate and the statement of her divorce from Lord Ashley in 1934. The documents were flown to Paris, quickly translated into French and the approval followed.

Fairbanks said the reason for haste was his prospective trip to China to produce a motion picture based on the adventures of Marco Polo. He said he wanted to take Lady Ashley with him as his wife.

Yesterday the actor hurried from one official office to another attempting, vainly, to obtain the necessary permission. Turned down, he later filed a formal application with the state's attorney and enlisted the services of Mlle. Blum.

Officials indicated they would approve the application but insisted on official documentary proof of Lady Ashley's divorce.

The former musical comedy actress, who before her marriage to the young nobleman was Sylvia Hawkes, was divorced in London in an action which named Fairbanks as correspondent. Costs of the suit, approximately $10,000, were assessed against the actor.

Fairbanks was divorced by Mary Pickford in Los Angeles in January, 1935. The decree, based on charges of mental cruelty and neglect, became final in January of this year.

5 Killed, 33 Wounded In Spanish Outburst

MADRID, March 6.—(AP)—Five persons were killed and 33 wounded today in new political disturbances in Spain as the cabinet was reliably reported to be considering political repercussions from the prospective resignation of President Niceto Alcala Zamora.

Arturo Hernandez, fascist leader in Toledo province, was killed by a group of extremists in Puebla de Almoradiel. Two were killed by civil guards in a consequent clash when fascists attempted to storm the home of Teodoro Morales, leftist mayor.

Two others suffered fatal injuries in the old Madrid bullring when 10 workmen were fired on by a group of four men armed with a machine gun.

Zamora's projected resignation, which reliable sources said might come in an effort to prevent his impeachment in a controversy over suspension of the parliament, received major attention at the cabinet meeting.

TALMADGE WILL SEEK CONTROL OF GEORGIA

away, we should turn our attention and our interests to the conservation act.

"I think we can satisfactorily defend our act to all parts of the population. I think we can defend it to Wall Street.

"I don't believe the Supreme Court can find against us. Believe that the objectives of the act are so broad that time editors, whom he continually charges are on the New Deal pay roll. He also blamed the legislature but he blamed the New Deal for influencing the legislature.

Yesterday, without mentioning the Rivers statement, he said "it finally came out." He meant that it finally came out that the New Deal was the cause of the general assembly not passing an appropriations bill. Rivers had sought to convey that the failure of the Governor to permit New Deal legislation took the assembly away from Talmadge. It was Rivers' idea that the failure to get through an appropriation bill was the Talmadge reprisal to the New Deal measures. It is the Talmadge idea that it is all a part of the New Deal plot against him, if any.

Talmadge Position.

So, as spring comes Talmadge finds himself in this position:

There are two major offices to be filled and a number of lesser ones. He can't run for both the senate and for Governor. He figures, too, the office of president is open to someone but has gradually come to the realization that it's not open to him.

Apparently he is going to keep on making what he knows to be a losing fight as far as Georgia is concerned, against Roosevelt, feeling that the republican candidate will be to his liking. He will come back from Philadelphia and start things all over down here. He probably will say for the benefit of the thousands of democrats who are sticklers for party regularity that Roosevelt having been renominated he will vote for him as he, too, is a stickler for party regularity. But it is pretty generally known that Talmadge won't get mad if Roosevelt is defeated by a republican or a what not.

The report brought home from Washington yesterday by Congressman Braswell Deen, of Alma, that there are rumors in the national capital that Talmadge may fire some of the congressmen shows that the members of the state delegation, all of whom are supporting Roosevelt, are expecting opposition from Talmadge this summer, if not before.

In his more than three years as governor, Talmadge has neither built any one up as his possible successor, nor has he permitted anyone else to build themselves up. Whether or not the Governor realizes it he will find that he has a dearth of material when the time comes to pick his "ticket," and ticket it is going to be.

The Governor may realize this to some extent already as there are reports going around that he will run Herman De La Perierre, of Hoschton, at present state superviser of purchases, against William B. Harrison for comptroller general. De La Perierre is just slightly better known than G. B. Carreker, now in the comptroller's office.

The Governor's statement yesterday was taken to strongly indicate that he will run for governor again and that he expects Speaker Rivers to be his opponent. Should he decide on this course it is presumed that he will get up a candidate for the senate, Hugh Howell, Charles D. Redwine or someone else.

If he should decide to run for the senate he then would have to make a choice for governor.

May Run Mrs. Talmadge.

There has been no talk of it generally but those few, very few persons, close to Talmadge seem to think that he may run Mrs. Talmadge for governor. It would be odd, Talmadge running for the senate and Mrs. Talmadge running for governor. But stranger things have happened and Mrs. Talmadge has about the same political appeal, if not a little more, especially for the women, than any other candidate the Governor might get up.

The chairman of the Talmadge state committee and the president of the senate, Mr. Redwine, make no secret of their ambition to run for governor. But they also make no secret of the fact that as far as their ambitions are concerned they are controlled by Gene Talmadge. Redwine might be content to run for lieutenant governor if Talmadge himself headed the ticket. He would be motivated in this by a chance that Talmadge might take out after Senator Walter F. George in 1938 and turn the governorship over to him.

Then there are the 10 seats in congress, three places on the public service commission, various and sundry offices to be filled. Talmadge is going to want them all filled by Talmadge friends. The opposition is going to have candidates for them, too. Talmadge will have to carry the big load on his side of the fence. On the other side the load will be distributed.

Talmadge Statement.

Here's Talmade's statement of yesterday:

"For the first time in history Georgia has more than $10,000,000 in hard cash in the banks and in the state vault with no debts.

"They are trying to play lots of politics around this money. I am going to tell you people about it this summer. The gun is going to fire July 4 and some of these boys are going to have to tell you about it after that.

"In the meantime don't let big headlines worry you in the papers of those editors on the pay roll of the New Deal. When the 'straw ballots' go against them they won't even publish that and the Associated Press won't carry anything about that either.

"Be of good cheer. Georgia is in the best shape of any state in the Union and the New Dealers can't wipe that out.

"They finally came to the point and admitted in this morning's papers that the trip to Washington during the legislature was where all the devilment started. I said this about a week ago. It was vehemently denied by the big editors but they got to writing too much and finally it came out."

That Talmadge expects Rivers to be the anti-Talmadge candidate for Governor was shown in this manner.

Sims Attacks Rivers.

Former Senator Walter A. Sims, of Atlanta, who by the way, is listed as a member of the Liberty League and the Southern Committee for Upholding the Constitution, the grass roots organization, called the Governor on the telephone to recall a meeting in Talmadge's office of the 1933 general appropriations. After talking with Sims a minute, Talmadge said:

"Here s the press, give them a statement on that."

Sims then talked to reporters over the phone and told them that in the 1933 appropriations bill conference Rivers had attempted to block passage of the bill. Rivers could not be reached for a statement but his friends countered with the assertion that instead of trying to block a bill he did everything he could to get it passed. And it was passed.

RADIO CHAIN ASSAILED FOR BROWDER ADDRESS

CHICAGO, March 6.—(AP)—Catherine Curtis, national director of Women Investors in America, Inc., protested today in a telegram to the Columbia Broadcasting System that last night's address by Earl Browder, secretary of the communist party, "was a destructive alien attack upon this country and its government."

In her telegram to William Paley, New York, president of the broadcasting company, she requested time on the air "to present women's views on the subject."

N. C. DEMOCRATS SET JUNE 12 FOR MEETING

RALEIGH, N. C., March 6.—(UP) With a battlecry to make new and more democrats, the North Carolina state democratic executive committee in session here tonight voted unanimously to hold the state democratic convention at Raleigh, June 12. County convention will be held May 16 and all precinct meetings May 9. Senator Rivers Johnson, of Duplin county, offered the resolution. More than 160 persons packed the house chamber for the session. There were 95 members of the committee present by proxy.

CLOTHING INSPECTION ORDERED FOR POLICE

Atlanta police today will line up for spring inspection in lightweight summer uniforms to determine what items of last year's raiment will last another year and those that must be replaced by new clothing.

The inspection was announced yesterday in an order by Acting Chief M. A. Hornsby, who at the same time ordered two transfers in the department.

S. B. McGarrity, one-time ace homicide detective, was transferred from guard duty at the jail to patrol duty on the morning watch.

U. G. Oakes was moved from traffic squad to motorcycle duty.

STATE MONEY SUITS WILL BE HEARD TODAY

the courts determine whether Hamilton or Daniel is the legal treasurer. All of the banks have state funds on deposit but since the removal of Hamilton the Governor has revoked their commissions as depositories.

The banks themselves all have declined to permit Daniel to check in or out the funds they have on deposit and when they filed their suits the courts granted them a temporary order restraining Daniel or Carlton Mobley, Governor Talmadge's executive secretary, whom he named state agent in the matter to draw or attempt to draw on the funds.

Daniel followed the peition of the banks with a peitition seeking to force Hamilton to place in his custody $7,400,000 worth of bonds deposited by the depositories with the state to cover any funds placed in the banks.

The Hamilton plea came yesterday in the form of an intervention in which he asked recognition of the court and for the receivership if the court considered such necessary.

Meanwhile the situation was calm at the capitol. Cherokee county, which received $55,000 and Brantley county which received $3,500 were the first two Georgia counties to get paid on their highway certificates. About 20 counties, with a total of more than half a million dollars due them have applied for their funds. F. P. Van Story, secretary-treasurer of the highway board, said yesterday that checks for the balance would be in the mails today. The checks were drawn on banks which have recognized and are doing business with the Talmadge de facto regime in the comptroller general's office and the state treasury.

Advices from outside Atlanta yesterday reported that even superior court judges are having difficulty getting money on their pay checks signed by Daniel. Columbus banks reported that they would not handle a check sent to Judge C. F. McLaughlin and Augusta banks reported that they would not cash a check sent to Judge A. L. Franklin.

Atlanta banks continued to turn back checks drawn in favor of the counties on school funds. All of the checks were simply marked "unpaid." It is understood that the Atlanta banks will handle no state paper whatever until the courts have handed down a decision on the whole matter.

COMPROMISE TAX PLAN ON RESERVES BACKED

means committee, defended the controversial proposals of the President as designed to "redress manifest injustices in our tax system." He added he believed new revenue could be obtained "in a way that will neither impose hardships nor retard recovery and will actually result in a more just tax system."

Present System "Unfair."

Doughton told reporters he thought some arrangement might be worked out for permitting corporations to build up reasonable reserves.

Later, in a radio address he said: "The existing system is unfair and expensive to the majority of stockholders, and majority of corporations. It enriches, or benefits, some corporations and a relatively few large taxpayers. It prevents the small stockholder from receiving a fair annual return on his investment."

Balky demecrats apparently were swinging into line behind the new tax program today.

Even before the house subcommittee had reached the point of action on any of the numerous proposals before it, Chairman Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, of the senate finance committee, was planning to expedite senate consideration of the program.

He said he planned to start hearings soon, although no date has been set, without waiting for the house to pass the projected bill.

The administration has been counting on the levy on undistributed corporated earnings, linked with income taxes on any portions of net income distributed to stockholders, to produce $620,000,000 of additional cash to finance the new farm program and the extra cost of cash payment of the bonus.

The treasury, it was learned, submitted these figures, to the subcommittee, to show how it reached the $620,000,000 net:

Aggregate taxable income of corporations, $8,308,000,000 for the 1936 tax year.

Cash dividends to be paid, $3,540,000,000.

Earnings withheld, $4,768,000,000.

The estimated yield of a tax on withheld earnings, and on earnings distributed to stockholders, plus the normal tax on present dividends was placed at $1,752,000,000.

Loss in revenue from repeal of corporate income tax, capital stock and excess profits taxes estimated at $1,132,000,000.

The net additional income, therefore, would be $620,000,000.

ROOSEVELT CLUB JOINS IN OFFICIAL CAMPAIGN

Organization Turns Over All Records to Manager Marion Allen.

The Georgia Roosevelt Club, an organization launched some months ago to work for the renomination and reelection of the President, yesterday joined forces with Marion H. Allen, campaign manager for the President. Colonel Gerald P. O'Keeffe, secretary to the club, turned over to Mr. Allen all records and county organizations for use in the President's campaign, Colonel O'Keeffe personally put himself at Mr. Allen's disposal throughout the summer.

"We are happy to turn over to Mr. Allen a fine working organization," Colonel O'Keeffe said. "We know the President is going to carry Georgia. The only question from now on is how great will be his majority."

The Georgia Roosevelt Club is headed by R. L. Turner, McDonough banker, who is a member of the Roosevelt campaign committee.

INFLATION WARNING SOUNDED BY BANKER

Investment Association President Outlines Present Conditions.

The nation's economic stability hinges on removal of the impending threat of inflation, Orrin G. Wood, of Boston, president of the Investment Bankers' Association of America last night told about 50 prominent Atlantans assembled at a dinner in his honor. James D. Robinson Jr., Atlanta banker, presided as toastmaster.

Earlier in the day Wood addressed about 100 members of the southern group of the association at a business conference. He was accompanied by Alden H. Little, executive vice president of the association.

"Inflation would be one of the most terrible catastrophes which could happen to us, and we must sell the American public on that idea," Wood asserted. "No matter who goes into power in Washington, there must be no inflation and there must be balanced federal budgets.

Low Interest Cause.

"Low interest rates now current were caused because of the fact that about $3,000,000,000 had accumulated over a period of years, and business did not demand it for credit extensions because businesses and industries were not producing at such a rate that it could use additional funds.

"That fund also was swelled because of the hazards of European investments due to unsettled conditions there. That meant that investors were reluctant to make foreign investments. It is my belief that low interest rates will continue for some time.

"If inflation comes, I do not believe it will be through a currency channel, but rather through an extension of additional credits. All investments of whatever character will be extremely vulnerable if inflation comes. When prices go up unseasonably beyond a fair level of supply and demand, they must come down.

Inflation Will Hurt.

"It is my belief that if inflation does come, it will be because of federal governmental extravagance and the unwillingness of the national government to cut expenses to meet receipts. The average individual will not be benefited by inflation but on the contrary it is my opinion that he will be injured materially.

"If the federal government continues to borrow money to meet budget deficits, and if no check is placed on such a procedure through public opinion, I think inflation will be inevitable. The best way to let the people know what to expect would be to levy taxes to provide funds for federal expenditures.

"There are those who contend that low interest rates encourage spending instead of saving. High taxes discourage saving. Sound investments, however, are good and in the long run will pay the individual. Speculation always is unsound," he said.

Protests Urged.

"Believing that no greater curse could come to this country than inflation, I believe we should attempt to stop it in its inception. If each of us adds his voice in protest, those in power may take proper steps to prevent such a mistake.

"Uncertainty of political actions and continued unsound governmental policies are the only threats to the return of economic stability.

"Stocks and bonds are selling at a relatively high level, and I think real estate too is improving.

"There is still a large accumulation of funds seeking investment, so that the demand for securities should continue to be good. There is still a large amount of refunding to be done that would be advantageous to corporations. Finally, and even more important, the general business outlook is in many respects encouraging, and it is possible that during the course of the year business activity may reach a high enough level to stimulate a demand on the part of corporations for new capital for purposes of business expansion. Of the $2,225,000,000 par value of new corporate issues sold during 1935, only $400,000,000 represented financing to obtain new capital.

"On the other hand, if we take the 10-year period from January 1, 1921, to January 1, 1931, and omit the abnormal years of 1928 and 1929, we find that the average annual corporate financing amounted to almost $4,500,000,000, and of this amount over $3,500,000,000 represented financing to obtain new funds. So, even though 1935 was the best year that the investment banking business has experienced since 1931, you can see that there is still a good deal of room for improvement."

LONDON IS ALARMED BY MYSTERIOUS GAS

LIVERPOOL, Eng., March 6.—(AP)—Thousands in the east and south districts of the city were alarmed tonight by a mysterious gas which swept over an area more than five miles wide.

The smell, which was overpowering, sent children running in terror to their homes. Residents fastened their windows and doors tightly and remained indoors. The gas company denied coal gas was escaping.

Negro's Money Flies.

SELMA, N. C., March 6.—(AP)—You don't have to tell John Harris, 80-year-old negro janitor at a bank here, that money flies. He was sent to the postoffice with a greenback to get some stamps. Crossing the street, a gust of wind blew the bill out of his hands. A sparrow plucked it off the pavement and struggled into the air.

Aids Roosevelt Campaign

FRANK SCARLETT.

FRANK SCARLETT AIDS F. D. R. DRIVE

Russell Campaign Manager in 1932 Now Helping Roosevelt Forces.

Frank Scarlett, of Brunswick, a member of the Roosevelt campaign committee is spending the week-end in Atlanta aiding Campaign Manager Marion H. Allen direct the President's campaign from headquarters in the Henry Grady hotel.

Mr. Scarlett was campaign manager for Senator Richard B. Russell in 1932. G. Ed Maddox, of Rome, who directed the campaign of Charles R. Crisp against Senator Russell, also has been aiding Mr. Allen in directing the headquarters.

Mr. Scarlett reported that sentiment for the President's re-election in south Georgia is overwhelming.

"The President is even stronger in my section than he was in 1932," the Brunswick man said. "The people realize we would still be in the misery of despond were it not for our great leader, and they are going to reward him with an avalance of votes."

DOHERTY OPERATION IN STOCKS REVEALED

against bitter opposition of the utility companies.

Shouse asserted in his speech that the Federal Communications Commission had exceeded its authority in aiding the Black committee in obtaining copies of telegrams sent from Washington between February 1, 1935, and December 1, 1935, and added:

"Governmental Terrorism."

"We are not informed as to whose telegrams were copied. We do not know how many copies were made of each. We do not know whether copies turned over to the Black committee will be published or whether they will be passed on to others and thus form the basis of injury to the senders or recipients.

"But we do know that if this example of governmental terrorism is allowed to go unrebuked and unrepudiated we have seen the end of those rights of privacy and decency which are the distinguishing characteristics of civilized men.

"If your telegrams can be pawed over at will by agents of a partisan political group, what assurance have you that your mail may not be tampered with? What assurance have you that your telephone wires may not be tapped and your conversations reported? What assurance have you that dictaphones may not be placed in your offices or your homes?"

Both Robert Burns, of New York, Cities Service counsel, and Herbert A. Bloomquist took part in telling the lobby committee of the Doherty transaction.

Eight months before the 1929 crash on the stock market, it was testified, Henry L. Doherty, Incorporated, sold 200,000 shares of stocks for $20,500,000. Part of it went to liquidate an indebtedness of $4,500,000 to Henry L. Doherty & Company, which acted as banker for the corporation.

Burns explained that Doherty was in bad health and needed to put his property in a more liquid form. With about $9,000,000 of the proceeds he bought municipal bonds, which Burns described as readily marketable.

Even as he was selling out, company employes were invited to buy stock, a circumstance which prompted Senator Gibson, republican, Vermont, to observe:

"Employes Holding Bag?"

"Wasn't that leaving the employes holding the bag?"

Burns answered that Doherty's life "was despaired of" and that his associates urged him to liquefy his estate "to avoid a forced sale in the event of his death."

But the operation was not completed.

Burns testified later that certain interests, including a bank, sought to get control of the company. Immediately the stockholders called a meeting to discuss the situation. Three attended with a block of voting stock. Doherty was given authority to buy 1,000,000 shares of company voting stock at $1 a share, thus putting him back in the company saddle.

Bloomquist testified briefly that the transaction left Doherty where he was before, in control of the company and with his $20,500,000 receipts from the first sale reduced only to the extent of the $2,800,000 estimated due for income tax.

In his testimony before the committee today, Brobeck testified he was receiving $4,800 a year as a veterans' representative.

CRASH BRINGS CHARGE OF LOTTERY OPERATION

A collision on Pryor street yesterday between a police radio car and another machine in which an officer was injured resulted in the arrest of Henry Smith, of 151 Daisy street, driver of the other automobile, on lottery charges.

Radio Patrolmen A. J. Coppenger, Charles Hale and H. G. Cunningham were responding to a burglar alarm at 172 Pryor street when a car driven by the negro allegedly crashed into them broadside. Patrolman Hale was severely bruised. He was dismissed from Grady hospital after treatment.

The negro was arrested after several lottery books and a few dollars in small change were found in the wrecked car he was driving, police said. He was charged with reckless driving, having an accident and lottery operation.

SESSION OF REICHSTAG IS CALLED BY HITLER

carno pact nor immediately reoccupying the demilitarized Rhineland.

Some diplomats declared Hitler might even offer to return to the League of Nations if the demilitarized zone were to be abolished and under certain other conditions.

It was considered almost certain, however, that the nazi leader would declare in a strong statement that France had violated the Locarno treaty through its action in ratifying the Franco-soviet military assistance pact.

Another possibility was that an invitation might be extended to Great Britain, France, Belgium and Italy for a new conference to review the existing situation under the provision of the treaty guaranteeing mutual security in western Europe.

Sudden Action.

Hitler's move convinced observers that he had again acted with the suddenness for which he had previously demonstrated his fondness, recalling his surprise announcement of a year ago when he disclosed the German rearmament program.

Reports which could not be confirmed said that the reichsfuehrer had called a cabinet meeting prior to the reichstag session to discuss finally the prospective "administrative explanations" to be laid before the parliamentary body.

An official communique, which added to the diplomatic confusion in the German capital, revealed a session of the Prussian state council yesterday. Speakers before the council, who were believed to have discussed national rather than state problems, included:

Hermann Wilhelm Goering, minister without portfolio; Franz Guertner, minister of justice; Hans Frank, minister without portfolio; and Julius Streicher, newspaper publisher and leader of anti-Semitic nazis.

If Hitler should denounce the Locarno treaty on the ground of French violation, his action might entail the possibility of sending troops to the French frontier, some informed sources predicted. Likewise, they said, if the reichsfuehrer has made up his mind to call a new conference on the Locarno pact, he will probably insist that the meeting be held in Berlin.

The government for weeks has been known to be considering a break—either positive or moderate—from the provisions of the treaty.

Nazi left-wingers were understood to have counselled the extreme step—even with the possibility of a plebiscite to determine the future course in the Rhineland—basing their suggestion on the hope that neither France nor England would take drastic action.

The government and the army, however, have advocated a milder course with the result being that the situation has resolved itself into a contest between the radicals and the moderates and with only Hitler himself knowing the answer.

FLANDIN SAYS ENGLAND MUST PLEDGE SUPPORT

PARIS, March 6.—(AP)—A possible weakening of the Locarno treaty through German attacks caused Foreign Minister Pierre-Etienne Flandin to warn the cabinet tonight there might be "grave consequences" unless Great Britain pledges France unrestricted military support.

Flandin, on the eve of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's declaration concerning the treaty, said Great Britain had failed to give a satisfactory answer to his request of a week ago.

Later the senate air committee discussed a proposal to unify control of France's war, navy and air ministries.

De Facto Occupation.

France is convinced Germany has already secretly violated the Rhineland demilitarized zone and is wondering what to do when the violation becomes official.

Great Britain, Italy and Belgium have pledged France military aid if Germany violates the zone, under the Locarno treaty. General Andre Neissel told French military leaders, however, Reichsfuehrer Hitler already has 40,000 soldiers in the area and French officials declare France can only hope to make the best of a bad bargain when Berlin "publicly announces" military reoccupation of the Rhineland.

While Foreign Minister Flandin told deputies France will "in no case" admit nazi military forces in the 20-mile strip east of the Rhine, many French officials believe the government is ready to negotiate.

Three Possibilities.

Diplomats have considered three possibilities for French action:

1. France could confine her action to formal protests to the League of Nations as she did when Hitler decreed conscription.
2. France might allow Germany to occupy the zone and demand Great Britain, Italy and Belgium substitute strict pledges of military assistance for the obligations under Locarno and on condition Germany subscribed to a pact drastically curbing her armaments.
3. France might go to war by fully invoking the Locarno treaty and in calling upon the League of Nations to vote full sanctions against Germany.

France will refuse, officials say, to "pay" Germany for not violating the zone. There have been reports Berlin was ready to reaffirm the demilitarized zone on condition Germany be given colonies or other advantages.

APARTMENT BUILDING RAVAGED BY FLAMES

WELCH, W. Va., March 6.—(AP)—Fifty persons escaped and firemen rescued four others today as flames swept through a four-story apartment building.

The building, which was constructed in 1923 at a cost of $110,000, was left a mass of ruins.

Volunteer firemen pushed ladders up to the third floor and threw ropes into the fourth-floor apartment where Mrs. M. A. Littleton and a seven-year-old daughter were trapped.

After climbing into the apartment they lowered the mother and daughter to safety and led her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hurley, down a rear fire escape.

OFFICIAL PREDICTS BUSINESS INCREASE

Cities Jump in Activity; Attacks Roosevelt's New Tax Program.

A prediction that 1936 will show even greater business increases than those of last year was made by Charles E. Hodges, of Boston, president of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company, who was in Atlanta yesterday.

A jump of 30 per cent in his organization's business in the southeastern section of the United States in 1935 over the previous year has put a much brighter hue on the outlook for next year, according to Mr. Hodges.

"Business is very satisfactory all over the country and the state of Georgia has not been behind other sections in showing remarkable increases," he declared.

Mr. Hodges predicted a great future for the city of Atlanta, declaring that for its size it had the most metropolitan atmosphere of any city in the United States which he has visited.

Objecting to the tax plan proposed by President Roosevelt to pay the bonus and farm relief bills out of the coffers of large corporations, Mr. Hodges said he foresaw "dire results" if the plan were adopted.

"I feel that such a program would be a detriment to the progress of recovery and would result in tax avoidances and hence much less revenue than it is supposed to raise," he said.

Mr. Hodges will return to Boston today.

EMPRESS OF JAPAN REACHES AGE OF 33

Observance of BirthdayCancelled Because of Mourning of Assassinations.

TOKYO, March 6.—(AP)—Happily surrounded by her growing family, the Empress Nagako reached the age of 33 today.

Because the empire was still in mourning for the victims of assassins in last week's military insurrection, all formal observance of the anniversary was cancelled.

Although regarded with genuine affection and reverence by her subjects, since she shares with Emperor Hirohito the divinity which Japan attributes to its reigning house, the empress recently has been little in the public eye.

The responsibilities of her increasing family and the cares of frequent childbirth—she has borne six children in the 12 years of her marriage—have deepened for her the seclusion that surrounds the "line of the sun goddess."

Five of her children are living. The second, Princess Hisa, died in infancy in March, 1928.

For the last two years the imperial home life has centered in the little crown prince, Akihito Tsugo-No-Miya, whose birth December 23, 1933, was an occasion of national rejoicing.

TAMPA BANKER'S BODY DISCOVERED

C. H. Clewis Found in Mobile River; Foul Play Possibility Seen.

MOBILE, Ala., March 6.—(AP)—A theory of suicide was studied by Mobile authorities tonight after the body of a man tentatively identified as C. H. Clewis, vice president of the First Savings & Trust Company, of Tampa, Fla., was found in the muddy waters of Mobile river early this morning.

Mysterious circumstances of the man's death, however, caused officials to investigate the possibility of foul play.

The condition of the body, found trussed with a rope and with a 10-pound piece of iron attached to it, prevented an immediate autopsy, Dr. H. S. J. Walker, county coroner, said. Walker predicted it would be two days before he could make a thorough study of the body.

Meanwhile, Tampa dispatches said close business associates of Clewis reported he had been despondent over domestic affairs and had asked leave of absence from the bank "to get away from it all."

NAVAL CONFERENCE IS MAKING PROGRESS

LONDON, March 6.—(AP)—The international naval conference made a sudden burst of progress today when its technical committee adopted the American formula for battleship limitations.

In conference circles, the opinion was expressed that Japan and Italy would accept the plan.

The limitations continue the 35,000-ton maximum for battleships, but cut the maximum size of their guns from 16 to 14 inches if the signatories of the Washington treaty agree. The signatories were the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy, and only Japan is not represented at this conference, her delegates having left.

F. D. R. JR. IS 'DARLING' TO GIRL HE WELCOMES

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., son of the President, was called "darling" by an enthusiastic young lady aboard the liner Carinthia today, and he made a point of explaining it away—they had been friends since childhood.

He boarded the liner from a coast guard cutter at quarantine to meet the girl, Miss Olivia Morgan, with two others returning from a trip to Nassau, Miss Betty Morris and Miss Ethel du Pont.

Miss du Pont is the daughter of Eugene du Pont, of Wilmington, Del., critic of the New Deal.

YUGOSLAV DEPUTY SHOOTS AT PREMIER

coat dusty and rumpled, arose from behind the desk and tried to quiet the disorder.

After a half-hour's interruption, the premier—his political prestige apparently heightened—continued his discussion of the budget and foreign affairs.

The incident was the latest of many disorderly scenes in the Yugoslav chamber. On several occasions a group of about 100 opposition deputies have stopped proceedings by slamming the tops of their desks, throwing ink bottles and even attacking government deputies with their fists.

Today, many of the opposition members decided not to take their places on the floor of the chamber. Arnantovich, one of them, followed the proceedings from the press gallery. He repeatedly shouted questions at the premier. Finally Stoyadinovich invited him to the floor. He took a seat near the speaker's rostrum.

Arnantoyich drew a pistol, but a deputy mannged to strike his arm and the shots, fired in quick succession, went wild. Several women in the diplomatic gallery screamed.

Another outbreak threatened after quiet had been restored. An opposition deputy tried to congratulate the premier on his escape, but he was interrupted by hoots from other opposition deputies. Stoyadinovich silenced the disturbance and proceeded to explain that Yugoslavia remains true to the League of Nations and will observe its obligations as a member of the little entente.

The parliamentary opposition has been bitter over the premier's refusal to order new elections and revise the lection law.

Th present parliament was elected last May when Dogoljub Yevtich was premier, and a majority are considered followers of Yevtich. They subsequently decided to support Stoyadinovich, but the opposition contends that few would hold their seats if a new election were held.

TWO DEPUTIES REPORTED HELD

VIENNA, March 6.—(AP)—Reports reaching Vienna today said two deputies had been arrested at Belgrade and four others named in a warrant as police attempted to determine whether an assault on Premier Milan Stoyadinovich was a plot against the government.

The reports said former Premier Yeftich protested the arrests, but police disregarded his objections and continued their investigation.

Communication with Belgrade by telegraph and telephone from Vienna was subject to prolonged delays.

DECATUR'S COUNCIL ORDERS BOND WORK

Two Projects Will Be Started Immediately; School To Be Built.

Decatur city council last night gave authorization for work to begin immediately on two projects under the city's recent $80,000 bond issue, which was validated in DeKalb superior court before Judge James C. Davis.

The projects are the improvement of the water and sewer system and the construction of a new schoolhouse.

Council also adopted a $300,000 budget for 1936 and levied a tax rate of $1.50 per hundred, 75 cents to go to the schools, 50 cents to the bond sinking fund, and 25 cents to the general fund.

Scott Candler, chairman of the city commission, presided at the meeting.

FARMERS ARE URGED TO SUPPORT FARM ACT

the Supreme Court, or that exceedingly Supreme Court—public opinion—can find no fault with us.

"I want to leave with you the conviction that what we do we do in line with the general welfare of our country. I hope as you go ahead you will manifest the same spirit you manifested under AAA.

"Under the old act, the south led the way. If the south had not, I am not so sure that the other parts of the country would have followed so quickly."

Order From Confusion.

Comparing the farmers' meeting and their efforts with the original constitutional convention, Wallace said he believed the farmers would bring order from confusion.

"If we attempted to find an answer for all our problems," Wallace said, "we'd get little done in 1936. But if I have sensed the temper of the men present, we are going to do the job."

"We don't want this new act imperiled by the Supreme Court," Wallace asserted, warning the farmers that production control as such had vanished.

Turning his remarks to the cotton situation, Wallace continued:

"We can't proceed as definitely to raise cotton prices as we did under the old act. But when the states come into the new program, we can work on soil preservation and increasing the national income.

"I'm not so sure but that better farm income is a more desirable goal than better farm prices, which were part of the aim of the old act."

With the nation expected to turn 30,000,000 acres of commercial crop land to soil conserving purposes in 1936, Wallace said, the south should contribute 12,000,000 to 13,000,000 acres, of which 11,000,000 acres should be cotton land.

Conservation Sought.

"We may not be able to do everything we'd like to do to have the price of cotton as high as we'd like to have it," Wallace said, "but we are working for soil conservation.

"If we can divert 11,000,000 acres of cotton and 2,000,000 other acres into grasses and other soil conserving crops this year, the situation for the future of the south should have tremendous significance."

Wallace urged election by farmers of membership to county control committees, but cautioned the delegates that pay for the committeemen would have to come from the general appropriation.

He said he believed the eight farmer committees working on detail of the program should have answers for many of the problems by tomorrow night.

Real Problem.

At a brief press conference, Wallace said the "question of seed for planting of 30,000,000 acres of soil conserving crops this year is a real problem." He indicated a shortage in alfalfa seed may cause difficulty.

Except for his brief extemporaneous address, Wallace remained behind closed doors, conferring with delegates and working on the program. He said his reports from the Chicago regional conference indicated delegates there were "making about the same progress" as those here. Wallace will attend the Chicago conference tomorrow. He said his plans for addressing that meeting were incompleted.

The conference here will adjourn after receiving final committee reports tomorrow.

Formal announcement of the actual details of the new program, officials indicated, will be made in Washington after conclusion of regional meetings at Salt Lake City and New York city Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Linder Hits Wallace.

Tom Linder, Georgia's secretary of agriculture, here in connection with the regional farm meeting, told interviewers that the soil conservation program outlined yesterday "is better than the old AAA" and the Bankhead act, because "there is no compulsion in this law."

"It is up to Secretary Wallace to say what he is going to do," Linder, a member of the cabinet of Governor Eugene Talmadge, New Deal foe, declared. "So far, it is just camouflage. It is just as strong or just as weak as Mr. Wallace, because the law puts it all in his hands.

"Any farmer who follows a well-balanced farm program would be entitled to benefits under this act, if Mr. Wallace sees fit to give it this construction. But all the inequalities as to acreage allotments under the old AAA and Bankhead law will be continued under this new program, as the same base acreage will be used, according to announcements by speakers yesterday."

Linder qualified his remark that the new program is "better than the old AAA" by saying that "anything is better than the AAA and the Bankhead act," and said "the only thing the new law provides is that Mr. Wallace is given authority to spend $500,000,000 in such manner as he sees fit."

ILLINOIS PLAN ADOPTED FOR SUBSIDY PAYMENTS

CHICAGO, March 6.—(AP)—An important step toward implementing the new soils conservation-subsidy farm program in the corn belt was taken today with committee approval for the "Illinois plan" of benefit payments.

The benefit payment committee of the regional conference of farmers from 12 midwestern states voted 12 to 4 for the "Illinois" plan, although the "Ohio" plan won support from Kansas, Indiana and Missouri delegates.

Under the proposal which got the committee's recommendation, the acreage to be converted to grasses or legumes—soil rebuilding crops—would be computed for each county. Payments would be made farmers who increased their acreage of the desired crops from the soil improvement account. Farmers already raising more than the county average of such crops would also receive payments.

General approval for the broad outlines of the new federal plan continued to be voiced by delegates to the conference.

L. J. Taber, master of the National Grange, said: "I am optimistic that a plan of greater service to agriculture can be worked out."

W. F. Settlem, former president of the Indiana Farm Bureau, who was chairman of the Washington farm conference held after the AAA was declared unconstitutional, said: "This plan will not get as much cash into the hands of the farmer as the AAA but it will help the country as a whole and in the long run is a better program."

COTTON TAX CHECKS TO BE MAILED SOON

CHICAGO, March 6.—(AP)—W. F. Callander, asistant administrator of the AAA, said today that mailing of checks for $215,000,000 still to be paid under the invalidated farm act would be started next week. The administration hopes to have all payments made by July 1, he said.

Of the total, 1,125,000 checks were due corn and hog growers, 750,000 to cotton growers, 700,000 to wheat farmers, 400,000 to tobacco raisers and smaller numbers to sugar beet and peanut growers, said Callander.

BRITAIN WILL PROTEST RED CROSS BOMBINGS

sleepless night as it prepared for bombardment tomorrow.

Events creating panic here included:

Intensification of Italy's aerial war against Ethiopia on all fronts and deep into territory behind the lines.

Bombardment of Debra Marcos, capital of Gojjam province, with "very heavy" casualties.

The death of Major Gerald Achilles Burgoyne, British head of the Ethiopian Red Cross, as he fled with retreating warriors from the northern front.

Rising indignation over the bombing of a British ambulance unit at Korem where 19 persons, including hospital patients, were slain.

Unable to evacuate Addis Ababa with its population of 80,000 but fearful that the destruction wrought at Debra Marcos will be duplicated here, authorities prepared to cope with a possible rain of death from the skies.

Thousands slept in the hills tonight while criers tramped the streets repeating instructions as to where to flee in event of bombardment.

Addis Ababa's fears were intensified because today a tri-motored Italian plane droned over the city on an observation flight.

News of the bombing of Debra Marcos, capital of one of Ethiopia's most ancient kingdoms, added to the panic. The town was reported a shambles.

Many believed the appearance of the plane today constituted a veiled threat of what Addis Ababa may expect if Ethiopia should fail to accept whatever peace terms may be stipulated by Italy.

It was believed that Saturday morning would find the streets and markets deserted.

Emperor Haile Selassie telegraphed the League of Nations protesting "the deliberate and barbarous bombardment of the British ambulance unit at Korem by Italian airplanes."

Although he was 61, Burgoyne, well known fox huntsman in England and Ireland, came to Addis Ababa in November to offer his services to Emperor Haile Selassie. He left a wife and three children in England.

He was placed in command of the Waldia Ethiopian Red Cross unit which Italian planes bombed on January 16 with 14 dead and 35 wounded. He escaped injury in that bombardment.

The appearance of the huge Caproni observation plane over Addis Ababa today, gave the capital its first sight of an Italian plane and revived fears that bombardment of the seat of the Ethiopian government is imminent.

While the plane circled overhead, apparently taking photographs, excited soldiers, manning machine guns and anti-aircraft guns, fired on the plane.

Apparently it was not hit. During three circling flights it remained at a high altitude.

GENEVA HEARS ETHIOPIA HIT RED CROSS BOMBING

GENEVA, March 6.—(AP)—The Ethiopian government protested strongly to the League of Nations today against the alleged Italian bombing of a British ambulance station in northern Ethiopia.

Foreign Minister Bellaten Gueta Herouy, of Ethiopia, asserted in a telegram to the League that Italian bombs killed three persons near Guoram, south of Amba Alagi.

"At Addis Ababa, the government stated four British subjects, including Major G. A. Burgoyne, were killed.

Describing the alleged Italian bombardment, Gueta Herouy declared that "on March 4 about noon, the Italian airplane S-62, after bombing the open town of Quoram and killing noncombatants, proceeded toward the British Red Cross ambulance three kilometers from the nearest military encampment."

"After circling it nine times at a very low altitude," the telegram said, "it dropped no fewer than 40 large bombs, killing three wounded men under treatment at the ambulance, further seriously wounding four others, destroying materials and damaging three lorries."

Premier Mussolini, an Italian spokesman at Geneva indicated, might answer the League's appeal for peace negotiations within the League's framework tomorrow after a meeting of the fascist grand council. Emperor Haile Selassie has accepted the plan unreservedly.

The subcommittee of experts examining the technical details of application of sanctions spent today discussing various technical matters including the status of Italian goods processed in other countries.

GREAT BRITAIN SEEKS FACTS ABOUT TREATY

LONDON, March 6.—(AP)—Great Britain, pressed by France for assurances of support against possible German aggression, temporized today by moving to obtain the real facts in Berlin and Rome as to whether Germany and Italy intend to denounce the Locarno treaty.

Britain was represented by informed persons as reluctant to take any step which would give Germany any excuse for disavowing the pact which guaranteed the peace in western Europe—especially as Britain has seen no overt act committed by Germany.

The British, reliable sources said, probably will continue to play for time until the present unknown factors are made clear.

France Seeks Right To Operate Trans-Atlantic Airplane Service

Paris Joins European Competition; Planning To Make Test Flights During Summer; British Experiments, German Companies Previously Intimated.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP)—France today joined European competition for the right to operate a trans-Atlantic air service to the United States, exchanging formalities with this government which cleared the way for possible experimental flights this year.

British and German companies previously had signified their intention of making such tests this summer.

After these experiments, a decision will be made on which country or countries is to become the European terminus of the proposed airline—to be operated jointly by private companies here and abroad. Geographical factors and the desirability of facilities offered probably will figure in the final choice.

A French mission composed of representatives of private steamship and aviation companies received formal assurances at a meeting today with the official American committee on international aviation that this government would grant the necessary landing rights for experimental flights this year in return for reciprocal treatment by France. This was said to have been agreed upon.

Present at the meeting were representatives of two American aviation companies which have evinced interest in the establishment of a trans-Atlantic service—Juan T. Trippe, president of Pan-American Airways, and Thomas A. Knowles, representing the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation, of Akron, Ohio.

The official announcement of today's conference did not say definitely that actual experimental flights would be made this year from France, but merely that the requisite permission had been granted if they were decided upon.

In other quarters, however, it was indicated that French interests contemplated such tests this year, probably utilizing a huge flying boat of the same type used in regular service between France and South America over the South Atlantic.

The official announcement said, however:

"The results of these flights are looked forward to with great confidence and it is hoped that they will lead to a faster and more efficient means of communication between the two countries."

Only the most general discussion of routes was said to have been held at the meeting, but it was understood the French favored experimenting with both the "great circle" course followed by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh in his flight from New York to Paris and a route via the Azores.

Neither was it indicated officially whether either of the American companies represented at the meeting now contemplate co-operating in the proposed experiments. It was known, however, that the French hoped to obtain the collaboration of Pan-American in any regular service that might be established.

Pan-American officials have indicated an intention to participate in experimental flights to England with Imperial Airways, Ltd., the British company, and routes for these by both Newfoundland and Ireland, and Bermuda and the Azores have figured in tentative discussions.

The German Lufthansa line is understood to be planning to inaugurate tests soon from Germany to the United States via the Azores.

Members of the French mission, who have been traveling in this country for a month, were brought to today's meeting with the inter-departmental committee on civil international aviation by Ambassador Andre De Laboulaye and Major Norbert Champseur, air attache of the French embassy.

They were Jean Schneider, secretary general of the compagnie air France, representing the consolidated French air lines; Morin De Linclays and Edmond Lanier, representing the Compagnie Transatlantique Generale (French line), a steamship company.

'SWANKY' N. Y. HOTELS ENGULFED BY STRIKERS

in support of the service workers' strike.

The walkout threatened to spread to Newark, N. J., next week. Robert Everitt, New Jersey representative of the Building Service Union, said between 300 and 350 workers in 40 downtown Newark ofice buildings would strike Monday unless they received wage increases.

In addition to the hotel district, Manhattan strike leaders pressed their efforts to tie up service in the Washington Heights and Harlem areas.

The union said 2,500 workers had quit their jobs in 600 Harlem buildings. No attempt was made to estimate the extent of the walkout in Washington Heights.

Fashionable Hotels Hit.

Among the hotels affected were the 42-story Barbizon-Plaza, the fashionable Hotel Weyland, the Windsor, Wyndham, Peter Stuyvesant, Alden and the Murray hotel.

Chris Houlihan, head of the union's hotel division, said employes might be called out of the Waldorf-Astoria tomorrow.

Despite a marked drop in disorders, police continued on the alert with 2,401 patrolmen and 113 sergeants assigned to special duty.

The national guard has several plans of action ready in case of emergency, it became known, but Adjutant General Walter G. Robinson said the possibility of their being used appeared "very remote."

Strike headquarters awaited the arrival of international union officers from Chicago bearing "unlimited funds" for the fight.

Four men were arrested in the Bronx, charged with smashing furniture in an apartment house lobby and punching the superintendent.

Patrick Durkin, 29, was held in $10,000 bail on a charge of attempted arson. He was accused of setting two fires in the basement of the apartment house he was hired to guard. Police quoted him as saying he wanted to "create a little excitement."

Three striking elevator operators were held in $500 bail each on a charge of assaulting a replacement worker at London Terrace, world's largest apartment development.

Thirty-two business tenants of a lower east side office building were arrested when they joined a picket line in front of the structure. Police, declaring they refused to move on when so ordered, charged them with disorderly conduct.

3,000 ILLINOIS MINERS RETURN TO WORK TODAY

HARRISBURG, Ill., March 6.—(AP)—Progressive mine workers' union leaders late today ordered a termination of the protest "holiday" called in Saline county because of the reopening of Peabody Coal Mine No. 23 with united mine workers.

The more than 3,000 progressive miners who have not worked the last two days were ordered to return to their jobs.

CITY HALL GUARDED FROM SCHOOL STRIKERS

ALAMEDA, Cal., March 6.—(AP)—Two factions guarded Alameda's city hall today as the third day of a high school student strike churned up conflicting rumors.

Some said citizens planned to seize the city government, others that Mayor Hans W. Roebke was plotting a coup against the police department.

Reports Roebke planned to declare an emergency caused District Attorney Earl Warren to warn the mayor it might "result in bloodshed." Warren told Roebke the 'parties responsible" for such action would be held 'accountable to the law."

Roebke told Warren he had no intention of making such a move but more than a score of city employes went on "guard duty" at the mayor's office.

Previously, Roebke's city manager, B. Ray Fritz, had ordered Police Chief Vern Smith to enforce the state compulsory school attendance law against 1,400 high school students on strike because the city administration dismissed School Superintendent William G. Padden.

The striking students inspired a mass meeting last night at which citizens went on record for a recall movement against Roebke and two city councilmen.

Fritz told Smith to "cope with the situation" or the city manager would "take the necessary steps to protect" the school children.

In another section of the city hall, Police and Fire Commissioner Lee Cavanaugh, an elective officer, not ordinarily subject to the mayor's orders, and Chief Smith marshaled extra policemen with shot guns and tear gas bombs. The weapons later disappeared.

Cavanaugh and Smith avowedly were on the alert against any possible attempted seizure of the police power.

The high school struggled along with two "superintendents" and not more than 600 students attending classes.

Einar Sorenson, appointed by the Roebke administration to the superintendency, ordered Paden to take over a seventh-grade class. Paden refused and fruitlessly ordered Sorenson to go back to the grammar school whence he came. They broke about even in getting mail and telephone calls.

WORKS RELIEF PROBE IS PROPOSED BY G. O. P.

Limitation of Any New Succor Fund to Billion Also Demanded.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP)—A republican demand for a senate investigation of the administration's work relief activities was drafted today in one corner of the capitol, while from another came a democratic demand that any new relief appropriation be limited to $1,000,000,000.

On still another front, Senator Holt, youthful West Virginia democrat, asserted he would vote for a senate investigation if WPA "whitewashed" his charges that political considerations have influenced the West Virginia works relief administration.

Holt made his statement after disclosing that his office desk had been "jimmied" during his recent absence from Washington to conduct his own personal investigation of West Virginia WPA activities.

Police and fingerprint experts, Holt said, had examined the desk, but found no fingerprints. Nothing was taken, he added, because he had removed all valuable papers.

Full Investigation.

The disclosure was made elsewhere that Senator Steiwer, republican, Oregon, has drafted a resolution calling for a full senate investigation of all expenditures under the $4,800,000,000 work relief fund voted by congress last year.

On the opposite side of the capitol, Chairman Buchanan, democrat, Texas, of the house appropriations committee, asserted that new funds for relief should be limited to $1,000,000,000.

"The most I have ever said I would stand for was $1,500,000,000," he said, "and I have always said it ought not to be over $1,000,000,000."

President Roosevelt and his aids continued separate studies of the nation's relief load to see how much will be needed after next July 1.

Conference Necessary.

Mr. Roosevelt told reporters today that at least one more conference would be necessary before a decision could be reached and a message sent to congress. In some quarters it has been estimated that the amount would be $1,000,000,000 if a six-month program is adopted or $2,000,000,000 for a full year.

It was Senator Vandenberg, republican, Michigan, who disclosed that Steiwer had prepared a resolution calling for investigation of the whole WPA and PWA programs.

Vandenberg himself suggested last night that a nation-wide inquiry should be made of reports that politicians are collecting campaign funds from relief workers. He said today, however, he planned no further immediate action.

Steiwer declined to comment on his resolution, but it was understood he was withholding its introduction in the belief such an investigation could be made by the committee recently set up at the instance of Senator Byrd, democrat, Virginia, with himself as chairman, to study all government bureaus and agencies to see if their functions overlap and should be abolished.

The Byrd committee has not yet held its initial meeting. Senator McNary, republican, Oregon, the minority leader, was named on the committee, but has indicated he would not serve. Steiwer may take his place.

BAN ON METHODISTS LIFTED BY WARSAW

WARSAW, March 6.—(AP)—The Polish government today lifted a suspension on the American Methodist Society in this country, acknowledging the ban was applied through a "misunderstanding."

The society, supported by the Methodist Episcopal church, South, of the United States, was suspended last month after Polish authorities had gone over the organization's books and said they found "certain irregularities," such as transfer of funds to America without "sufficient explanation."

A school and mission in Warsaw and an orphanage outside the city were affected by the order.

KNIFE EMPLOYED TO HALT GIGGLES

Restful Sleep Follows Abdominal Operation on Laughing Girl.

WESTON, W. Va., March 6.—(AP)—Teresa Hawkins slept restfully tonight after an operation intended to stop a laughing attack that has continued for nine days.

Dr. J. E. Offner, superintendent of the Weston State hospital, performed the operation for a pelvic disorder Later he said:

"I believe it will greatly improve her condition and cure her."

The 18-year-old brunet business college student began laughing while watching a serious show in a theater.

Miss Hawkins slept late in the day from the effects of the anaesthetic.

"She had an operation for appendicitis a few years ago which left a lot of adhesions and they have caused her great trouble. I think it had a lot to do with her nervous condition that brought about this laughing spell."

Veterans Charge Radicalism Is Aim Of Education Group To Meet Here

Propaganda To Inculcate Soviet Ideals in Minds of Atlanta Teachers Is Woven Into Program, Say Service Men in Protest.

Propaganda to promote disloyalty to the American form of government among public school teachers of Atlanta is woven into the program of the Southeastern conference of the Progressive Education Association, scheduled to meet in Atlanta next week, it was charged yesterday by officials of two of Atlanta's outstanding World War veteran organizations.

Official intervention was demanded of Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of the Atlanta public schools, councilmen and members of the board of education to block the plans to have the teachers addressed by alleged advocates of communism on the program.

The demands of the veterans were in the form of a letter to Sutton from William L. VanDyke, commander; Marcus Beck Jr., Post No. 3027, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and A. L. Henson, chairman of the Fifth District Americanism committee of the American Legion. The letter was handed to Dr. Sutton in person by Commander Van Dyke and Chairman Henson.

Two Irk Veterans.

The wrath of the veterans is directed against Harold Ruggs and George S. Counts. Anti-patriotic literature, prepared by Counts, is to be distributed at the convention, it was charged by Chairman Henson last night, and Ruggs has several spots on the program which is scheduled for Friday and Saturday of next week. Counts is not listed as a speaker on the program, but Henson declared last night, that Rugg is his mouthpiece.

The letter to Sutton said:

"It appears that Dr. Ralph E. Wager, professor of education at Emory University and chairman of the Progressive Education Association, is going to have a convention in this community on or about March 12 and is urging and soliciting the attendance of all our public school teachers to hear such speakers as Harold Rugg and George S. Counts, together with other speakers of their caliber."

Another paragraph read:

"We call on you not only to condemn the inviting of such men as Harold Rugg and George S. Counts to speak to the teachers of this community but to put on notice for the future that such men with such teachings and doctrines will not be tolerated in this, the Gate City of the South, but in its stead, teach Americanism as defined and promulgated by the leaders of those who have proven the truth of their definition."

Association Criticized.

In addition to an attack on the patriotism of Rugg and Counts, the letter quoted this attack on the Progressive Education Association itself.

"May we quote a partial report of the "Red Network," by Elizabeth Dilling, as to what this Progressive Association is?

"Says Francis Ralston, November 20, 1933:

"'We learn from yesterday's papers that the Progressive Education Association (pink, yellow and red) is to hold a meeting on November 24 and 25 and that such people as—Norman Thomas, socialist candidate, communist sympathizer and member of the American Civil Liberties Union national committee; William H. Kilpatrick of pink fame; Harry Overstreet, exposed in the Lusk report on revolutionary radicalism (the Lusk report being a most valuable and complete 4,450-page, four-volume report of the joint legislative committee of the state of New York investigating seditious activities, a report based on indisputable documentary evidence made by the committee which Senator Clayton R. Lusk headed, has made available the background and information concerning the red movement—); F. Ernest Johson, of the Federal council of churches and frequently exposed, and Reinhold Neibuhr, member of the openly communist National Council For the Protection of Foreign-Born Workers, are to be speakers. The release just issued by John Day Company, Inc., leaves litle doubt as to the actual pro-revolutionary character of the Progressive Education Association (from report of advisory associates). Its manifesto is written by a committee and entitled 'A Call to the Teachers of the Nation'."

According to the letter to Sutton:

"Harold Rugg, who is scheduled to make three addresses at the Atlanta meeting, is listed in 'The Red Network,' by Elizabeth Dilling, as follows:

"Columbia University professor; broadcast speaker of December 16, 1933, for Socialist League for Independent Political Action; his growing pro-soviet eulogies in another speech are quoted at length in Communist Daily Worker, December 5, 1933 (Mike Gold's column): 'Today 6,000,000 young Russians in the Communist Youth Organization are making a fine constructive contribution to the construction of a new social order. Here is war psychology of dramatic action which is so dear to youth set to the great building tasks of peace.'"

Atlanta citizens are being asked by the leaders of the veterans' organizations to join in a movement to prevent "such men speaking and teaching their doctrines to our youths and teachers."

LUPESCU DIETING TO RETAIN CAROL

Swelling Waistline Perils Regal Rumanian Romance.

VIENNA, March 6.—(UP)—Red-haired Mme. Magda Lupescu's slowly increasing waistline may finally break up her long romance with King Carol, of Rumania, it was learned tonight.

According to reports, this fascinating woman who has been the king's favorite for many years, has started an intensive slimming course to hold the affections of her royal lover.

Rumania's leading statesmen have endeavored for the past 10 years to shatter this bond, which gave King Carol innumerable vicissitudes, including temporary loss of the throne.

Mme. Lupescu, it was reported, reached to 150 pounds during her recent trip to Paris with Carol because she neglected to obey her strict dietary rules necessary. She wants to reduce to 120, a good Rumanian standard.

Her friends say she has become much plumper during the past few months but she still is a "charmingly lovely red-head."

NEGRO MUSIC SPONSOR PASSES IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP)—Rubin Goldmark, 63, a leading composer and music teacher, died here today. His most popular composition was the "Negro Rhapsody."

One of the foremost proponents of negro music, Goldmark lifted negro melody to the concert sphere. Goldmark served as head of the department of composition at the Juilliard school.

ENGLAND'S AIR FORCE SEEKS LARGER BUDGET

Britain To Begin Experiment on Transatlantic Lines in Summer.

LONDON, March 6.—(AP)—Great Britain's air force will ask parliament to increase its budget for 1936 by 13,015,000 pounds (about $65,000,000) over last year because of special expenditures "in connection with the Italo-Ethiopian dispute," it was announced officially today.

Viscount Swinton, secretary for air, said an appropriation of 39,000,000 pounds (about $195,000,000) will be sought. The proposed increase makes the 1936 budget approximately 1 1-2 times that of 1935.

Viscount Swinton also disclosed that Imperial Airways, subsidized by the government, will begin experimental flights this summer looking toward opening of a trans-Atlantic airline.

The air force estimates contained an item of 20,000 pounds for aid to these experiments, and another 75,000 pounds for possible contributions required in connection with the establishment of necessary seaplane and land plane bases.

Lord Swinton asked a grant of 9,000 pounds, half the projected annual subsidy to Imperial Airways, for a Bermuda-New York air service to be operated jointly by Imperial Airways and Pan-American Airways, which is expected to start this summer.

The air secretary's memoranda outlined plans for completing 1,500 first-line aircraft in 123 squadrons and for raising the air force personnel to 50,000 officers and men.

IL DUCE'S TERMS FOR PEACE VOICED

Sanctions Must Be Lifted; Rome Will Not Relinquish Lands.

ROME, March 6.—(AP)—Some informed Rome sources asserted tonight that Italy would listen to peace terms with Ethiopia "only if sanctions are lifted."

Neither will Italy relinquish any territory which its armies have conquered, these persons said, expressing belief that Premier Mussolini was unlikely to permit the question of territory to enter any peace talks.

In official circles the opinion was voiced that some heavily qualified pronouncement on the League of Nations peace proposals might issue from tomorrow's cabinet session.

In these quarters the view was expressed that Emperor Haile Selassie's acceptance of the League proposal for conciliation offered no help for peace. Italians considered ludicrous Ethiopia's demand that hostilities cease during conversations seeking peace.

MARK A. THOMAS SR., NEGRO LEADER, DIES

Mark A. Thomas Sr., prominent Atlanta negro and for many years former chief clerk of city distributors in the Atlanta postoffice, died yesterday morning at his home, 582 Auburn avenue, N. E., at the age of 70 years.

Beware The Cough
From a common cold
That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements common to many remedies; such as, Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, fluid extract of Licorice Root, fluid extract of Wild Cherry and Menthol, but also has fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect and, most important of all, Beechwood Creosote is perfectly blended with all of these to reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Creomulsion can be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children with remarkable results.

Thousands of doctors use Creomulsion in their own families as well as in their practice knowing how Creomulsion aids nature to soothe the inflamed membranes and heal the irritated tissues as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion top for coughs because you get a real dose of Creosote in Creomulsion, emulsified so that it is palatable, digestible and potent for going to the very seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations and especially those stubborn ones that start with a common cold and hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund every cent of your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Don't worry through another sleepless night—phone or go get a bottle of Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

50 PER CENT OF RUM BOOTLEGGED—REPORT

Civic Federation Agent Tells Senate Group Tax System Is Faulty.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP)—Testimony — immediately challenged by the treasury—that the government and states were losing hundreds of millions of dollars in taxes and the people forced to pay exorbitant prices through the present method of collecting liquor taxes was received today by a senate finance subcommittee.

Eugene Greenhut, of New York, a member of the executive council of the National Civic Federation, told the committee an exhaustive study by his organization showed 625,000,000 one-penny stamps certifying tax payment were circulating in excess of needs and said many undoubtedly were used to avoid taxes.

He advocated the Copeland bill to make the retailer pay liquor taxes instead of the distiller and wholesaler and requiring a stamp costing the full amount of the tax, and said it would reduce illicit traffic, save $360,000,000 annually in revenues to federal and state governments, reduce retail prices from 25 to 50 per cent and make sellers and buyers of nontaxed liquor equally guilty.

Big Bootlegger Market.

Stewart Berkshire, deputy collector of internal revenue, opposed the bill and questioned Greenhut's testimony. He read reports from regional supervisors saying the stamp problem was "minor" and virtually "non-existent."

While the illicit operators had only two outlets during prohibition—the bootleggers and speakeasy—he said they had 225,000 today through retail dealers, with "greater security and profits" offered.

He promised to produce to the committee "counterfeit labels, American strip stamps, Canadian bottled-in-bond stamps and bottles which are as readily available today as ever they were in pre-repeal days."

"Furthermore," he said, "if the committee will guarantee immunity, I will have delivered to it any amount of hundred-proof whisky of good quality in quarts or pints bearing legitimate strip stamps and District of Columbia tax stamps at a cost not exceeding $7.50 per case of three full gallons.

"Obviously this liquor is bootleg, because the $7.50 is only sufficient to cover the cost of the federal and District of Columbia tax."

Pyramiding of Taxes.

After Greenhut, whose organization originated the Copeland measure, and the New York senator had testified the present system of tax collection resulting in a "pyramiding" of taxes by which profits were collected on each tax turnover, Senator Barkley, democrat, Kentucky, a member of the subcommittee, expressed the view the bill would "legitimatize the bootlegger" by permitting dealers to buy from illicit manufacturers by payment of the tax.

He said it would take 200,000 men to inspect the 225,000 retail outlets which Greenhut had asserted were largely responsible today for traffic in illicit and non-taxed liquor, as against 4,500 employes now.

Over 100,000 inspectors in the last six months, he said, had shown less than 15 per cent violations by retailers. Less than half of these were due to operation without occupational license, he said, and less than one-half of 1 per cent arose from spurious labels or stamps.

50 Per Cent Not Taxed.

C. Hester, assistant general counsel of the treasury, said 36,000 inspections recently disclosed only 168 retailers selling non-tax paid liquor and 600 with no occupational licenses.

Greenhut said 50 per cent of liquor consumption today was of non-taxed brands, asserted that bootlegging and tax evasion was on the increase and that still seizures had climbed 50 per cent in 1935 over 1934.

Greenhut asserted the 625,000,000 stamps in excess of needs he spoke of "could, in the case of imported liquor on which duties as well as taxes are to be paid, represent the evidence of tax payments exceeding $1,000,000,000."

GILLIS ORDERS BODY TO CUT CITY SALARIES

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., March 6.—(AP)—Mayor Andrew J. "Bossy" Gillis ordered the city council today to make good one of his campaign promises—a 25 per cent wage cut for city employes.

Instead of presenting the reductions in his $700,140.49 budget, the fiery "Bossy" told the council to do the slashing. Surprised, the members postponed action until next Wednesday.

Gillis, who won a third term on a "silence is golden" platform in contrast to previous vociferous campaigns, cut the $200 expenses of his own office in half. His $1,200 a year salary was not trimmed.

ASTHMA WAS STRANGLING HIM

Feels like a new man now

"I had asthma for 7 years and a severe bronchial cough for 12 years. I tried Nacor. Improved steadily and am now feeling fine. No cough and no asthma for over a year."—Jos. Thompson, c/o Geo. Steeles, 817 Chester Ave., Indianapolis, Ind.—Dec. 8, 1933.

Postal Contract Let.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP)—The Treasury announced today award of a $249,436 contract for construction of a new postoffice at Wilmington, N. C., to Algernon Blair, Montgomery, Ala. The contract stipulated the structure must be completed within 360 days.

'Monkey Business' Fatal In Receivership Move

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 6.(AP)—Albert Joseph Booth, 67, Miami Beach nurseryman, fell dead today during the excitement incident to the taking over of a gorilla and six champanzees by a circuit court receivership.

The animals were a part of the circus equipment owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Lintz, for which Judge W. W. Trammell appointed a receiver when Bernard McArdle, animal trainer, claimed the Lintzes owed him $3,280 in back salary.

After Deputy Sheriff Joe Conderman served the receivership papers on Mrs. Lintz, who lived on the nurseryman's property, she took them to Booth. He suddenly dropped to the ground dead.

McArdle claimed he was employed by the Lintzes at Coney Island, N. Y., during 1934, later traveling over the United States with the show.

Burton E. Folsom was appointed receiver for the trained gorilla and chimpanzees, which are valued at $50,000.

PROBE OF REMOVAL OF HAGOOD BARRED

ted to answer legitimate questions before congressional committees without subjecting themselves to discipline or punishment, freedom of speech does not mean "a license" to use language which may be interpreted as critical of the President, the congress or other government officials.

The committee added that General Hagood "by other language could have conveyed to the committee his opinion that it would be much better to expend public funds for the building of quarters or barracks for housing the army, than for purposes he considered wasteful and unnecessary."

Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator, revealed yesterday that Aubrey Williams, acting administrator at the time, had protested Hagood's testimony and demanded a "public retraction" after the general had described WPA funds as "stage money" and made other critical remarks concerning the administration's spending policies.

On the War Department's action in ordering Hagood home "to await further orders" the report said:

Military Discipline.

"Matters of military discipline must be determined by the commander-in-chief (the President) or proper officials of the War Department," and "it would be unwise for congress to undertake to determine what is, or what is not, proper military discipline, provided the same is not contrary to the articles of war which congress enacted as a statute for the government."

The committee's report also said "ample opportunity was given him (Hagood) to revise his testimony, which he declined to do."

There is "no necessity" to determine the persons responsible for Hagood's removal, the report said, since the President is, under the constitution, commander-in-chief, and the removal order was "by direction of the President."

The memorandum by General Malin Craig, chief of staff, set forth the reasons for Hagood's removal, the report declared, and "there is no reason to suppose that any investigation would result in obtaining additional information which is not now of public record."

Testimony Cited.

(General Craig's memorandum cited Hagood's critical testimony as only one more mark against several reprimands for "irresponsible and intemperate" statements made in the past.)

On the question of whether the administration had improperly used governmental powers in suppressing free speech the committee held that held no relation to Hagood's removal.

If there is any evidence that government officials have endeavored to suppress free speech, the report concluded, a separate resolution should be introduced calling for an investigation of the charges.

The ten democrats and two republicans voting against an investigation were: (Democrats) Sheppard, of Texas; Fletcher, of Florida; Coolidge, of Massachusetts; Logan, of Kentucky; Reynolds, of North Carolina; Bachman, of Tennessee; Thomas, of Utah; Duffy, of Wisconsin; Minton, of Indiana, and Schwellenback, of Washington.

(Republicans): Carey, of Wyoming, and Dickinson, of Iowa.

The two republicans voting for an investigation were Austin, of Vermont, and Barbour, of New Jersey.

WARDEN, 2 OTHERS KILLED IN 'BREAK'

the warden the gunmen stole a car from two women in front of the prison and fled northward.

"We wanted to get on to a side road as soon as possible," Carrier said, "so we turned off, but the warden said we would stand a better chance of getting away if we went back to the main road.

"So Phil turned back and we went on north. We came on the officers and their first blast hit me."

100 Shots Exchanged.

Accounts of the running gunfight, in which more than 100 shots were exchanged, showed three separate brushes before a combined force of deputy sheriffs, policemen and prison guards were able to halt the fugitives. Claude Carrier was hit in the first exchange and Ray died in the second, the brothers leaving his body on the highway as they continued their flight.

A waterhole on the highway proved their undoing as moisture soaked the car's wiring and disabled the machine.

Today's abortive break was the second at the state prison since August 17, 1922, when G. T. Jameson, then warden, was kidnaped by four convicts, and left bound in a church while the felons fled.

AT ATLANTA'S THEATERS

HUSTON'S PORTRAYAL OF DODSWORTH SUPERB

Erlanger Audience Highly Pleased With Excellent Presentation.

Even Sinclair Lewis would find it comforting if it were possible for him to slip quietly into the Erlanger theater and observe Atlanta's acceptance of Walter Huston in "Dodsworth." It would confirm some of the Lewis ideas about life in provincial America.

Walter Huston is the show. The hum of whispering comment as he moves easily through the innumerable scenes is limited to approving discussions of his unfaltering portrayal of a type—Huston is Dodsworth. Lewis is forgotten.

The show, adapted to the exigencies of the drama, loses little of the intent of the Lewis book. It ends stormily, but not so brutally as Lewis had it. But, ignoring the beginning or the end, the show is the Huston portrayal of a difficult role. No one in Atlanta will dispute Huston's gifts as an actor. To Atlanta, of course, he is best known from the dozens of roles he played in the movies.

On the stage at the Erlanger, where Atlanta has a chance to view him at close range and without the benefit of cinematic editing, he proves that he has all the gifts that have been ascribed to him.

The successful American, Dodsworth, retires and hopes to find happiness in travel abroad, where he can forget business in a contemplation of the Old World scenes. A restless wife disrupts his scheme when she finds herself lifted from the average American city into the gay capitals of Europe. Freedom from the old routine brings its unhappiness.

But the story of "Dodsworth" as it will be unfolded at the Erlanger at today's matinee and again tonight is the story of Walter Huston's ability to live the part that he plays. He knows his job and he does it, in the finest detail, which, after all, is the only test of genius.

Last night's audience gave him an ovation. Undoubtedly, he will get another today and tonight. He deserves it. Nan Sunderland, his wife, tall and graceful and of charming presence, plays a secondary role in "Dodsworth," but she showed Atlanta last night that their threat to appear together as Othello and Desdemona should be a memorable performance.

Lucille Fenton, as Fran, Dodsworth's wife; Gregory Gaye, as Kurt von Obersdorf; Helen Zelinskaya, as Baroness von Obersdorf, were able in their support and not entirely overshadowed. It is a real show.

Audiences Are Thrilled By Quints in Film Debut

Those five little girls whose entrance into the world made front-page news not so long ago made their screen debut yesterday at the Fox theater.

Of course, your reviewer refers to the Dionne quintuplets — Yvonne, Cecile, Marie, Annette and Emelie—who are seen in "The Country Doctor," starring Jean Hersholt.

Hersholt, a fine character actor, is splendid in his role of the kindly north woods physician who brings the quints into the world and by watchful and scientific care raises the babies to "young" womanhood.

But it's the quints who are the real show, and who furnished most of the audience reaction at the opening yesterday. They are the grandest little natural actresses in the world, those five young "uns," and well worth seeing.

Everybody loves a baby, and here are five of them—count 'em—doing their stuff before the cameras, and so this film provides fine entertainment.

Of course, there is a story written around the birth of the babies, and it is a well-directed, well-acted production. Besides Hersholt, the cast includes June Lang, Slim Summerville, Michael Whalen and Dorothy Peterson.

Henry King's direction merits high praise. You'll like this show, and you'll love the quints.

An animated cartoon, pictorial and news reel complete a good all-around bill of film fare.

MISSING BOY'S FATHER TALKS WITH SUSPECT

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 6.—(AP) A dramatic three-hour conference between J. W. Detchen, father of Willie Detchen, 28, missing drug clerk, and George B. Aufenkamp Jr., 32, charged with the youth's murder today failed to throw new light on the youth's disappearance.

The meeting, Detchen said, was "not a bit satisfactory," adding "I felt sure he was not telling the truth."

Aufenkamp, police said, stuck to his story, told when arrested in Miami last week, that Detchen died of an accidental poison dose and that he (Aufenkamp) hired a negro for $10 to dispose of the body in Salt river.

James Moorman, 24, negro, named by Aufenkamp as the person he hired to dispose of the body, continued to deny any knowledge of the case.

Previous announced plans to ask for an indictment today against Aufenkamp before the Jefferson county grand jury were postponed until next week.

Business and Marriage in "Wife Vs. Secretary"

Entertainment of a high order is on view at Loew's Grand theater, where "Wife versus Secretary" opened yesterday for a week's run.

Clark Gable, Jean Harlow and Myrna Loy, three of filmlands' most popular personages, are co-starred in this tale of modern business and modern marriage.

All turn in fine performances, with Gable as smooth as ever, Miss Loy as appealing as usual, and Miss Harlow as easy on the eyes as in previous films.

The story is one of those things about a big business man, played more or less convincingly by Gable, and his super-business activities interfering, more or less convincingly, with his married life.

Miss Loy is the wife and Miss Harlow is the secretary. Gable is likeable and should win new fans and hold his old ones.

May Robson and James Stewart are capable in minor roles. The film is rapidly paced, and glossily photographed in the approved Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer de luxe manner. It may not be life in the raw, but it's good entertainment.

The rest of the show is excellent, with short subjects of interest.

'The Lone Wolf Returns' Featured Film at Rialto

There is a delightful sort of combination of deviltry, thrills and romance in "The Lone Wolf Returns," new Columbia production which opened a week's run at the Rialto theater yesterday.

This latest story of the world-famous adventure character created by Louis Joseph Vance probably presents the jewel thief in more romantic and appealing situations than any previous story with him as the central character. This time, while he fools the police just as effectively as ever, he falls in love, reforms and exercises his usually outlawed talents on the side of property rights and social law and order.

Portrayed by Melvyn Douglas, the "lone wolf" is revealed as a handsome, suave and appealing young rascal, utterly understandable as a man devastatingly captivating to feminine hearts. That Gail Patrick, in the character of Marcia Stewart, the millionaire heiress whose jewels are at first the object of his desires, should fall in love with the man is not surprising. And those of the audiences—which includes all the masculine members at least—who boast a weakness of Gail will understand why he falls in love with her.

Tala Birell, Douglass Dumbrille, Henry Mollison, Nana Bryant are among the supporting players who perform with high credit to themselves and the director, Roy William Neill.

There is the best bit of color photography yet seen on the screen in a short titled "The Lido," and a Mickey Mouse adds that spice to the program that the rodent star always imparts. The newsreel is interesting throughout.

And you'll like "The Lone Wolf Returns," whatever your predilections as to law and crime, suspense, thrills and romance.

Feature at Paramount Is Praised by Reviewer

The story of a woman's love so powerful that it subordinated even her own interests to the life work of the man she adored is the theme of "Next Time We Love," which opened a week's run at the Paramount yesterday.

Beautiful Margaret Sullavan, as the young wife of an adventuresome newspaperman, reaches new heights of emotional characterization in a part that is as well done as it is difficult.

Taking the part of a man whose work is his life, James Stewart, plays his role in a way which should set the movie moguls to hailing him as "the find of the year."

The story is beautiful in its realistic portrayal of a $25 a week reporter, who longs to be a foreign correspondent, married to a beautiful young girl who adores him completely. He gets his chance to achieve his life-long ambition as a correspondent in a foreign land, though it means leaving his young wife.

However, to tell the story of the picture would not give an indication of its excellence. The infinite tenderness with which Miss Sullavan acts her role and the understanding cooperation James Stewart gives her are the things that make the production great.

SEN. SMITH PROPOSES COTTON ESTIMATE BAN

Solon Says Farm Body Should Be Restricted to General Reports.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP)—Elimination of government cotton production estimates, issued by the Agriculture Department from August to December, was proposed today by Senator Smith, democrat, South Carolina.

Presiding over the agriculture committee's hearings on cotton futures trading, Chairman Smith said he thought the Agriculture Department ought to be restricted to general reports alone.

He described the estimates as "guesses."

Smith also said he favored forbidding use of the mails and other forms of interstate communication for distribution of private estimates as to probable cotton production.

Smith intimated he would seek legislation to prevent cotton crop estimates.

"As things develop at this hearing, it begins to seem that legislation will become imperative," the South Carolina senator declared.

Alfred S. Wyllie, attorney for the committee in the cotton investigation, recommended elimination of the estimates in a report submitted early in January.

He said the estimates at times have a "violent" effect on the market and produce periods of stagnation before and after the government estimates are made.

The committee continued to hear testimony of W. L. Clayton, Houston, Texas, cotton merchant, who has been on the stand since the hearings began nearly three weeks ago.

It was in the course of Clayton's testimony that Smith came forward with his suggestion that crop reports be eliminated.

The chairman said he was not opposed to Agriculture Department reports relating to acreage, crop conditions and ginnings.

ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 7, 1936.

UP TO THE COURTS

In the framing of the state constitution no feature was given more careful attention than in the provision safeguarding the expenditure of the state's finances.

To this end it was specifically provided that all withdrawals from the state treasury should be made only on warrants signed by three officials—the Governor, the comptroller general and the state treasurer.

It was so provided for the specific purpose of making it impossible for any one man to draw against the public funds.

In addition, the attorney-general is the legal adviser of the state government, further guaranteeing the legal withdrawal of funds from the state treasury. In emphasizing this function of the attorney-general, the last general assembly provided that in all differences in departmental matters he should be the final arbiter.

This carefully devised framework for safeguarding the public funds was disrupted when the Governor, without rhyme or reason, peremptorily fired the comptroller general and the state treasurer, naming successors who would sign any warrant, or do anything else they were told to do by the Governor. In addition, the advice of the attorney-general was ignored.

Thus the constitutional safeguard of triple signatures to every warrant is nullified and the withdrawal of the public funds is, to all intents and purposes, put in the hands of one man—the Governor.

So the ultimate solution is in the hands of the courts.

They have never had a more serious responsibility, involving as it does not only the public money, but the public welfare—and particularly the continuation of the wise safeguards contained in the constitution.

At stake is the maintenance of democratic government in Georgia against the threat of one-man dictatorship; the protection of the will of the people as to who shall fill elective offices; the safeguarding of the duties and responsibilities of the general assembly; the proper functioning of every state department and institution; and the proper and legal expenditure of many millions of dollars, both of state funds and federal money allocated to Georgia, all of which is now tied up and idle.

With the Governor having refused to call the general assembly in extra session, as provided by the constitution when emergencies arise, and insisting instead that his will and word alone shall be law, the courts are the final resort for the protection of the public interest and the continuance of constitutional government.

The courts have now been asked to solve the troubled condition into which the state government has been thrown.

Out of their deliberations will come decisions that should assure the safety of the public welfare and the public money, and once more put the operation of the state government on a legal basis.

THE NEW DEAL AND THE BANKS

In the perfervid attacks of despairing republicans and disgruntled democrats on some of the controversial policies of the New Deal, many of the outstanding accomplishments of the Roosevelt administration—policies which have brought a new and lasting stability to economic and financial conditions—are in danger of being forgotten.

Yet many of these policies are of more vital importance to every citizen of the United States in bringing assurance of future safety and confidence than the recovery steps which have aroused criticism by those who, in most instances, have opposed them for selfish or prejudiced reasons.

An outstanding example of the new and fundamental policies that have made forever impossible catastrophies such as have occurred in the past is the safeguarding of bank deposits through the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

In 1932, when the banking system of the country faced the most serious collapse in its history, the economic policy committee of the American Bankers' Association held that "elimination of 10,000 uneconomic banks has been good for the country."

That "elimination" cost the depositors of the country considerably in excess of $2,000,000,000 and brought widespread wreckage of business and savings.

In striking contrast to the fate of the millions of depositors in banks that closed prior to March, 1933, the New York Times comments as follows on what has happened in the case of the depositors of a group of unsound banks recently ordered liquidated:

> The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation has taken steps to liquidate 50 banks located in five states.
> No loss will be suffered by the depositors. Sound assets of the closed banks are being taken over by other institutions and FDIC itself will take over assets of more doubtful value, salvaging what it can from them, and in any case reducing its own potential losses by avoiding failure of the institution.

The democratic national committee is justified in its restrained comment that there is "a considerable difference" between the condition of the depositors now and when, under republican policies, the foundation was cut from beneath the financial structure of the country.

In the furor drummed up by demagogues and political malcontents over some of the policies of the New Deal, the public should not forget the great reforms, such as the new protection for bank depositors, which the democratic administration has brought about.

Probably the absence of hard roads in Ethiopia at this time doesn't mean much either way to an army, as it is raining and you couldn't find a cab.

A British lecturer tells us we are too sentimental as a people. That is true. We never pause to consider whether the wife deserved the beating.

Trans-Atlantic Candlelight.

Science makes backnumbers of fairy tales. One was reminded of that by the accounts today of the formal opening of the New York Museum of Science by the lighting of a candle in London.

How many miles to Babylon?
Three score and ten.
Can you go there by candlelight?
Yes, and back again.

And so London went to Babylon by candlelight. Sir William Bragg, (here was an appropriate name, for there is indeed something to brag about), sat in Faraday's chair at Faraday's table at the royal institution. He struck a match and lit an ancient candle. The sound of the striking was transmitted by microphone and short-wave radio to New York. The waves from the flame of the candle fell upon a cell, which sent a current through a radio-transmitter, which caused the current to be reproduced in a reservoir in New York. This current operated a switch that turned on an old electric lamp. The light from this lamp fell upon a photographic cell, which activated a switch that turned on numerous mercury vapor lamps in the new museum.

Casualty Lists.

For the first time since the war the Italian government has published official casualty lists of its native troops killed in action—possibly to check such unofficial estimates as have been made. The numbers given are not entirely convincing. For instance, there is not the slightest mention of the men fallen in that attempt to cross the Dankali desert in October. The world seems to have forgotten that there was once a third front and that the Italians 10,000 strong, preceded by tanks, were obviously setting out from Mousa Ali to cut off the Djibouti railway. This column was annihilated. It was never heard from again. Then, it is now stated that only 57 soldiers lost their lives in that battle of Dolo which, so the Italians say, cost 10,000 Abyssinians their lives. These figures convince nobody. When you know that up till December 39,000 Italian soldiers were repatriated as incapacitated by wounds, the number of killed must come to about a third of that figure. That is the ratio which has always prevailed in colonial wars.

Are the English Human?

Your answer is: Of course, but a learned gentleman, a Dutch professor who has taught for 30 years at London University, has just written a book on the subject, wherein he examines the question rather thoroughly. If they are human, they are at least very much different from other humans. Dr. Renier, for that is the author's name, has a lot of fun quoting pieces from English newspapers wherein England's climate, butlers, chorus girls, buns, street cars, books, football matches, civil servants are blandly called the best in the world. The good doctor does not know America, and he admits it, else he would realize that we are inclined to claim the same for our street cars, chorus girls, civil servants, etc. The funny thing to continental Europeans is the cocksure way in which these things are stated. Anybody can drop in tomorrow, say into Buffalo, and affirm that he has never seen a more glorious town and more beautiful girls and the newspapers are bound to feature that declaration quite seriously the next day. There are a lot of jokers in this world.

Work Aplenty.

While four or five kings were conferring in Paris and an equal number of chancellors and prime minister, 10,000 policemen and detectives were busy watching them. After the murder of King Alexander, of Yugoslavia, the French government is very nervous about visiting kings. Carol, of Rumania, put the wind up the whole police department by disappearing one day from his hotel and remaining unfindable for 48 hours. It was later said that he had driven out to his private chateau somewhere on the Loire. The hotel management which helped him sneak out by a servants' door was severely blamed for not informing the police. When the kings and the others finally left, the prefect of police heaved an almost audible sigh of relief.

Good Morning

BY LOUIE D. NEWTON.

WORSHIP.

The primary activity of a healthy religion has always been worship. No man can have a satisfying sense of the reality of God who does not habitually worship Him. It may be that he must worship in his sick room, in his workshop, in his prison cell, on some lonely roadway, in some remote tower of vigil; but he must consciously worship. Worship is possible only toward a person, toward a superior person, toward the Supreme and Absolute Person.

One recalls the incident in the revelation where John fell down to worship the angel. The angel said, "See thou, do it not. Worship God!" We may well be reminded of the second of the Ten Commandments wherein we are taught to worship the one and only true God. We are expressly commanded not to have any other gods, nor to make any graven image or any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the waters under the earth.

The Greek word employed in the New Testament for worship literally means "to kiss the hand" of a superior being. It is at once a revolting suggestion to kiss the hand of vague idea or a generalization of social solidarity. Worship requires a complete sense of reverence and trust and faith and hope and love. The Bible is a book of worship, leading the hungering, thirsting heart of man to the fountain filled with blood, to God the Father, God the Son, God the Holy Spirit.

There is a practical aspect of this great matter which may be emphasized, I trust. Jesus established His church as an essential method by which He would bring into the hearts of men the Kingdom of God. One of the chief functions of the church is to provide an inviting center for worship for any and all who will come within the sanctuary of the Lord. We are enjoined to forsake not the assembling of ourselves together for the purpose of worship. One of the truly great men of all time said, "I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the house of the Lord." Wisdom is fled from us if we forget the place and meaning of worship—worship in our homes, worship in the meeting houses. Let us remember Sir Robert Grant's great hymn, "O Worship the King, all-glorious above, and gratefully sing His wonderful love; our shield and defender, the ancient of days, pavilioned in splendor, and girded with praise."

Bath of Wine.

A young woman took a bath and it became as celebrated an incident as Lady Godiva's ride. The young woman was Joyce Hawley and she took her bath in a tub of champagne at a party given by Earl Carroll, theatrical producer, in New York, as you will perhaps remember. As obscure as she was before her champagne bath, and hard to find, is Miss Hawley today. Such is fame.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

BY PAUL MALLON.

BLISS WASHINGTON, March 6.—A secondary leader in the senate was one of the few who rushed out with a statement approving President Roosevelt's corporation tax reform program. He thought it was a good statement until someone pointed out to him that dividends are not subject to normal taxes, as his statement erroneously assumed.

Conversely a flock of congressmen hurried forth with heavy attacks on the program because it would deprive corporations of all the reserves they have built up. They turned pink when they learned that the tax was on future undistributed earnings, not past ones.

Kind-hearted newsmen wisely kept most of this unstatesmanlike ignorance from the public eye. But their charitable sympathy was not devoid of amazement.

The situation explains the ensuing congressional silence.

Note—One of the few congressmen who really knows taxes is Chairman Sam Hill, of the house subcommittee which is considering the legislation.

CONDENSATION A shrewd White House authority explained the whole background of the corporation tax reform program better than anyone else. He boiled down all phases of the subject—(the dire predicament of Mr. Roosevelt being forced by the bonus and court decisions into championing taxes in a campaign year, the political advantages of attacking the big corporations). These ideas and others he condensed into a simple sentence (not for quotation):

"Mr. Roosevelt has been able to make an asset out of a political liability."

FRENZY The extent of enthusiasm in congress for anything remotely connected with taxes is illustrated by what happened the other day in a senate committee.

The committee was called for a hearing about a new tax idea which might produce $200,000,000 of additional revenue by an administrative change in the liquor tax law. At least, a certain private promotional agency was ready to testify that it would. Agency officers were on hand ready to explain. The distilling representtives were on hand to oppose.

One senator appeared. He sat around for 15 minutes, half an hour, 45 minutes awaiting the appearance of the rest of the committee. At that point he arose, put on his hat and walked out, saying:

"I am a busy man, but my 20 colleagues on this committee are apparently busier—elsewhere. The hearing is off."

LITERARY MAGIC A few careful news readers were excited by the recent story that the United States had signed away some of its protective authority over the Panama canal in a new treaty with Panama. It was given out for publication that way by official sources. The treaty itself was not made public.

The inside story on it is that President Roosevelt wanted to take this step solely for the effect it would have on his coming Pan-American conference. Panama is the last of the Latin-American republics over which the United States reserved the right to intervene. That fact has been the basis of Latin-American attacks against United States imperialism causing a lot of ill feeling toward us down there.

It is true the treaty ostensibly renounces our right to maintain law and order in Panama. But when it is made public you will see it is a literary masterpiece. In theory, we promise not to infringe upon Panama's sovereignty in any way. In practice, we will continue to take whatever steps we deem necessary for the protection of the canal.

Note—Ordinarily you would expect the army and navy to throw up its guns at any renunciation of canal protection. Nary a gun has been turned skyward because of the Panama treaty. Both forces well know that if they have to occupy Panama to protect the canal, they will occupy it. The State Department can furnish the excuses afterward .

LOOKING AHEAD The President's program has induced many a taxpayer to give thanks that the New Deal devisers have forgotten about the income tax. These thanks are premature.

The devisers will tell you off the record that the political time to hoist the income tax rates will come after the election is over. Furthermore, the technical groundwork for such a hoist is being laid in this present program.

The current scheme would, in effect, transfer the corporation taxes to the individual taxpayers. It would abandon the corporate tax system and set it up within the individual income tax system. As any tax expert can tell you, that would put all the corporate and individual income right out in the open in one place. Jacking up the rates later would thus limit present evasions, produce heavier revenue.

Mr. Roosevelt's devisers think far ahead.

SILHOUETTES

BY RALPH T. JONES.

I wonder what
And who you were?
I wonder where
You are today?
The girl I passed
Upon the street
When I was young
That summer day.

You smiled at me,
I stared at you,
I thought you were
The loveliest yet.
That fleeting glance
I've ne'er forgot
Through forty years—
Nor would forget.

The Spirit
That Counts.

Not true of all, of course, but true of enough to have had a powerful effect on the way Atlanta has pulled through the depression, now a thing of the past, glory be, has been the kindliness and consideration of creditors. As a whole there predominated the spirit of helpfulness, of patience and of realization that all, creditor and debtor alike, faced difficulties and must sacrifice to pull out.

We have learned the moral of "The Merchant of Venice," and, I think, realize there are times when exaction of the full pound of flesh, no matter how legally due, becomes of itself a crime.

It is a crime to exact payment of a debt in full, a debt honestly incurred but, due to change of circumstance, one on which payment will destroy a home and undo the work and sacrifice that a family group has poured out through years of hope and happiness.

Inspiration
For These Thoughts.

These perhaps indefinite remarks are inspired by a clause contained in the will of a man who was one of the city's finest citizens, before his death, just a few weeks ago. That clause is so typical of the man during his life and serves so fine an example to others of us who are still alive, I feel it is worth quoting in full. In fact, as a guiding mark to Christian businessmen, it deserves perpetuation and should be framed and hung over every executive desk.

The late J. Carroll Payne, in his will, wrote:

"I have endeavored during my life to do justice and display kindness to all. It is my desire, and I therefore direct you, my executors, that in the adjustment and distribution of my estate you shall exercise the same spirit. Be kind to those among my debtors who may need your kindness. I do not wish that you should press any claims due me for immediate payment where, in your judgment, the allowance of time would be kindness, and no interest on debts due me shall be charged or collected unless expressly stipulated in the evidence of the indebtedness itself. I direct my executors to remit and completely release such debts owing to me by my relatives at the time of my death."

A Parable
For Many Firms.

There is a story going around about a parsimonious proprietor of a large and prosperous restaurant. This establishment catered to a showy, swanky and costly clientele.

The proprietor decided to add a touch of color to his exterior, so hired a doorman. He paid this new employe a niggardly wage, but dressed him in a uniform colorful enough to temporarily blind all who looked directly at the man.

After a week or two, the doorman grew desperate on the pay issue and finally screwed up his courage to the point where he asked the boss for an increase.

So the boss promoted him. He put two stripes on his sleeve and made him a sergeant.

Another
Anecdote.

Then there is the story of the illiterate businessman who signed his checks with a cross mark. One day the bank was puzzled when a check arrived with a circle instead of a cross. They phoned the man.

"Oh," he explained, "I forgot to tell you. I've changed my name."

Overland Route.

The army expedition led by John Charles Fremont, 31, reached Sutter's Fort, Cal., in 1844, and the exploration and survey of an overland route from the Missouri river to the Pacific was completed. Over this the settlers were to stream to El Dorado.

Fremont became an explorer because Senator Thomas Benton, of Missouri, resented the attentions he was paying the senator's 15-year-old daughter, Jessie. He used his influence to have Fremont detailed as far away from Washington as possible, and this happened to be an army expedition sent to survey the Des Moines river. Fremont did the work so well that he was placed in command of the expedition to California. He married Jessie Benton after all.

Michelangelo.

Michelangelo Buenarroti was born in Florence in 1475, son of an aristocratic father who considered art a calling unworthy of a gentlemen! It is written that this immortal sculptor in every block of marble "saw an imprisoned idea waiting the sculptor's art to be freed." He didn't like to paint and the pope had to virtually compel him to decorate the ceiling of the Sistine chapel, for Michelangelo insisted he wouldn't be very good at the job. The resultant mural is one of the world's immortal masterpieces.

FAIR ENOUGH

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Retaliate Upon Nazis. VIENNA, March 6. Karl Nisselback, a naturalized American who has been sentenced to a German prison for two two years, may not be a very good citizen of the United States, but, nevertheless, our government ought to make the nazis let him go. We could do this by arresting 10 German nazis in New York or Hoboken on a long list of charges and giving them everything that the book calls for—sentences to run consecutively, not currently, and without option of fine.

Our police are very good piling up complaints when they really put their hearts into their work, and it would be no problem at all to retaliate at the rate of 10 to 1 for every American who is slammed into prison for violation of the trick laws they enforce against our people.

For example, a nazi driving an automobile might be followed through the streets for a few hours and pulled up on enough charges to keep him under glass as long as Nisselback, if we really set out to get rough about the matter. All drivers are guilty of dozens of offenses which we regard as petty violations and not worth prosecution, except where accidents occur, but in a determined campaign to treat Germans as they treat Americans we could bear down and make them squeal in a very short time.

We have laws against smoking in the subways, cluttering fire escapes, impeding sidewalks, loitering, littering and walking on the grass in the parks, and a clever cop, if wants to, usually can draw a man into an argument and then charge him with conduct calculated to draw a crowd.

Sedition Easy Charge. This would be a petty way to act, to be sure, but the Germans are enforcing petty laws against Americans, and the penalties are too serious to be accepted in fun. This Nisselback was held for four months without charges, whereas we can't even pick up a man without telling him why. He was held 10 months before he got a trial, and in the long run they gave him two years for having in his possession a newspaper or leaflet which they considered seditious because it criticized the nazi form of government.

But it is almost impossible to avoid seditious conduct in Germany under their laws. If you were to have among your papers a copy of Winston Churchill's article analyzing Hitler's character they could give you as much as 10 years under their law or even shoot you. If you were to sit in a cafe anyone in their espionage service could claim that he heard you say you thought Hitler wasn't handsome but only funny.

That would be grounds for your arrest and detention for 10 months without trial. Then they could give you two years for attempting to undermine the German government. Nobody can possibly know when he is guilty of seditious conduct in Germany, because sedition is anything they don't happen to like, and they make up their laws from day to day.

On the other hand, the nazis proceed in the belief that they can get away with murder in other countries, and when I mention murder I am not using a figure of speech, for the assassination of Engelbert Dollfuss, dictator of Austria, was planned and directed by the German government. I don't suppose they would go so far as to assassinate our President or the English king under present conditions, but the Dollfuss murder shows they wouldn't hesitate to try it if it suited their purposes.

Rule of Hoodlums. It must be kept in mind constantly that the nazi government is a rule of hoodlums and grafters whose murderous character has been demonstrated not only in the Dollfuss case but in their own historic blood purge, which was very similar to the St. Valentine Day massacre in the Chicago underworld but much bigger and more promiscuous.

Foreign diplomats dealing with their officials proceed on the assumption that most of them are conspirators against the rest of the world, and this is a sound idea, because nazi literature frankly justifies any treachery, theft or swindle which might promote Germany's interests at the expense of any other nation.

Here in Vienna, Von Papen, their ambassador, is an absolute outcast so far as the diplomatic circle is concerned, for everybody remembers his record as military attache of the German embassy in Washington up to 1916. Nobody wants anything to do with him. The Austrians, of course, want no part of his country, because the only reason the nazis keep an ambassador here is to organize a traitorous movement and deliver the country to Germany.

This is the sort of racket the American government is dealing with in Germany, and it is useless to expect that American passports will be respected unless the nazis understand that we will treat their people as badly as they treat ours.

Nisselback personally isn't very important, but two years in prison is too much for the mere possession of a paper which the Germans considered to be seditious. If we need a definition of seditious conduct every nazi in the United States should be in prison now.

Talmudic Tales

BY DAVID MORANTZ.

Number 268

What Is the Talmud?

Complying with many requests from readers to explain more about just what the Talmud is, I shall briefly tell you something of its origin, its background and its development.

The word Talmud means "lesson," "tradition," or "doctrine" and comes from the Hebrew words "lamed" (learn) and "limmad" (teach).

The Talmud has been referred to as the "oral law" while the Pentateuch is known as the "written law."

The word Pentateuch is from the Greek, meaning "five books" and refers to the first five books of the Old Testament, which are the books of Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy.

These are also known as "The Five Books of Moses," "The Mosaic Law," "The Mosaic Code," or "Torah," which is the Hebrew word meaning "law."

According to Jewish tradition the text of the "Torah" was given by God to Moses about 1312 B. C.

From that time on there naturally came into existence numerous interpretations of these laws as well as decisions, rulings, etc., by the sages and rabbis of Israel.

These rulings, decisions, interpretations and traditions were handed down by word of mouth for many centuries and thus became known as the "oral law."

Finally, about the year 190 of the Christian era, Rabbi Judah Hanasi collected all of these obtainable and published them in what is known as the Mishna, which is a part of the Talmud.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Red-Headed Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

My Dear Louise:

I notice you are on the committee to buy a monument for poor Billy; and since he was uncommonly popular, I suppose you or someone else will suggest graving the stone with the statement that everybody loved him.

I hope you won't. A lie is a lie, and you can't take the curse off by calling it an epitaph.

Nobody is loved by everybody. The best man who ever lived was hated by the leading citizens and finally lynched by the fickle crowd.

You are worried by the knowledge that anybody dislikes you, but you might as well get used to it.

No matter how well you behave or how carefully you attend to your own business or how nicely you treat your fellow creatures, a certain number of people will dislike you or hate you and nothing you can do or say will change their feeling.

There's an old story about a politician who was told that a certain man was telling mean lies about him. "That is strange," said he. "I wonder why he hates me; I never did anything for him."

People are like that. They will hate you because you placed them under obligation by doing them a favor. They will hate you because you are fortunate, or because of your relatives or friends, or because of your beliefs and standards, or because your appearance or laugh or tone of voice displeases them, or simply because they can't bear a person like you. Enemies are born, as friends are.

You can pick your enemies to some extent, for people dislike those who aren't like themselves. The more respectable you are, the less respectable your enemies will be. And it's a great comfort and a compliment to be disliked by the vile because you aren't like them.

But some nice people will dislike you, too, for no particular reason, and you must reconcile yourself to it and not let it worry you.

If nobody likes the olives, they are probably spoiled; but if only one boarder dislikes them, the fault is in his own queer taste.

Love,
DAD.

HEALTH TALKS

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

SOME SIMPLE REMEDIES FOR ASTHMA.

In California and Western Medicine last year three physicians of a noted medical family published a paper they had presented before the State Medical Association earlier in the summer. Can't name the doctors because it is unethical, in my judgment. You see, they have a racket. They don't call it a racket. No, indeed. None of the big shots who work this racket and figuratively thumb their noses at the quaint code of medical ethics (no longer a code, by A.M.A. edict, but just a set of principles), cares to acknowledge frankly that it is an advertising racket. But I say it is nothing else but. Free advertising without let or hindrance by the comical old code of medical ethics or even an audible st-st-st from the plodding practitioners in the profession, is the only apparent reason for the private pay "clinic." Bear in mind, the term "clinic" originally signified precisely what Webster says: "Instruction of a class of medical students by the examination and treatment of patients in the presence of the (ouch, this is embarrassing, coming from the meticulous lexicologists) pupils." Anyway they were students at first.

Subject of the paper was asthma. Interesting observation the authors made was that there is a lowering of the level of sodium in blood and tissues, and an increase in the proportion of potassium in blood and tissues in asthma. They infer that this change of metabolism is due to deficiency of the adrenal gland secretion. They note that not only the feeding of adrenal gland (fresh raw gland from beef, or adrenal extract, or injections of adrenalin or similar preparations from the gland) brings marked relief to the asthmatic sufferer, but similar relief comes if the sufferer from asthma takes considerably more than the ordinary daily ration of salt in one form or another, everything as salty as may be palatable.

However, it is not certain that more sodium (salt is sodium chloride) will be assimilated or utilized in the body just because one takes more salt. The nameless authors advance the idea that the adrenal gland cortex secretes into the blood something which regulates sodium metabolism, as thyroid gland secretion regulates iodin metabolism and parathyroid gland secretion regulates calcium metabolism. On this basis, a heavy salt intake should enhance the effect of adrenalin or adrenal gland treatment in asthma. A heavy salt intake is desirable in any case, whether the patient receives adrenal treatment or not. Aside from fortifying the effect of adrenal gland medication a large intake of salt improves the feeling of well being, improves the bowel function, lessens the frequency of the asthmatic attacks. If preferred, the increased salt intake may be in the form of a solution of a teaspoonful of salt in half a pint of water (glassful) one-half hour before meals, instead of salting foods heavily. If the morning dose proves too laxative, it may be given after breakfast.

I've never had asthma. I've never had a half pint of salt water. I dunno which I'd druther. Which would you?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

What Is Excess?

You said arbitrarily that if a wife does not like her husband's drinking, of course it is excess. Conversely, if the husband does not approve of his wife's drinking, smoking, familiarity with other men and scant and immodest dress, is that not excess? (G. S. G.)

Answer—I should say it is.

Breath Odor.

Please tell me the strength of the chloramine solution you recommend for thorough rinsing of mouth to correct foul breath. . . . (M. K.)

Answer—For mouth wash, use a 1 per cent solution, or say one chloramine tablet dissolved in a wineglassful of water. The same strength solution is used for cleansing wounds.

(Sheilah Graham presents the dancing star, Ginger Rogers, as guest columnist today. Miss Rogers stresses the need of home life to a motion picture star.)

HOLLYWOOD, March 6.—It took my last vacation trip to make me realize fully why "Home Sweet Home" is the most beloved song ever written.

I had looked forward to that trip to New York for many weeks. It was to be a complete change, a grand outing and all that sort of thing.

Well, the train was still many miles west of Manhattan when I found myself wishing I were home. Of course, I had a good time and some never-to-be-forgotten experiences during that vacation. But I returned home more than two weeks ahead of schedule.

That is my answer to the often asked question: "Is it possible to enjoy normal home life in Hollywood?"

I'll even go further and say that it is not just possible. It is almost essential, if one is to keep in top physical and mental condition for the merry-go-round of activity that is the film star's life.

The familiar English saying, "A man's house is his castle," applies admirably to the Hollywood situation.

Outside that castle, the screen actor is, to a considerable degree, public property—Which is logical enough, in view of the fact that he is supported by the theater-going public.

Flattering as it is, however, to be recognized, pointed out and asked for autographs, there are times when the spotlight is extremely fraying to the nerves. At such times, home is doubly sweet to the actor, who, after all, is just a human being who happens to be doing work which attracts public attention.

My particular castle is perched on the top of a hill high enough to be called a mountain in most parts of the world. It's just seven minutes driving time from the R. K. O.-Radio studios, when the traffic signals are with me.

In seven minutes, then, I can enter a familiar private world as far removed as the poles from the bright lights, the bustle and the problems of the studio. There I can, and do, find complete relaxation. I can don an apron and help the cook—and don't think I do not take advantage of that privilege occasionally. I can dig in my garden, loaf in the sun patio and wear my oldest clothes. In other words, I can revel in the luxury of being myself, without an audience to think about.

Personally, I have found that home hours are the more precious because they are so few. Since I have been doing musical pictures with Fred Astaire, I've had very little time I could call my own. Aside from the usual routine of work, there are the hundreds of hours we must devote to dance rehearsals.

As a result, I look forward each day to that hilltop refuge with a fervor which I'll wager few housewives who spend most of their time in their homes can match.

Lew Ayres, my husband, feels the same way. We are also fortunate in having a mutual preference for home and fireside over night clubs and parties. Our friends might call us old fogies, except for the fact that most of them are just as attached to their homes as we are.

As a matter of fact, I think we actors and actresses, as a class, enjoy home life more than any other group. In our stage days, we've done without it enough to really appreciate it.

Oil Distiller.

Samuel Downer was born in 1807 in Dorchester, Mass., where he began making his own living at 14. He had become a manufacturer of sperm oil and candles when curiosity led him to experiment in the distillation of oils from coal and he had popularized the use of kerosene before the discovery of petroleum in Pennsylvania. Of this he became the pioneer refiner.

GEORGIA REPUBLICANS TO CONVENE IN MACON

State Convention Plans Are To Be Made at Today's Session.

MACON, Ga., March 6.—(AP)—Claims of various candidates for the presidential nomination were weighed informally here tonight by Georgia republicans gathered for the meeting tomorrow of the state central committee.

The object of the committee call is to select dates for the various county conventions and for the state convention. The latter will select four delegates-at-large to represent Georgia at the national convention in Cleveland June 9.

County conventions will pick delegates to the state convention. Ten district delegates, one from each congressional district, are to be chosen by the district conventions.

No formal mention of any presidential aspirant is looked for during the committee meeting which gets under way at noon in the Bibb county courthouse. Plans call for mere routine procedure to start the republican state party machinery in motion.

Although the party has never placed a state ticket in a Georgia election, several state legislators have been elected in northern counties.

Governor Alf M. Landon, of Kansas; Colonel Frank Knox, Chicago newspaper publisher, and Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, all leadig candidates for the presidential nomination, have followings among the Georgia republicans. If there is a drift to one of these or to some other member of the party it is not apparent in the talks of those already here.

Former President Herbert Hoover was the unanimous choice of the Georgia delegation at the 1932 Chicago convention. He still has strong admirers in Georgia.

One section of the party wants an uninstructed delegation sent to Cleveland free to vote for the man there deemed best to carry the flag against the democrats. Another section desires an expression of the republican sentiment of the state but wants to leave the Cleveland delegation unfettered.

Leaders avoid any expression of opinion respecting presidential candidates. They are centering on the interest of the party and what they consider its good chances of winning the presidency in November.

There are 110 members of the central committee.

Josiah T. Rose, of Atlanta, is state chairman; Mrs. Bertha M. Field, of Marietta, national committeewoman, and James W. Arnold, national committeeman.

NEGRO ELECTROCUTED FOR CARROLL SLAYING

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., March 6. (AP)—Eddie Bowen, 22, a negro, was electrocuted at the state prison today for the fatal shooting February 19, 1935, of Joe Carroll, of Carrollton, in a store robbery at Douglasville.

Carroll had arrived in Douglasville on an early morning train and was waiting for a friend to arrive in a motor car to take him home. He saw Night Marshal Comer Teal making his rounds. It was a cold night, so Carroll walked along with the marshal to keep warm.

At the rear of Mozley Brothers' store in Douglasville, they noticed a rear window had been opened. Marshal Teal went to the front of the store; Carroll remained at the rear. Bowen fled from the rear, shooting Carroll to escape.

Superintendent Rollie Lawrence said Bowen confessed, and went calmly to his death.

2 MEN PER 20 VOTERS IS PLANNED BY G. O. P.

CHICAGO, March 6.—(AP)—Enlistment of what was proposed as the biggest campaign army in republican history—two men for every 20 voters—was started tonight by party generals in the midwest.

Every opponent of the New Deal, republican or democrat, was offered a place in the vast organization, named the "republican volunteers."

Intended to co-ordinate the work of all anti-Roosevelt groups, the "volunteer" plan was adopted formally by committeemen and committeewomen from 15 central states for the purpose of "so manning the polls that . . . we shall make certain that those who are opposed to the New Deal properly cast their votes."

To attain this end, the plan called for a state, county and precinct setup so complex that two persons be assigned to supervise "registration and voting" of every 20 electors.

The election was necessary because the candidates did not receive a majority of the votes cast in the primary held last week.

DE SOTO COMMISSION PLANS CELEBRATION

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP)—President Roosevelt discussed today with the newly-formed Hernando De Soto commission some plans for the 1940 celebration which will mark the 400th anniversary of the Spanish explorer's visit to the North American continent.

Dr. John R. Swanton, of the Smithsonian Institution, chairman of the commission, and Representative John Rankin, democrat, Mississippi, told the President stories handed down about the wanderings of De Soto across Arkansas and other southwestern states, and of his supposed death and burial in the Mississippi river south of Memphis.

Swanton said plans already had begun for the celebration.

The White House did not make public a list of the commissioners attending the conference.

GLASS 'PRO-MORGAN,' ELECTION RIVAL SAYS

RICHMOND, Va., March 6.—(AP)—Randolph Leigh, of Fairfax, candidate for the democratic nomination for the United States senate in opposition to Carter Glass, declared in a radio address here tonight that the senior senator had voted since 1933 "as the republican old guard would have voted if it had not been thrown out of office."

Describing Glass as "pro-Morgan and anti-Roosevelt," Leigh said the 1933 senate inquiry, "into the House of Morgan," marked "the great divide in Senator Glass' career."

"Up until that time he had ranked, deservedly or not, as a liberal, a splendid relic of a by-gone era," Leigh said. "After that, and after the New Deal hostility, he became the chief recationary or, if you prefer, conservative of the senate, excelling in that regard the strictest sect of the republicans."

STAMP ISSUE TO HONOR ARMY, NAVAL HEROES

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP)—The federal governtment may soon issue a series of stamps in honor of its army and navy heroes.

President Roosevelt said today the proposal already has reached an advanced discussion stage, but one of the snags holding up final decision was that he and Postmaster-General Farley and other officials could not decide which heroes to honor.

The President said the government had been considering such a series of stamps since "TR's" days in the White House.

The heroes honored would include those taking part in colonial as well as the national wars.

ICE-JAMMED RIVER BRINGS FLOOD FEAR

Nine Families Aroused From Sleep, Flee Homes To Escape Rising Waters.

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 6.—(AP) A grinding, crunching field of ice jammed its way down the Susquehanna river toward Harrisburg today, bringing threat of flood and damage to towns and summer colonies along the western bank.

The ice pounded through a week-old gorge at the union of Juniata with the Susquehanna, at Clark's Ferry last night, poured a sudden flood into Amity Hall, then piled up in shallows below Duncannon to give that town the first sight of floodwater in Front street since 1919.

Nine families, aroused by the siren of a fire engine just before dawn, fled their homes before water cut off their escape. Firemen in boats rescued another, the wife and six childress of Don Bornman.

The gorge broke up this morning after the shifting cakes pried open a 300-foot channel in the middle of the three-quarter-mile stream, and started moving slowly down the river.

The Pennsylvania railroad sent out patrols along its tracks, to watch the rising flood.

INJUNCTION GRANTED IN NEWSPAPER STRIKE

MILWAUKEE, March 6.—(AP)—Circuit Judge Charles L. Aarons granted a permanent injunction today against the Milwaukee Newspaper Guild and striking editorial employes of the Wisconsin News to restrain them from continuing a secondary boycott by picketing advertisers.

The Wisconsin News had petitioned for the order on grounds such picketing was illegal.

Judge Aarons ruled that signs such as "Don't Patronize Stores Advertising in the Wisconsin News" and "Don't Patronize the Store Until It Stops Advertising in the News" were unlawful and could not be carried in front of stores advertising in the News.

He declared, however, that strike pickets may parade on any street and carry signs calling attention to the strike.

The actress, the former Dorothy Schofield Heisen, alleged that Hyson stayed at a London hotel with another woman in 1933. Justice Langton granted a decree nisi, which would become final in six months.

DUBLIN MAYOR'S POST IS DECLARED VACANT

Chapman Ruled as Being Ineligible To Succeed Himself.

McRAE, Ga., March 6.—(AP)—Mayor M. A. Chapman, of Dublin, was today declared ineligible to hold his office in a court order issued here which cited a charter provision of the city prohibiting a second consecutive term.

Judge Eschol Graham, of Oconee superior court, acting in a quo warranto proceeding brought by J. A. Walden, a Dublin taxpayer, ordered that Chapman "be ousted from such office" when his successor is elected and qualified and declared the mayor's office vacant.

It was admitted, Judge Graham said, that Chapman was "holding the office of mayor for a second term, succeeding himself as such without an intervening term."

The judge ordered a supercedeas for ten days to give Mayor Chapman the opportunity to appeal the ruling which was made on Chapman's demurrer to a petition filed by Walden.

When proceedings were instituted last Month Chapman said:

"John Walden is sore because the city hasn't paved in front of his house and Harry Taylor and Al Hatcher (attorneys for Walden) are peeved because I received the most votes in the last election.

"The man who preceded me as mayor served two terms and John, Harry and Alfred all lived here at that time. They didn't quo warranto him."

SEN. HOLT CHARGES DESK "JIMMIED"

West Viginia Solon Raps WPA as Being Operated for Political Purposes.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP)—Senator Holt, 30-year-old democrat, who has charged repeatedly that the WPA in West Virginia is being operated for political purposes, said today his office desk had been "jimmied" during his recent absence from Washington.

Holt said capitol and city police had examined the desk, but because of its smooth top had found no fingerprints.

He also reported nothing was missing from this desk in the senate office building, adding that he removed all valuable papers from it before going to West Virginia recently to carry forward his investigation of work relief activities there.

Holt showed a reporter how the top of his desk had been forced upward off its pedestal, so the lock would not work.

The West Virginian said capitol police investigated and called in two city detectives and a fingerprint expert.

He added that he is the only one carrying a key to the desk and nearby steel cabinet. The latter also had been pried open on another occasion, he said.

"I'm taking no chances now," Holt said. "I am having photostat copies made of all the letters and documents in my possession."

LIVINGSTON DENIES POSTOFFICE 'HOLDUP'

Postmaster Lon Livingston wants it known that Atlanta's postoffice is no den of holdup men.

The postmaster yesterday produced witnesses who said that Ed Hood, negro, reported to have been slugged and robbed while writing a postcard in the postoffice corridor Wednesday night merely toppled over in a faint and was not the victim of thugs.

He was treated at Grady hospital for head injuries. He was said to have told police $19.50 he had in his pocket was missing when he regained consciousness at the hospital.

The Danish method of measuring girth of cattle at the heart as a guide to the animal's weight is being adopted in this country with surprisingly accurate results.

COUNTY INVESTIGATION BEGUN BY GRAND JURY

Probe, Required by Law, Discussed; Bribery Charged to Special Officer.

Investigation of county affairs was begun yesterday by the Fulton grand jury, which also returned an indictment against a special police officer for accepting a bribe.

Though no county witnesses were interviewed by the jurors, it was known that the jurymen began consideration of the county investigation, which is required of this body by law.

The special police officer was named in a true bill as H. B. Smith, charged with accepting a bribe of $4 from E. E. Garvin, of the Techwood Pharmacy, against whom a case for violation of the lottery law was dismissed by Smith.

The indictment alleged Smith received the sum of money to influence him in discharging his duties as a special officer on February 19.

J. R. Butler and Willie Hazelrig, white men, were named in true bills charging them with receiving stolen goods from "persons unknown to the grand jury." These two indictments were among 21 true bills and one no-bill returned by the new grand jury yesterday.

Foreman R. A. Agnew has made no announcement as to the plans of the current jury for probing county affairs but it was understood yesterday that jurors discussed the work required of them. They have in their possession presentments of a previous grand jury which investigated the county and it was understood this probably will be used as a model.

No session of the grand jury will be held Tuesday, the day before the March 11 primary, but an extra meeting will be held later to handle the routine business which was scheduled for Tuesday.

20-YEAR-OLD SUIT DECIDED FOR CITY

Legal Action Begun in 1915 Settled Yesterday by Superior Court.

A suit against the city of Atlanta which was begun 20 years ago was believed ended yesterday in Fulton superior court when the jury brought in a verdict for the city.

As one of the strangest cases in the annals of the city, the suit attracted much interest yesterday as it was tried in Judge Hugh M. Dorsey's court.

Twenty years ago Mrs. Ella Swiney sued the city of Atlanta for the value of dirt the city removed from her property in building Clifton street. The petition for damages was heard in the old city court of Judge H. M. Reid, and the jury returned a verdict for Mrs. Swiney, awarding her $300.

The city, represented by James L. Mayson, city attorney, appealed the decision and the supreme court reversed the lower court and a new trial was ordered.

The case was never docketed and lay dormant on the files of Fulton county until recently, when Attorney George Rush, who represented Mrs. Swiney in the original trial, resurrected it and caused it to be put on the calendar once more.

When it came up for trial yesterday in superior court, virtually everyone of those connected with the original case, with the exception of Mrs. Swiney and Rush, were dead. All the witnesses at the first trial were dead and City Attorney Mayson and Judge Reid were also. Only Sam Hewlett, now a special assistant attorney-general of Governor Talmadge and a prominent lawyer here, survives. He figured in the suit 20 years ago as a young assistant city attorney.

Bond Almand, assistant city attorney, represented Atlanta yesterday.

RETAIL CREDIT GROUP NAMES NEW OFFICERS

COCA-COLA TAX SUIT IS DROPPED BY CITY

Suits against the Coca-Cola International Corporation for several millions of dollars in back taxes were withdrawn yesterday by the city of Atlanta, since settlement of the tax claim for $150,000 had been effected out of court.

A consent order allowing withdrawal of the suits, which sought to block undomestication of the corporation and to secure payment of back taxes for 1931 on property valued by the city at nearly $60,000,000, was filed in Fulton superior court.

The city accepted as complete payment $150,000, which was the same amount that Fulton county received on a similar claim. City Attorney Jack Savage and Assistant City Attorney Bond Almand, who handled collection of the city's taxes, declared they got no extra compensation for their work.

County Attorney Ralph Pharr, however, received a fee of 20 per cent, amounting to $21,304 on the county's share. The fee has been the center of controversy in the county commission and the county commissioners' race ever since.

2 RESPITED SLAYERS NOT YET RESENTENCED

Respites for Sammie Armstrong and Terrell Loughridge, convicted in Whitfield county of murder and sentenced to electrocution, have expired but they have not been resentenced to the chair.

The supreme court has affirmed the conviction of Armstrong, who was convicted of the murder of Herman O'Donnell. Armstrong claimed O'Donnell was killed on a hunting trip.

Loughridge was convicted of slaying his father, Frank Loughridge, when he fired at a deputy sheriff who came to the Loughridge home to serve a warrant for Terrell Loughridge.

Governor Talmadge granted the two men a respite from January 1. The law requires resentencing of men after a respite from the electric chair. The Governor has taken no action in either case and their records still are in the Governor's office.

HOFFMAN SPURS HUNT FOR NEW LINDY CLUES

Governor Seeks Details of Condon, Prisoner Interview.

TRENTON, N. J., March 6.—(AP)—Governor Harold G. Hoffman's investigators, spurred by his announcement he has only until March 12 to sign a second reprieve for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, intensified their search today for new evidence in the Lindbergh kidnap-slaying.

At the same time, Hauptmann's chief counsel, C. Lloyd Fisher, said the defense had several courses in view should nothing develop before next Wednesday to make a reprieve likely. The governor himself has said that "as matters stand now" there will be no new reprieve.

Hauptmann is under sentence to die the week of March 30.

The governor's press aide, William S. Conklin, said Hoffman is still interested in the activities of Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon, ransom emissary, and is seeking details of an interview Condon had with a Miami, Fla., prisoner in December, 1934.

Conklin said numerous offers of assistance to the governor in his search for clues to a "complete solution" of the crime have extended the investigation to many sections of the country and into foreign lands.

Unconfirmed reports persisted that representatives of the governor were on their way to Cuba and Germany.

Dr. Condon, who is now in Panama, interviewed the Florida prisoner, Sam Garelick, serving a life sentence for kidnaping, on December 16, 1934, 17 days before Hauptmann went on trial for the Lindbergh baby killing.

The governor, in a telegram to Sheriff D. C. Coleman, of Miami, said he understood the purpose of the Bronx educator's visit was to try to identify Garelick as the person to whom he paid the $50,000 ransom in St. Raymond's cemetery, the Bronx, on April 2, 1932. At the trial Condon identified Hauptmann as the man who received the money.

Conklin said the governor thought the interview with Garelick indicated Jafsie believed more than one person was involved in the crime.

DETAILS OF INTERVIEW SOUGHT BY HOFFMAN

MIAMI, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—A jailhouse meeting here two years ago of Dr. John F. Condon—"Jafsie" of the Lindbergh case—and a convicted kidnaper today interested Governor Harold G. Hoffman, of New Jersey.

The governor's office said the December 16, 1934, interview in the skyscraper Dade (Miami) county jail indicated Dr. Condon, as late as a month before Bruno Richard Hauptmann's trial, believed more than one person involved.

Of what Dr. Condon and Sam Garelick, sentenced to life imprisonment under Florida's "Lindbergh" law for the kidnaping of Dr. Santiago Claret, Cuban editor, talked at the meeting remained undisclosed, for no third person listened.

Governor Hoffman wired Sheriff D. C. Coleman information had come to him the Lindbergh intermediary "visited you for the purpose of identifying Sam Garelick as person to whom Dr. Condon paid ransom in St. Raymond's cemetery, Bronx, New York."

The sheriff replied the two men had indeed met, a hitherto unrevealed fact, and "while the purpose of the interview was not specifically given, it was assumed it had some connection with the Lindbergh case."

In so far as Sheriff Coleman's office could determine, Garelick lived here for several years prior to the December, 1934, kidnaping of Dr. Claret. The Federal Bureau of Investigation reported they had no previous criminal record for him.

Some officers here believed the studious Dr. Condon, reading of the Claret case during his stay in Miami at the time, seized upon the occasion for a visit to the county jail to pursue his delvings into psychology.

Admitted without question to the jail because of his connection with the Lindbergh case and the announcement he was in Miami to run down information concerning it, Dr. Condon, they surmised, had talked only in generalities with Garelick.

Accosted by four men as he left a Miami residence on the night of December 10, 1934, Dr. Claret was taken to an unfinished building in an isolated section of Miami Beach and there, by candle light and under death threat, signed a $16,000 check.

Gagging and binding the Cuban to an exposed beam, the men departed, to be rounded up a few hours later when Dr. Claret, freeing himself, informed police before the check had been presented for payment.

Within five days life sentences had been meted out to Garelick, 37-year-old "jitney" driver; J. Roy Gray and his brother, Fred, and W. R. Millard, 45, "jitney" starter.

Prosecution of the quartet was the first under Florida's 1933 "Lindbergh" law, which makes possible the death penalty for kidnaping.

SPY SEARCH SWINGS TO MEXICAN BORDER

LOS ANGELES, March 6.—(UP) Investigation into an asserted "international spy market" which is believed to have penddled war secrets of the United States navy in foreign counties, swung to the Mexican border tonight following information that two persons sought for questioning may have attempted to flee into Mexico.

Two automobile loads of federal agents headed southward following reports an "agitated woman" had chartered an airplane for an "emergency flight" into Mexico at a local airport.

Earlier, it was reported a well-dressed oriental had been detained temporarily at the border, denied permission to leave the country pending examination of his papers.

2 1-2 YEAR-OLD CRIES AFTER 6-MONTH SLEEP

ERIE, Pa., March 6.—(AP)—Little Maxine Yarrington cried intermittently today in the crib where she has been asleep six months.

But she showed no signs of awakening.

Dr. H. D. Emerson said the 2 1-2-year-old girl remains in a semi-conscious state from a malady diagnosed as encephalities lethargica, or sleeping sickness. She took soft food from a spoon, and occasionally tossed her head and waved her tiny arms.

MURDER CHARGED IN 'MOTHER BLUFF'

Three Said Killed in Effort To Provide Baby in Woman's Ruse.

DORCHESTER, N. B., March 6.—(AP)—The crown sent a long series of technical witnesses to the stand today in a case which it calls a weird murder-kidnap plot of the backwoods designed solely to provide a baby so that a woman might "bluff" two male neighbors.

Young Arthur Bannister is charged with murder in connection with the deaths January 6 of Philip Lake, his housekeeper and one of their children when fire destroyed Lake's squatter cabin.

The crown contends that Lake's infant daughter was kidnaped that night so that Mrs. May Bannister, 45, and mother of the defendant, might have a baby to "place under moral obligation" two of her men friends.

Mrs. Bannister will face trial later on the charge of kidnaping the child.

Endeavoring to bolster its contention that Lake was shot and partially cremated in his burning shack, that the housekeeper was bludgeoned to death and their baby son left to die from exposure after the other child was abducted, the crown introduced witnesses to tell of the strange tragedy.

REED PLEDGES FIGHT TO DEFEAT ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK, March 6.—(UP)—James A. Reed, fiery Missouri democrat and former United States senator, will devote all his energy to defeating President Roosevelt in the next election, he said tonight in a withering blast at the New Deal.

"If we don't beat the principles of the crowd at Washington we will have destroyed the American government," Reed said in an interview.

"There are three political parties in the United States. They are the republican party, the democratic party and the third party which is running the government at Washington—a mixture of bolshevism, socialism and communism.

"I don't know what the republican party is going to do. I don't think its leaders know. I never voted a republican ticket in my life and I am still a democrat, but I am going to devote all my energies to defeating the policies of the Roosevelt administration in the next election."

TOKYO MILITARISTS BAR FORMATION OF CABINET

City Tense as Army Attempts To Dictate to Government.

TOKYO, March 6.—(AP)—The threatened wrecking of Koki Hirota's attempts to form a Japanese cabinet because of the army's disapproval of some of his selections created an ominous tension in Tokyo tonight.

Principal figures involved in the efforts to organize a government to succeed that shattered by army extremists last week went to bed shortly before midnight with their negotiations still deadlocked. They were to continue their work tomorrow.

Despite the announced retirement of five senior generals under a cloud of indirect responsibility for last week's rebellion, the army served notice of its still tremendous power in the empire's politics.

Count Juichi Terauchi, whom Hirota had selected as war minister, withdrew under pressure from high militarists who opposed some of his selections of liberals. The army men indicated they would not allow any other general to enter the cabinet unless Hirota approved the military's demands.

Navy Loyal.

It was understood the army leaders disapproved the choice of Shigeru Yoshida for the foreign affairs ministry.

An indication that the navy—which remained loyal during the recent uprising—did not join the army in opposing Hirota's choices was seen in the acceptance of the navy portfolio by Admiral Ami Nagano. He reached Tokyo today on his return from the London naval conference.

As an aftermath of the revolt, major changes were instituted in the army's leadership. General Kenkichi Uyeda was named Japanese ambassador to Manchoukuo and commander-in-chief of the Manchoukuoan garrison, succeeding General Minami. He was installed tonight, in the presence of Emperor Hirohito.

General Minami, General Sadao Araki, General Nobuyuki Abe, General Senjuro Hayashi and General Jinzaburo Mazaki were retired from active service.

Trouble Rumored.

It was understood General Yoshiyuki Kawashima, war minister under the present government of Pramier Keisuke Okada, will retire when that cabinet is replaced.

The abrupt replacement of Minami, the emperor's proconsul in Manchuria for more than two years, gave rise to rumors of troubles in Hsinking, capital of Manchuria, but this report went unconfirmed and was officially denied.

General Araki, one of those retired, was mentioned prominently last week as a possible choice for the premiership. He once held the ministry of war, as did General Hayashi, another of those retired.

Because of the army's opposition to Hirota's cabinet slate and the beclouded political prospects, governors of the Tokyo Stock Exchange voted to remain closed.

NOE OPENS DRIVE AGAINST 'HOT OIL'

11 Agents Detailed To Keep Production at Quota; 3 Trucks Held.

SHREVEPORT, La., March 6.—(UP)—Governor James A. Noe said today he had started a campaign against "hot oil" operators in the Rodessa field and had assigned 11 agents of the State Bureau of Criminal Identification to the field, with General L. F. Guerre, head of the bureau, in charge.

Three oil trucks were detained today but were released after paying a state tax.

Noe said he had been requested by oil men interested in the field to come here and look the situation over.

"The oil fraternity need have no fear of hot oil operators in Rodessa," he said. "Wells will be kept to the 400-barrel allowance and those which are allowed to produce more than that will be closed. I am going to see that they stay within the quota and am not going to let a few law violators and hot oil merchants interfere with the legitimate operators. Every one will be treated fairly and impartially."

Noe himself is a wealthy oil operator of Monroe, La.

BREAK O'DAY!
By Ralph McGill

It was 100 years ago yesterday that Jim Bowie died.

He was a Georgian. He was from Burke county, where Waynesboro is.

He was one of those mutilated and bayonet-tossed by the 4,000 men of Santa Anna, who stormed the Alamo and its force of 182 men.

In Tennessee yesterday they remembered Davy Crockett, who chewed tobacco and whose rule for living was, "Be sure you're right, then go ahead." He died with Bowie. Bowie was desperately ill. But he loaded guns and handed them to Crockett. And when the Mexicans came to the room, Bowie met them with the knife that bears his name.

I have seen the little room where they died. There is a sign there on the door saying that in this doorway Crockett's body was found with the Mexican dead carpeting the floor before him. And there is the room where Bowie died.

We celebrate lesser heroes than Jim Bowie. They do not know much about him. Except that he knew how to die.

He was a wanderer. He was a fighter. He was a part of the chaotic west, the tough old west of the knife and the rifle.

There is a record of him hunting a lost gold mine in California in 1828. He had eight years left of life. The Alamo was ahead. He was born "about" 1799. There is another story of a Mexican fight when his sword broke and he fought on. From that he got the idea of a knife with a handle. The hand would not slip down on the blade then, when the point struck a bone.

They liked Jim Bowie's knife. They liked it so well a firm in England began to make them of keen steel. And Texas bought more of them than any other country in the world.

They fought under their own flag that day. It was later a woman in Columbus, Ga., would go to work stitching a flag with a lone star in the center.

MUCH THAT IS AMERICAN.

There is much that is American there at the old Alamo. There are the sleepy old courtyards. There are the souvenirs for sale. There are the old knifes and guns. But the thing most American is the tradition that is there.

William B. Travis was in charge that day. Alabama forgets him. Yet of all the heroic documents of our history, there is none more heroic than this. You may read it and see:

"Commandancy of the Alamo
"Bejar, F'by 24th 1836.

"To the people of Texas & all Americans in the world—

"am besieged by a thousand or more Mexicans under Santa Anna. I have sustained a continual bombardment & cannonade for 24 hrs. and have not lost a man. The enemy has demanded a surrender at discretion, otherwise the garrison are to be put to the sword . . . if the fort is taken. I have aswered the demand with a cannon shot and our flag still waves proudly from the wall. I shall never surrender or retreat. Then, I call on you in the name of Liberty, of patriotism & everything dear to the American character, to come to our aid with all dispatch. The enemy is receiving reinforcements daily and will no doubt increase to three or four thousand in four or five days. If this is neglected I am determined to sustain myself as long as possible . . . victory or death.

"W. BARRETT TRAVIS,
"Lt. Col. Comdt."

No help came. And 100 years ago yesterday it was that the assault came. Four thousand men attacked 182. More than 500 Mexicans died that day.

The brassy Mexican bugles blew "Deguello" that day. The men in the fort knew it meant no quarter.

They met them with the rifles. And then with the knives.

A Mexican soldier, writing about it years later, said: "When a Texan's rifle was leveled at a Mexican he was as good as dead."

Late in the afternoon, 100 years ago yesterday, it was all over; all the long dying, the long fighting.

BUT THEY BEGAN MARCHING.

Within a week they were marching to Texas. They went from Georgia, from Tennessee and Alabama. And they found a leader in old Sam Houston, statesman, soldier, Indian chief, friend of Andrew Jackson, Old Hickory; fighter of duels.

Later there was San Jacinto and arrogant, insolent Santa Anna was captured. The men from Georgia were

HINES, CULLEY IN CLOSE CALL

NEW YORK, March 6—(AP)—Quarter-final brackets in the men's and semi-final brackets in the women's national indoor doubles tennis championships were filled today as form took a mild licking in one encounter.

For the second time the favored combination of Wilmer Hines, Columbia, S. C., and Henry Culley, of Santa Barbara, Cal., ranked third in the nation, was hard pressed to keep in the running. Today it was the formidable metropolitan pair of Dr. Lawrence Kurzrok and Jack Pitman that extended the intersectional combination to three sets.

Normally, Hines and Culley might romp through the opposition but this being their first experience on board courts has placed them at a slight disadvantage. In the final analysis, however, class prevailed as they won at 6-3, 3-6, 9-7.

Hines and Culley's opponents in the semi-finals tomorrow night will be Karle Schroeder, of Sweden, and Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J., who swept through Bill Feibleman and Sidney Adelstein, in straight sets, 6-1, 6-4. The other semi-finalists, Gregory Mangin and Johnny Van Ryn and Frank Bowden and Dr. Eugene McCauliff, gained their brackets two days ago and also will meet tomorrow night.

The lone result which smacked of an upset was the elimination of Mrs. John Van Ryn and Mrs. Henry C. Brunie, second seeded team, by Norma Taubele and Florence Le Boutillier, seeded a notch below in the women's division.

Tomorrow afternoon the semi-finals in the men's and women's singles championship will be played. At 1 p. m. Mrs. Van Ryn will meet Millicent Hirsh and Miss Taubele will oppose Mme. Henrotin. At 2 p. m. Frank Bowden will take on Leonard Hartman, and at 4 p. m., defending Champion Mangin will engage Hines.

SCHMELING SAYS HE'LL QUIT RING IF BOMBER WINS

It's Not Money, But Lost Championship Herr Maxie Seeks.

By Gayle Talbot.

BERLIN, March 6.—(AP)—Looking lean and fit after a winter spent in hunting deer and wild pig on his 15,000-acre game preserve near Muencheberg, Max Schmeling told the Associated Press today he intended to quit the fight game for good if he fails to whip Joe Louis in June.

The former champion, only four pounds over his best fighting weight of 188 pounds despite the fact that he has taken only the lightest kind of exercise for several months, expressed the firm conviction that he would stop the brown bomber.

"If I wasn't sure I could beat him and then win the title again," said Schmeling, "I wouldn't have taken this fight.

"It isn't the money I'm interested in. It is my last chance to win back my title and only Louis stands in the way.

FEELS GREAT.

"I never felt so good before a fight in all my life. All we have to find out now is whether Louis can take it. I know I can."

As far as Schmeling is concerned, Louis still has to prove he is a great fighter.

"He's had the softest time any modern heavyweight ever had," the former champion declared. "Whom has he beaten? Baer was washed up, scared to death. Carnera was nothing. Levinsky was just a has-been. Retzlaff never could fight much. He won't find me scared. He's got to prove in the ring that he can beat me."

If Schemling has thought up any method of fighting Louis after watching the negro knock out Paulino in New York several months ago, he wouldn't disclose it.

"I'll figure that out after we get into the ring," he said with a smile. "The greatest thing in my favor is the fact that Louis will be the favorite. I like that for a change."

MAX SKIIS.

Schmeling stopped in Berlin for only one day en route to Garmisch-Partenkirchen with his wife, Anny Ondra, who is making a picture calling for some skiing. Max is a proficient skiier himself but he won't risk any injury this time.

He intends to leave for New York about the middle of April and will go immediately to a training site not yet selected by his manager, Joe Jacobs.

"I promise you that I'll be in as great condition as I was against Steve Hamas at Hamburg last March," said Schmeling. "And you saw me there.

"I'll find out the answer to the question of whether Louis can take punishment. If he takes what I give him and then comes back to win, I'll be willing to quit for good. One thing I feel certain of is that it won't end in a decision."

Reeves To Quit Baseball; Says He's Burned Out

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 6. (AP)—Bobby Reeves, Lookout shortstop recently traded to the New Orleans club of the Southern association for Pitcher Andy Messenger, said today that he is through with baseball.

Reeves is only 31 but he considers himself "burned out," he said, from hectic 1928 season with the Washington Senators, when he "caddied" for Goose Goslin. He said he was overworked that season, playing his own position and part of left field.

In 16 days, he said, he lost 29 pounds.

Reeves went straight from a college campus into the majors and made good. A product of Georgia Tech, he spent three years with Washington, three with the Boston Red Sox, two with Portland and the West Coast league and last season played here.

Wally Berger Signs Bee Contract

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—It took Wally Berger, holdout outfield star of the Boston Bees, less than ten minutes to iron out his salary difficulties with Bob Quinn, general manager of the club, this morning and he donned a uniform for his first workout of the spring training season.

The signing of Berger, one of the leading batsmen of the National league, leaves only Hal Lee, another regular outfielder, outside the Bees' fold and Manager Bill McKechnie is not alarmed over Lee's absence. He is expected to arrive here in a day or so and McKechnie feels sure that he will come to terms readily, expressing the belief that his absence is due to his college coaching activities rather than to any discontent over the 1936 contract tendered him.

Generals Take Lead In S. C. Tank Meet

DURHAM, N. C., March 6.—(AP)—Washington and Lee's Generals, defending champions and favored to repeat this year, took an early lead in the sixth annual Southern conference swimming tournament which got under way in Duke gymnasium pool here this afternoon.

In the lone scoring event staged today, the Generals' crack 400-yard relay team broke the record for the event by negotiating the distance in 3:56. The relay outfit was composed of Wagner, Brashier, Lund and Griffin.

Their victory in this event gave the Generals a score of eight points to take into tomorrow's finals. North Carolina State finished second in the relay to get six points and Duke took third for four points.

Five teams took part in today's affair. Maryland, Washington and Lee, North Carolina State, Virginia and Duke were represented but V. P. I. and Clemson failed to appear. With the Tigers and the Gobblers out, preliminaries were staged in only three events today—the 50 and 100-yard dashes and the 150-yard backstroke.

PAT BERG DROPS EXCITING MATCH TO MRS. O. S. HILL

Youngster Taught Tricks in 1-Up Loss; Crews Beats Miley.

By Paul Mickelson.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 6. (AP)—Patty Berg, golf's greatest youngster, fell amid the ruins of stymies in America's oldest city today.

Mrs. Opal S. Hill, of Kansas City, the very woman who taught the 18-year-old Minneapolis freckle face many of the inside tricks of big time golf, turned the tide in this ancient city that Ponce de Leon made famous by defeating her 1-up after an exciting struggle in the semi-final of the Florida east coast championship.

Joining Mrs. Hill in the 18-hole final, to be played tomorrow, was Mrs. Maureen Orcutt Crews, of Coral Gables, Fla., who played some of the most brilliant golf of her great career to crush Marion Miley, of Lexington, Ky., 2 and 1. With flawless control, Mrs. Crews breezed over the championship St. Augustine course's 6,345 yards in 73 shots—only one blow over men's par and seven strokes under women's perfect figures. Her putt for men's par on the final hole, which she played out in an attempt to match her medal record of 72, hung stubbornly on the lip of the cup.

HAMBY, SALTER HIGH SCORERS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Walter Joy, veteran Ontario, Cal., sharpshooter, this afternoon captured the southeastern small-bore championship formerly held by Thurman Randle, chalking up a brilliant aggregate score of 983 in three events, while the defending champion from Dallas, Texas, took a 979 for second place.

Three more events which count for the national title worn by "Turk" Samsoe, Perth Amboy, N. J., will be staged tomorrow. The new contests, any sight matches, will be included with the three southeastern championship scores for an aggregate which will determine the national titleholder. Samsoe has not arrived here and is not expected to defend his crown.

High scorers in yesterday's shootings follows:

50-Meter Metallic—Sellers, 393; E. F. Sommers, West Allis, Wis., 395, and Dent Ferrel, Marion, Ill., 395. 50-Meter Two-Man Metallic—G. Hamby and T. Salter, both of Atlanta, 393; Kenneth Recker, Winter Haven, and L. Abrams, Clearwater, 392, and Victor O. Wehle, and T. F. Bridgland, both of St. Petersburg, 389. Individual Dewar 50 and 100 Yards—William P. Schweitzer, Hillside, N. J., 399; A. L. Knight, Fort Worth, Texas, 398; L. Abrams, Clearwater, 397.

Individual Long Range (200 Yards)—Walter Joy, 196; Henry Gould, Louisville, 192, 9x, and H. Reid, Hampton, Va., 192, 6x.

CARNERA WINS BY KNOCKOUT

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP)—Ponderous Primo Carnera blasted out a five-round victory tonight over Izzy Gastanaga, wild-swinging Spaniard, in Madison Square Garden. The huge Italian, scaling 268 1-4, was awarded a technical knockout when Referee Arthur Donovan stopped the fight because of the condition of Gastanaga's damaged left eye. The Spaniard scaled 208 1-4.

DECISIVE MARGIN.

Carnera, although obviously rattled by his opponent's unorthodox style, had a decisive margin on points throughout. There were no knockdowns, and the crowd of 9,000 onlookers, including 8,834 cash customers who paid $18,380.08, continually jeered the ponderous Primo's tactics.

PURSE HELD UP.

Brigadier General John J. Phelan, chairman of the State Athletic Commission, said he was "perfectly satisfied with the honesty of the fight," but announced nevertheless the purses of both principals would be withheld, pending a final hearing next Tuesday on charges that the managers of Gastanaga and Carner are "business associates."

"That is simply precautionary," said General Phelan. "We do not want to risk any come-back. Nothing developed at today's meeting to justify accusations of collusion, but we will give the case a thorough hearing, nevertheless."

Yard Ousts Meter In Amateur Ranks

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP)—The Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America, at its annual convention tonight, voted to abandon the metric system of measurements for its indoor and outdoor championship meets and return to the old yardage basis.

The association, which includes most of the major eastern institutions, adopted the metric system two years ago, following the lead of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Tonight the sentiment was overwhelmingly in favor of the change with a 27-to-3 vote in favor of the return to the yardage basis.

Stock Car Racers Qualify at Daytona

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Twenty-seven entrants, headed by Bill Cummings, with a speed of 70.39 miles an hour, qualified today for the 250-mile stock car race on the ocean beach and a paralleling concrete road here Sunday.

'Bubber' Yarter Leaps for One

Jerome "Bubber" Yarter, former Atlanta prep star at Boys' High school, is shown leaving the ground to pull down a high one. Yarter is training with the Philadelphia Athletics at Fort Myers. Yarter played shortstop on the Purple team two years ago. This is his second attempt to break into Connie Mack's lineup.

Atlanta Is 16th Club For Catcher Richards

Cracker Star Boasts Great Minor Loop Record; Has Played Third and Short.

By Jack Troy.

GULFPORT, Miss., March 6.—It was several years ago, playing for Muskogee, in the Western association, that Paul Richards, new Cracker catcher, set the bushes on fire.

His accomplishments for the season included:

Leading in home runs, runs batted in, total bases, stolen bases, strikeouts, bases on balls and runs scored. And he helped set a Western association record for double plays.

That season Richards, playing third base, was chosen on the all-star team. During the season he also worked as a pitcher and won two and lost none.

The Cracker Club is the sixteenth for the much-traveled Richards, who is a wiry Texan of six feet two inches and weighs 182 pounds. He is 27 years old.

Clubs with whom Richards has played previously include Brooklyn, his first; Pittsfield, Mass.; Crisfield, Md.; St. Louis Browns, Waterbury, Conn.; Buffalo, Tulsa, Muskogee, Macon, Asheville, Macon again, Brooklyn again, Hartford, Minneapolis, New York Giants, and the Philadelphia Athletics.

CAUGHT HUBBELL.

It was Richards who caught Carl Hubbell when the ace Giant southpaw set the National league record of 45 consecutive scoreless innings. Richards caught Hubbell most of the season. He hurt his wrist toward the end of the season and was forced to retire.

Richards has only been catching since 1930.

Previously he had played third base and shortstop and pitched occasionally.

Richards has made the all-star team in every league in which he has played except the majors.

He made the team in the Eastern league as a shortstop. He made it in the Western league as a third baseman. And he made it in the Sally, Eastern and American association as a catcher.

So you may see at a glance that the new Cracker backstop is a most versatile young man.

RECOGNIZED AS BEST.

During the 1930 season, Richards was recognized as the best fielding infielder in the South Atlantis league. But he wasn't hitting up to par.

So he went to catching and his hitting improved at once. Richards is at a loss to explain it. So well did

Bill Terry Orders Leiber to Florida

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Manager Terry, of the Giants, back here after a brief visit to Memphis for treatment of a swollen left knee, announced today he had sent a telegram to Outfielder Hank Leiber ordering him to camp to confer about his salary differences.

Leiber is at Tuscon, coaching the University of Arizona team. He already is a week late in reporting and the lone unsigned Giant player.

Summerville Enters Northwest League

SUMMERVILLE, Ga., March 6.—Summerville will again be represented in the Northwest Georgia baseball league. A club was organized this week with the election of Moses E. Brinson as president and A. D. Snow, coach for the Summerville High school, as team director. Frank Pittman, superintendent of the Summerville Mills, was elected treasurer.

This team will be Summerville's entry in the Northwest Georgia league, which plans to function for the second year on a 20-game schedule, playing on Saturdays only.

From June 1 to September 1 Wednesday afternoon games will be scheduled with teams of other leagues, since during this period the business houses of Summerville close on Wednesday afternoons for a half-holiday.

BREVITY CHOICE IN MIAMI FINAL THIS AFTERNOON

Last Florida Derby Ends Hialeah Racing Season; $20,000 Purse.

MIAMI, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—A big bay three-year-old, of which Joseph E. Widener pins his hope of winning this year's Kentucky Derby, gets his greatest test tomorrow in the eighth—and last—running of the $20,000 Florida Derby.

Widener's colt, Brevity, by chance shot or sicle-ormonda, will go to the post in the big race, the fifth on the Hialeah park card, the top-heavy favorite to outdo 10 other crack three-year-olds named, from 94 nominations, for the mile-and-furlong classic.

Because Widener, president of the Miami Jockey Club which operates Hialeah, looks with disfavor on the overuse of the term "derby" in describing horse races, the $20,000 feature, biggest stake event of this year, will be called something else, probably the "Flamingo Stakes," next year.

It will yield place in importance, too, to the Widener challenge cup handicap, to be increased in the 1937 running from $10,000 added to $50,000 added.

Jackey Wayne D. Wright, who brought Top Row home the winner in the lately run $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, will saddle Brevity tomorrow. The horse will share top weight, 120 pounds, with three others.

Next to Brevity, wagerers were inclined to favor Pete Bostwick's Mont Blanc, with Jockey Eddie Arcaro up and carrying 118 pounds, which came along so fast this season Bostwick paid the supplementary entry fee of $250 to get the horse into the race.

Almost any horse in the race, however, might wel push the Widener entry for first money, since the 11 represent the cream of the three-year-olds racing at Hialeah.

TARHEEL CAGERS MEET GENERALS

RALEIGH, N. C., March 6.—(UP) Washington and Lee, the favorite team, and the University of North Carolina, defending champion, tonight won places in the final round of the 15th annual Southern conference basketball tournament here at Memorial auditorium.

Washington and Lee defeated Maryland, 38-32, and North Carolina defeated North Carolina State, 31-28.

The State-Carolina game was the closest battle of the tournament thus far. The two teams were evenly matched. Carolina took an early lead but State pulled to a 17-all score at the half. Carolina again stepped in front in the second half and after the score had been tied four times during the period, Carolina, on baskets by Ruth and Caveny, took a one-point lead. With less than 30 seconds remaining to play, Earl Ruth, Tarheel guard, dropped one through the net from the side to clinch the Carolina victory.

Ruth was the offensive star of the game with four baskets. Nelson and Bershak, Carolina forwards, scored three each.

Connie Mack Berry, State center, scored three field goals and three free throws to take point honors for the game.

Carolina's smooth passing attack moved through the State defense with regularity. State was unable to convert many good shots from the field. Carolina's basket eyes were unfailing.

TECH SWIMMERS TO MEET EMORY

Georgia Tech and Emory will clash in athletics for the first time this year this afternoon when the Yellow Jacket swimming team invades the Emory pool for a dual match with the Emory tankmen at 3:30 o'clock.

Tech has another strong team, which showed up favorably in a recent practice meet with the Atlanta Y. M. C. A.

Emory, placing her hopes in Bishop and Clay, has lost to Clemson and Florida and won from Maryville in previous competition this year.

Coach Hugh Shackleford's Emory swimmers will face another severe test Monday afternoon when they meet the Atlanta "Y" in the Emory pool at 3:30 o'clock.

Piedmont Squashers Meet Chattanoogans

Piedmont Driving Club's squash team will open its annual schedule at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon on the Piedmont court with Chattanooga as opponents.

It will be the first of a series of inter-city matches, both here and away from home.

Members of Piedmont's team of five performers will be selected from M. Kilpatrick, Norris Broyles, Robert M. Harris, Henry Miller, William Nixon, W. C. Wardlaw III, Allison Adams and James Franklin.

Squash is rapidly taking its place with other popular sports and a large number of Atlanta's young businessmen are playing regularly.

Venzke Stricken, To Miss I. C. 4-A.

PHILADELPHIA, March 6. (AP)—Gene Venzke, the University of Pennsylvania's middle-distance picture runner, was stricken ill tonight and forced to forfeit his entry in the intercollegiate A. A. A. A. track championships in New York tomorrow.

SCHMIDT, BROWN IN FIRST DRILLS AT SPRING CAMP

Todd, Roberts To Get Trials; Whitaker and Embry Practice.

By Jack Troy.

GULFPORT, Miss., March 6.—Buster Chatham popped into camp tonight a day ahead of time. He will be ready to start active training tomorrow. Chatham quit his job in Waco, Texas, a couple of days ago and made ready to come to camp. The old urge got him. He has been working rather strenuously and reported tonight weighing 146 pounds.

The Cracker shortstop, who was field captain last year, believes he is in better shape than in some time. He has been preparing all winter for the baseball campaign.

KEYSTONE PAIR.

He and Nig Lipscomb, second baseman, got together immediately and declared that the Cracker keystone combination would be all right.

Chatham always has had the reputation for going after every ground ball hit between third and second. And he feels that this summer he will get the majority of them.

Chatham was second in hitting among the Southern league shortstops last season, and this summer he hopes to better that mark.

Manager Eddie Moore took advantage of the first real sunshiny day to put the Cracker batterymen and other players who are here through a stiff workout today.

There was, in the course of events, a stiff infield workout for Nig Lipscomb, the young second baseman who is laying the groundwork in advance for a good season.

Twenty-one players are here now. Bill Schmidt and Earl Brown, arriving late last night after a four-day train ride from California, took their first workout today. They were joined by C. R. Whitaker, a rookie outfielder, from Landis, N. C., who is being given a trial.

Then there was the initial workout for Harry Embry, rookie catcher, from Newnan, Ga. Embry, who has recovered from a 'flu attack, took things easy.

SORE MUSCLES.

There were many sore muscles in evidence as a result of the long opening day drill, but the players were working even harder. Pitchers Bud Thomas and Bobby Durham are setting a fast training pace, along with Lipscomb.

Lipscomb had trouble all last year going to his left on ground balls. He could go all the way back of first and get grounders, but when it came to going toward second, he had difficulty getting set and throwing the runner out.

That may have been because of his legs. It is, naturally, more of a strain. Since the session at Hot Springs, however, his legs have not given him any trouble. He is putting in daily practice on ground balls hit to his right.

Bill Schmidt, the leaning Tower of Babel-on, revealed that he had changed his stance at the plate and expected to be hitting long range this summer.

Schmidt pointed out that he had tried the new stance this winter and had done better with it. There was a bit of skepticism professed by fellow players, including his chief kidding fiend, Jim Lindsey, but Schmidt dismissed Big Jim by saying that [illegible] very [illegible]

SLUGGER NOW.

Lindsey [illegible] a 16-year slump last summer and will be pounding the apple rather freely, according to his present plans.

Schmidt is preparing to win at least 18 victories, he says, and is pointing for a big league career. Joe McCarthy, of the Yankees, was hot after him once before. [illegible] the day that the scouts saw him pitch, Schmidt [illegible] and a prospective big deal was off.

The scouts will be looking Schmidt over again [illegible]. Removal of the two impacted wisdom teeth has cured Bill's arm troubles, he believes.

Of the young pitchers in camp, Wilbur Cook, of Senoia, Ga., looks like the best prospect. He was with the Crackers [illegible] three weeks of last season. Cook is a strapping youngster, standing six foot three and weighing 190 pounds.

CARROLLTON BOYS.

Carlos Todd and Charles Roberts, two members of the Carrollton sandlot team that went to the finals in the eastern division of the American Legion sandlot tournament last year at Charlotte, N. C., and J. W. Stevens, of Cedartown, will be given a trial here next week.

The Crackers have not heard from Judge Bramham regarding the status of the Moultrie club as yet. But they will look the three youngsters over and place them either at Moultrie or some other suitable club.

Reese Upsets Arthur Hendrix; Battles 'Bitsy'

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Arthur Hendrix, of Lakeland, was eliminated from the fifth annual Everglades Club invitation tennis tournament today by Billy Reese, of Atlanta, who gave the Lakeland youngster a 6-0, 3-6, 6-4 defeat.

As Reese took the surprise decision over Hendrix, Charles Harris, of West Palm Beach, qualified himself for the semi-finals at the hands of Gardner Mulloy, of Miami. The Miamian went down, 1-6, 1-6.

Martin Buxby, of Miami, won the right to the semi-finals by defeating Jack Ohlaber, West Palm Beach, 6-2, 6-3. Bryan "Bitsy" Grant, of Atlanta, who eliminated Weston Painter, of Miami, yesterday, will be matched against Reese.

Cadets Vs. Generals In Wrestling Finals

LEXINGTON, Va., March 6.—(AP)—For the fifth year, the finals of the Southern conference wrestling tournament will be a "family affair" between the Cadets of V. M. I. and the Generals of Washington and Lee, each of whom have won the title five times.

As a result of tonight's semi-finals, the Generals [illegible] for tomorrow night's finals, with seven qualifiers to five for V. M. I.

North Carolina State put two grapplers in the finals and V. P. I. and North Carolina qualified one each.

Radutzky Cops Two--Bogart, Dacula, and Palmer Stone Win

GEORGIA WELTER EASILY ANNEXES S. E. C. BATTLES

Haines, of Bulldogs, Drops Close One at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, March 6.—(AP)—Sixteen Southeastern conference boxers went into the finals of the annual tournament after stirring battles here tonight.

Championship matches will be fought tomorrow night.

Mickey Radutzky, of Georgia, defending welterweight champion, breezed through to a decision over Chilli Etter, of Tennessee. Radutzky tomorrow will face Fred O'Banion, of L. S. U., who entered the finals by winning a decision from Hazel Lackey, of the University of Mississippi.

A round of boos greeted announcement of a decision for Cameron Gamble, Tulane, over Bert Reddoch, Mississippi State, defending middleweight champion. Reddoch seemed to have the best of the fight throughout. In the finals, Gamble will meet Earl "Choo Choo" Dugas, of L. S. U., who drew a bye.

In the light heavyweight class, Carl Inman, Mississippi State, sent Buster Isenberg, of Georgia, to the canvas for the count in the third round. Jimmy Blakeman, of L. S. U., defending light heavy champion, who drew a bye, will meet Inman tomorrow night.

Max Radutzky, Georgia University, opened his drive to retain his welterweight title by whipping Zeke Bradley, of Mississippi State College, in the first round of the scheduled three-round setto. Radutzky was given credit for a technical knockout.

Referee Jimmy Lascola stopped the fight after Radutzky dropped Bradley twice with vicious left hooks less than two minutes after the opening bell.

George Manteris, of Tulane, gained a decision over Johnny Cook, of Mississippi University, in the senior welterweight class in a rather tame bout.

Red Walker, of Tennessee, gained the second round of the welterweight division, winning over Buck Haines, of Georgia, in a slugging match that had the fans on their feet most of the time. It was a close decision.

Louisiana State, winner of the 1935 team title, was off to a good start in defense of that honor. The Tigers garnered six points via the charity route in the draw this morning. Jimmie Blakeman, light-heavyweight titleholder, and Dugan, a middleweight, both went to the finals in their respective divisions without putting on a glove.

The winner of each class title gets five points toward the team crown and each runner-up is given three.

Bantamweight—Mike Maroun, Tulane, won decision from Clements, Tennessee.

Bantamweight—Gersack, L. S. U., won decision from Lambert, Mississippi State.

Featherweight—Tunnell, Tennessee, won technical knockout, first round, from Philips, Tulane.

TIGERS.

LAKELAND, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—The pitching staff of the Detroit Tigers appeared today to have advanced beyond the batters in training. Lynwood Rowe and Jake Wade held an opposing nine to four scattered hits and no runs in a practice game, while their teammates gathered eight runs off the offerings of Tommy Bridges and Chad Kimsey.

Manager Mickey Cochrane's club was helped to victory by a home run off the bat of Chet Laabs and two errors each by Second Baseman Al Simmons and Shortstop Gerald Walker.

Cochrane said today he will carry ten pitchers until the time comes to reduce the staff in June. Two will be rookies yet to be chosen.

BROWNS.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Ed Coleman, husky outfielder of the St. Louis Browns, not only is hitting the fences with his clouts but is laying down some effective bunts. Manager Rogers Hornsby is pleased with both.

No serious defensive practice has yet been undertaken.

Several of the pitchers appeared well enough advanced in training today to pitch three innings in a practice game scheduled for Sunday.

REDS.

MIAMI, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds opened their grapefruit league season today, pounding four pitchers to defeat the Philadelphia Athletics, 10 to 7.

SENATORS.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Manager Bucky Harris is so enthused over the offensive promise of his Washington baseball club he is predicting the Senators will bat .300 this season.

Bolton, Myer, Travis and Powell, he says, are sure to be over .300 and he figures the others will be close enough to that figure to pull the regular average over it.

WHITE SOX.

PASADENA, Cal., March 6.—(AP)—A stomach ailment which has bothered him for several weeks caused Manager Jimmy Dykes, of the Chicago White Sox, to start a serious search for help at third base today.

Dykes has dropped ten pounds since the training season started and hasn't undertaken a strenuous workout. Joe Morrissey, former National league infielder, a shortstop by trade, will be tried at third. Mike Kreevitch, recruit outfielder, also has had experience at the corner and will be drilled there occasionally.

Minter (Jackie) Hayes, utility infielder, has agreed to terms, Dykes was notified today, and will report next week. The signing of Hayes leaves First Baseman Zeke Bonura as the lone holdout.

YANKEES.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Joe McCarthy held a special class for the Yankees' rookies today after letting the veterans off with a long batting and pitching drill. Six youngsters who had managed to break in for trials, Bill Raymonde, Joe Gallagher and Bob Heuman, of New York; Harry Walker, Dixie's kid brother, Leo Walker, of Philadelphia, and Vic Nelson, of St. Petersburg, participated and Joe Di Maggio, the $75,000 rookie, remained to hit against the pitchers among them. Red Rolfe, regular infielder, joined the squad today.

RED SOX.

SARASOTA, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—A line drive hit by Mel Almada struck Wes Ferrell on the pitching arm today and forced the Boston Red Sox ace to quit the practice session.

The club trainer reported the ball struck on the gripping muscle of Ferrell's forearm and caused a bruise that will prevent Ferrell from throwing for several days.

This accident probably will delay Bob "Lefty" Grove's appearance on the mound for another week. That southpaw has been extremely cautious since he injured his arm here two years ago.

The Sox ran out of batting pitchers during the workout and Manager Joe Cronin was obliged to do the heaving during the last round of batting practice.

INDIANS.

NEW ORLEANS, March 6.—(AP)—George Uhle, 37-year-old former American league hurler, "is the best mistake catcher in the business," said Manager Steve O'Neill today as Uhle concentrated on grooming Pitchers Dennis Galehouse and Thornton Lee at the Cleveland Indians' camp.

O'Neill said Uhle, a coach, "can watch a man for five minutes and tell him every mistake he's making."

All of the Indians are in camp.

PIRATES.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 6. Manager Pie Traynor added two more exhibition games to the Pirates' spring schedule today, after watching all his veteran hurlers take their turn on the mound.

The first of the new exhibition contests will be are Laredo, Texas, on March 24, where the Corsairs will meet the San Antonio club. Two days later the Pirates will go to Sequin, to meet the Tulsa Oilers.

Al Todd captured batting honors in today's practice. He whacked an offering of Lefty Birkofer through a tree 360 yards from the plate.

CUBS.

AVALON, Cal., March 6.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs regulars belabored Tex Carleton and Gene Flowers, the latter a recruit, for 16 hits today to trounce the yannigans, 13 to 3, for their third straight intra-club victory.

Augie Galan led the assault on Carleton, who yielded 10 hits in four innings, with a triple and a pair of singles. Hugh Casey and Ken Weafer held the second-stringers to seven hits.

Score by innings:

Regulars ....201 410 005—13 16 5

Yannigans ....100 001 001— 3 7 6

Casey, Weafer and Hartnett; Carleton, Flowers and Sueme.

DODGERS.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Stanley (Frenchy) Bordagaray stole the show today as the second squad of Dodgers joined the early arrivals in camp, although Johnny Cooney, the slugger from Indianapolis set a record of some sort by signing his contract 15 minutes after he reached camp. Frenchy smacked two drives out of the park in his first batting drill. Jimmy Bucher, who just signed up yesterday, and Oscar Eckhardt were absent as were the holdouts, Joe Stripp and Van Mungo. The first two are expected soon.

BEES.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Shortly after signing his 1936 contract today, Wally Berger, the Boston Bees' outfield star, celebrated by belting the first ball pitched to him in batting practice far out into Tampa Bay.

It was one of the longest drives ever made in the Bees' camp and President Bob Quinn, who met Berger for the first time this morning, hailed it as proof that Wally was headed for his best season.

GIANTS.

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 6.—(AP) Manager Bill Terry rejoined the Giants today and despite doctor's orders to rest his injured knee took part in batting practice as well as moving around to supervise the other drills. Pitchers Hal Schumacher and Freddy Fitzsimmons, both of whom suffered from arm ailments last season, cut loose from the slab today and neither showed any ill effects from hard work.

GRIFFITH OFFERS PITCHERS BONUS

ORLANDO, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Owner Clark Griffith, of the Washington Senators, has slipped a bonus clause into the salary contracts of most of his pitchers this year.

If all the hurlers reach the figure necessary to bring in their bonuses, the Senators could win the American league pennant, for the total is around 105 games.

The hurlers understood to have agreed to a stipulated salary plus the bonus, when and if, are Buck Newsom, Earl Whitehill, Ed Linke, Jimmy DeShong, Pete Appleton, Hank Coppola and Dick Lanahan.

Under their agreements the boys must win the approximate quotas listed below if they are to grab more cash: Newsom, 20 games; Whitehill, 18; Linke, Coppola and DeShong, 15; Appleton, 12, and Lanahan, 10.

The bonus offerings range from $500 to $2,000.

Griffith has in other years opposed the bonus system but now he's decided to gamble.

ATLANTA 16TH CLUB FOR PAUL

it work, however, that he has stuck to his catching ever since. He hit 16 home runs in 1930.

It was that same year, playing for Macon, that Richards pitched the first two innings of a no-hit, no-run game. He pitched the first inning left-handed and the second inning right-handed.

President Earl Mann, who was connected with the Macon Peaches at that time, was greatly impressed with Richards then. Today he thinks he will be far and away the best catcher in the Southern league this summer.

BOTH ARMS?

Mann firmly believes that Richards can throw as well with one hand as he can with the other. And it may be that he can. But he will not be trying to throw out any base stealers left-handed this summer. And you may lay to that.

Richards is not very proud of the fact that he is ambidextrous. He says the fans may expect too much.

The young Texas "ranger" is a clean-cut, likeable fellow who undoubtedly will prove very popular with the Atlanta fans. He is a bear for work and has the stamina for more than his share of it.

The two-fisted Cracker catcher is starting his eleventh year of baseball. And yet he is, as mentioned, only 27 years old. He would like to return to the majors and will perform toward that end this summer.

While he did not approach any records as a hitter with the A's last summer, he did hit well enough when he started playing regularly. He hit the ball hard but had trouble hitting 'em where they weren't. Meaning, the fielders. He anticipates a good year at the plate this summer.

DUNLAP LEADS.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 6.—(AP)—George T. Dunlap Jr., of New York, former national champion, toured the No. 3 course here in 69 strokes today to go with his 73 previously shot on the No. 2 course for a total of 142, an even dozen strokes ahead of the field, in the annual Tin Whistles golf championship.

Al Sargent To Play In East Lake Bogey

Al Sargent, professional at the Inverness Club, Toledo, Ohio, will participate in the regular weekly blind bogey on the East Lake courses this afternoon.

Al is visiting his father, George Sargent, professional at the East Lake club, and will remain here several days before returning home during the middle of the month to get ready for the spring opening of the Inverness club on April 1.

ANSLEY TOURNEY.

A tournament schedule of five major events in addition to weekly blind bogeys will be opened at the Ansley Park club this afternoon.

Every member of the club is urged to participate in the weekly tourneys.

ALBANY CHAMPS ARE ELIMINATED IN ATHENS MEET

Brooklet Scores Upset, 31-27; Glynn Academy Also Surprise Loser.

ATHENS, Ga., March 6.—(AP)—Bogart High School and Dacula, two favorites, and Rhine High and Palmer Stone, two dark horses, entered the semi-finals of the "C" division of the state high school basketball tournament here today.

Bogart advanced at the expense of a hard-earned 27-to-19 victory over Stilson of the first district. Stilson got off to an early lead, but Bogart struck its stride and was out in front, 14 to 7, at the half.

HUFF GETS 15.

O. J. Huff got 15 points for Bogart to lead the scoring.

Dacula tonight trounced Rome's Model High, 45 to 35, to advance from the quarter final round. In afternoon games Rhine defeated Doe Run, 45 to 19, and Palmer Stone defeated Clarkston, 45 to 13.

In a "B" division game tonight, Roberta High, of the sixth district, a tournament dark horse, sprang an upset to defeat the favored Hartwell High School team, 34 to 27.

Tex Spillers, star center, played the leading role for the winners, gathering 12 points. For Hartwell the work of Whitaker and Brown was outstanding. Whitaker got 6 points and Brown 9. Hartwell was the tenth district representative.

ALBANY BEATEN.

Albany High's Indians, 1935 champions, fell a surprise victim to Brooklet, 31 to 27, in their opening skirmish.

Canton High ran true to expectations and put out its first-round opponent, Cordele, 30 to 16.

Killion, tall center, who accounted for 12 points, led Canton to its victory of Cordele, victor last night over Avondale. Cliff Cagle, Canton forward, scored eight.

Glynn Academy, of Brunswick, one of the pre-tourney favorites, went down in defeat in its opening game of the afternoon round, bowing to Dalton High, of the seventh district, in an overtime battle, 25 to 24.

British Golf Star To Enter Masters'

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 6.—(AP)—Robert Sweenet, an outstanding British amateur golfer, today cabled officials that he would participate in the Masters' tournament which will be held at the Augusta National Golf Club April 2-3-4-5.

The shotmaker is one of the few "golfing pals" of King Edward VIII and prior to the death of the late King George, frequently was seen on English courses with the new king.

Sweenet, a Londoner, on two occasions finished high up in the British amateur.

Greenberg Unsigned, May Join Holdouts

DETROIT, March 6.—(AP)—Hank Greenberg, lanky first-baseman and leading run producer of the Detroit Tigers, confirmed today that he had not signed a 1936 contract and intimated that after Sunday, he may be among the holdout ranks.

The Free Press quoted Greenberg as saying "I'm still waiting word from the Detroit office. I have not heard from anybody for several weeks."

"I have not signed any contract as yet," Greenberg said, "but I promised the office I would not discuss publicly that question."

Keith Dislocates Knee in Practice

Dwight Keith, backfield coach at Boys' High school, is the only casualty of the Purples' spring training. Keith suffered a dislocated right knee Friday afternoon, during a long passing drill.

The assistant coach and backfield instructor has been working with the boys since practice started, but Friday he was cut down from the side as one of the youngsters running interference was blocked out of the play.

ALABAMA COACH PLACES L. S. U. FIRST ON TRACK

Harold Drew Rates Tech Third Due to Return of Walker.

UNIVERSITY, Ala., March 6.—(AP)—Coach Harold Drew, looking through blue-tinted glasses at the approaching Southeastern track season, today predicted Louisiana State would finish in first place with the Crimson Tide down in fifth ranking.

Coach Drew took off his glasses long enough to point out the L. S. U. had men back in the fold that scored 53 points at the Southeastern meet last year—and made a second observation that 53 tallies will win the meet any day by a comfortable margin.

His preseason rankings were L. S. U., Tennessee, Georgia Tech, Auburn and Alabama.

The Volunteers were given second rating, he said, because of their fine showing last season, and the arrival of a strong crop of sophomores that won the yearlings meet last year.

In placing Tech ahead of Auburn, always a powerful contender, Coach Drew said that he had cast his vote for the Engineers because of the return of Perrin Walker, one of the outstanding track stars of the south two years ago.

Alabama's comparatively low ranking was given due to the loss of Don Hutson, All-American gridiron star, in the dashes, Riegel, veteran pole vaulter; Beck in the high jump; Riley Smith, another All-American football star, in the discus, and Culbertson in the mile and two-mile events.

Back in the ranks are Joe Riley in the sprints, Nogi in the javelin, Edwards in the hurdles, Best in the broad jump, Raymond, a star two years ago, back for the half-mile; Biff Lyon in the shotput, Godfrey and Fisher in the 440, and others.

GEORGIANS RACE AT CHAPEL HILL

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., March 6. (AP)—More than 400 track and field stars from 36 colleges and schools were ready tonight for the annual indoor track and field meet sponsored by the Southern conference, to be held tomorrow afternoon and night.

Twenty-seven events are on the program, which will be run off in the tin can, the University of North Carolina's spacious indoor sports arena. The meet will be carried on in four divisions, conference, non-conference, freshman, and scholastic.

Each of the 10 conference schools will have entrants.

Duke's well-balanced varsity is favored in the division but the defending champion, North Carolina, is expected to make a powerful showing. Maryland and Virginia also are rated ace-high.

In non-conference ranks William and Mary, defending champion, will find new faces to oppose in the persons of men from the Naval Academy, Georgia and Alabama. Scholastic teams from New Jersey, Washington, D. C., Virginia, North and South Carolina and Georgia will take part. McKinley High, of Washington, is defending champion. Georgetown won the freshman division last year.

Baron Drills Display 22 Hopefuls

BIRMINGHAM, March 6.—(AP)—Manager Riggs Stephenson got his first squint at the Birmingham Barons of 1936 as 22 hopefuls of the club reported today for the first workout of the year.

The 22 men, mostly pitchers and catchers, reported at Rickwood and went through a preliminary workout. All the batterymen except two, Arthur Jones, a rookie who was taking examinations in Macon, Ga., and Hensel Hulvey, were present.

A short pep workout preceded limbering up for the pitchers, who were tossing to four catchers.

Stephenson said one workout a day would be followed until the rest of the squad reports Wednesday.

Vols Put Through Four-Hour Drill.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Elated over the spirit and entuhsiasm of his charges, Manager Lance Richbourg sent his Nashville baseball squad through a four-hour workout today, the first full-time session of the spring conditioning period.

Most of the time was taken up with limbering-up exercises and preliminary work. It will be several days before the Vols attempt any serious mound or batting practice.

Thirty candidates are on hand with all the regulars due not later than March 10.

there. More of them died there on the banks of the river.

Freemasonry has a great story of a Texas lodge founded under a great tree after the Battle of San Jacinto.

The charter had been carried in the saddlebags of a trooper in the battle. And the lodge still meets in San Antonio. There were other stories of the days when Texas fought against Mexico and became a republic.

They fought under a flag which was made in Georgia. They were to serve later under a president from Georgia, Mirabeau Lamar.

It is all a great story. But the greatest story of them all is that long siege and the hot March day when the bugles sounded "No Quarter."

And Jim Bowie, from Burke county, weak and ill, loaded the rifles for Davy Crockett. And then stood to meet them with his knife.

WORLD WAR VETERANS 'ON SPOT,' LEADER SAYS

National Commander of D. A. V. Addresses Mass Meeting of Ex-Soldiers.

Disabled World War veterans are "on the spot," and "many powerful organizations in this country are doing all in their power to poison the mind of the public against the forgotten man," M. A. Harlan, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans, stated last night at a mass meeting of ex-servicemen at a downtown hotel.

"Ex-servicemen do not stand as high today as they did a few years ago," the official said. "There are organizations willing to spend millions to convince the public ex-servicemen are a group of gold-bricks, who for themselves would wreck the financial system of government.

"When you marched away to war they said nothing would be too good for you, and often I think they meant just that—'nothing'. When you got your bonus it was political expediency, because congress knew the commanders of the three veterans' organizations stood at the head of 4,500,000 potential votes."

About 200 veterans, including many from Griffin and Gainesville, attended the mass meeting, which followed a dinner held in honor of Commander Harlan and Mrs. Frances Connely, national auxiliary commander. Cecil R. Hall, state commander, and Frank Moore, commander of the Atlanta Betty Harrison Jones chapter, presided.

Many leaders in veterans' work spoke, including Mrs. Henry M. Nicholes, chairman of the D. A. V. Forget-Me-Not campaign. Luke Arnold, secretary to Mayor Key, spoke in behalf of the mayor, who could not attend because of a conference.

Discussing the aims of the D. A. V., Commander Harlan said the organization was started "solely to render service to disabled veterans." He discussed the organization's program regarding civil service aid to veterans and unemployment of slightly disabled ex-servicemen.

"They tell you you are entitled to 10 points on civil service jobs, and I agree with them, but you'll play hell getting them," the official declared. He said many veterans would lose the points by standing a poor physical examination.

He said that after the next national election there would be a cut in federal expenditures, "no matter who was elected," and he warned expenditures for veterans would be "the first to be cut."

In her address, Mrs. Connely said she believed "the care of veterans was the obligation of the federal government," and that they, as all others, "should get a square deal."

Mrs. Connely will be entertained by the Women's Auxiliary of the D. A. V. at a luncheon at 1 o'clock today at the Colonial terrace.

CAR, CRANKED IN GEAR, CRASHES INTO PORCH

A driverless auto, careening along Washington street yesterday morning, crashed into the front porch of the home of Mrs. Rosa Jordan, at 577 Washington street.

The runaway dash was started when a negro cranked the car in gear and it started down the street according to police. Smashing into a pushcart on the way, it finally came to a stop against the foundations of Mrs. Jordan's home.

ELLIOTT ROOSEVELT SEEKS RADIO STATIONS

FORTH WORTH, Texas, March 6. (AP)—The Star Telegram says options on three stations of the Southwest Broadcasting Company have been acquired by Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President. Roosevelt, vice president and sales promotion manager for the company for about six months, would not deny the negotiations had been made. He refused to comment until the federal communications commission has acted.

Roosevelt's options are said to have been on KTAT at Fort Worth, WACO at Waco and KOMA at Oklahoma City.

Armstrong, forward for North Avenue, was easily the outstanding player of the night, scoring 14 points, while Stauveman, Seminary, followed with 11 points.

It was one of the most exciting games of the season.

MIAMI HOT SPOTS 'COOL' ABRUPTLY

Anti-Gambling Order Comes at Peak of Season; Tables Bare.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Wide-open gambling in Miami Beach's night spots halted abruptly tonight as owners of elaborate establishments heeded police threats to confiscate law violators' equipment.

Reliable investigators reported places where gambling was known to have existed previously, had removed expensive roulette wheels, dice tables and other gaming apparatus from their premises and stored them in Miami warehouses to prevent possible confiscation.

The order silencing the whirr of the wheels and the click of the dice came suddenly from Police Chief H. V. Yocum today at the peak of this crowded winter resort's tourist season.

Visitors to night clubs and other places of amusement at Miami Beach reported throngs of persons nightly wagered money on games of chance, some of the stakes running into thousands of dollars.

Even the gaming rooms of the exclusive private clubs, which drew part of their patronage from fashionable Palm Beach were bare and in darkness as the force of the gambling edict became apparent.

PREP ELEVENS TO HOLD CLINIC THIS MORNING

Bulldog Coaches To Give Instructions in Positional Play.

By Felton Gordon.

ATHENS, Ga., March 6.—Prep and high school coaches throughout Georgia are expected to assemble here Saturday for the first annual football clinic conducted by the University of Georgia coaching staff.

Discussion of the new rules, instructions in positional play and consideration of individual problems will top the program. Registration will end about 9:30 a. m. A talk on the rules will be held, and then the mentors will be shown the correct technique of the various positions.

Coach Sam McAllister will personally demonstrate tackle play; Coach "Catfish" Smith will show the correct form for ends. Frank Johnson, All-Southeastern, and John Bond, co-captain last fall, will be used to exhibit guard play and kicking technique, respectively. A large attendance is expected since many coaches are here with the basketball teams in the state tourney.

Bulldog Grid Squad Divided for Play.

ATHENS, Ga., March 6.—Coach Harry Mehre divided his Georgia Bulldogs' grid camp into two groups this afternoon as he made plans for the first intra-squad of the spring Saturday afternoon.

Coaches Rex Enright and Baskin will direct the Georgia team. The L. S. U. outfit will have Coaches Vernon Smith and Sam McAllister at the helm. Andy Roddenberry will captain the Bulldog eleven, while Lew Young will guide the Bengal Tigers. Both are quarterbacks.

Twelve-minute quarters will be held, with a regular kickoff in order. The "game" will begin about 3 o'clock, depending upon when the coaches' clinic ends. The Georgia mentors are holding this and two other "games" to take place from time to time. Next Wednesday will find Georgia playing Auburn. The "final football examination" will be held March 14, with the Mehremen battling "Tech." Probable starting lineups:

Atlanta Bird Club Will Celebrate Tenth Anniversary This Evening

A program celebrating the tenth anniversary of the organization of the Atlanta Bird Club will be featured at the March meeting of the club to be held at the Emory University Woman's Club, near Emory postoffice, this evening at 7:30 o'clock. Nelson Spratt Jr., club president, will preside, and Norman Giles Jr., will be in charge of program, which will be followed by a buffet supper.

Miss Berma Jarrard, past president, will give a summary of the club's history. A motion picture of the cedar waxwing, made by Miss Jarrard, and a film portraying a bit of bird life in Florida, made by Mrs. Hugh Harris, will be shown. The showing of these films marks a new experiment in bird study by members of the Atlanta Bird Club.

The organization of the Atlanta Bird Club at the home of Carter Whittaker on Tenth street, N. E., on March 15, 1926, brought together a group of bird and nature lovers who for ten years have worked toward the protection and study of bird life of Georgia and the conservation of wild life generally. Carter Whittaker was elected first president of the club; Bartow Ford, vice president, and George Dorsey, that gifted imitator of wild life song, was secretary and treasurer.

Dr. Wallace Rogers, widely known for his love and knowledge of Georgia birds, was appointed at that meeting chairman of the advisory committee: Peter S. Twitty, Sam E. Riddle and Dr. C. P. Peacock were also members of that committee. Kenneth Thurmond, Marion N. Allen, A. W. Beall, Lindsay Bawsel, Ashley Haig and Miss Hattie Rainwater were also among those present.

From a few interested in native birds, the membership has included a greatly increased number of men, women and young men and girls, active in various phases of civic and ducational life of Atlanta and has become a valuable influence for wild life conservation throughout the state.

Members, former members and those interested in birds fo Georgia and the south as well as conservation generally are especially invited to be present Saturday evening. Reservations for supper may be made by calling Mrs. F. E. Godfrey, Hemlock 6190-W.

Mrs. Percilla Lawyer Randolph, of Los Angeles, is president of the national association, and the south is represented on the board by Judge Camille Kelly, of Memphis, Tenn., who has presided so ably over the juvenile court there for many years. 'YOUR FIGURE, MADAME!'

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

Generous Curves for Large Frames.

Streamlines may be neither flattering nor healthful for you. Normal weight is relative and is determined not only by structure, but by the length of time you and the fat have been keeping company, which may have complicating internal effects. After fat plays havoc with your figure, it strikes at the vital organs, and the condition of these organs is a chief consideration in the amount of weight to be lost.

Ida Jean Kain.

Before you proceed with your figure program, take into account weight in relation to your health. Perhaps you shouldn't try to achieve your once-upon-a-time slim figure. Be satisfied with the weight that is best for you. If you have been carrying your burden of fat for more years than you care to count, you may find it unwise to attempt to lose all the excess. It is possible that you should not try for normal weight. Consult your doctor. Should he, for any reason, consider that you have reduced enough, even though you are not down to normal weight, abide by his decision.

Another thing, if you are fashioned on a big scale, no amount of dieting will make you into the willowy type. Generous proportions look better with ample adipose tissue, and regardless of fashions, streamlines are not your style. Of course, an over-abundance of fat is always objectionable, but your weight should be slightly above the average for your height.

Adjust your calories to meet your larger requirements. With your large form, a thousand calories a day may be dangerously inadequate, both for your health and for your figure. A calorie deficit for your basic needs impairs health. Then, too, strenuous dieting in your case will leave you with a gaunt look.

Exercise must also be considered in your program, not only from the figure standpoint, but from the health angle. Every normal individual requires a certain amount of regular exercise for muscle tone and for protection of the vital organs. The exercises most serviceable are those which use the large trunk muscles of the body in some form of activity leading to exercise habits. Do the type of exercise that you enjoy and you will be more likely to keep it up. Walking, hiking, swimming, golf and all out-of-door activities are good health habits to supplement the daily dozen for your figure.

When you have your figure down to regulation size for you, let well enough alone. Keep the slim health habits you have established to stabilize your weight. Contrast these with the habits of the stout. Invariably, they have a toast and coffee breakfast, go lightly at luncheon, and make up for both meals by eating an enormous dinner. That is exactly why they stay overweight. A hearty dinner or meal late at night is the most fattening one of the day. Spread the calories over the day and you will find that you can eat more and accumulate less weight.

Never carry reducing to extremes. Your healthy weight is normal and the most flattering to your figure.

BIDDING DUELS.

When partners become angry at each other and engage in bidding duels, each determined that he will be the declarer no matter how high he has to go, the results are apt to be rather tragic. I have seen "spite contracts" go down as many as 12 tricks.

This sort of feud, fortunately very rare, is so unsportsmanlike that no punishment is too severe. Nevertheless, I had to admire the opponents in one of these lamentable affairs, who, recognizing what was going on, refrained from doubling on the theory that they would be "shooting birds on the ground."

Crime Pays This Time.

Occasionally (which still is too often) one of these duels will have a fantastically lucky outcome. Picture the poor opponents in the following hand.

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ A Q 10 9 8 6 3
♥ None
♦ A K Q
♣ A K 2

WEST
♥ K
♦ J 10 9 8 2

EAST
♠ K J 7
♥ 8 6 5 4 3 2

SOUTH
♥ A Q J 10 9 7
♦ 6 4 3
♣ J 7 5

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
2 spades	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
6 spades	Pass	7 hearts	Pass
7 spades	Double	7 no trump	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
Redouble [final bid]

North was so furious that I am sure he would have bid eight spades (which he could have been forced to play) had he not realized that South always would top him in no trump. So he had to take out his venom in a glare of pure hatred and a redouble that he thought would cost an extra thousand or two.

West made his natural opening of the diamond jack and declarer faced a horrible prospect. With not even one heart in the dummy there was no sure entry to his own hand. He couldn't realize how fortunate this actually was. He was forced, much against his will, to the only line of play that could succeed. He cashed dummy's diamonds, East discarding a spade, and then laid down the ace and king of clubs. The first miracle happened. The doubleton queen fell! This was, in fact, a double miracle, because it had a twofold result. The mere establishment of declarer's jack as a good trick and as entry was not fatal to the defenders, but on the third club lead East was squeezed! Rather than blank his spade king he let go a heart, but his relief was only temporary. South won the jack of clubs and banged down the ace of hearts. West, with a snarl, parted with his king. Five more hearts were run off and the spade ace cashed for the thirteenth trick.

To give them their due, North and South were heartily ashamed of themselves. East and West sat in a stunned silence for several long moments until East wearily raised his head and said in an anguished tone: "Well, I hope you boys will stay friendly from now on!"

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: What is the best way to learn contract bridge?

Answer: 1. Engage a good teacher. 2. Read a standard book on the game. 3. Watch expert games. 4. Deal out hands and bid and play them "double dummy." 5. Play as much as possible.

PATTERN 5537

USE GAY COLORS FOR EASY-TO-MAKE ZINNIAS.

Making plans for a livelier, more liveable sunporch this summer? Then consider what a joyous decoration these colorful zinnia sprays will make, embroidered on a pillow, table runner or even curtains. There's a glint of sunshine itself in their rich, vibrant coloring. You'll want to copy them in wool, silk or cotton floss, using a simple blanket stitch, with outline and single stitch for the leaves. Scarfs, tea cloths or knitting bags will be twice as gay with these.

In pattern 5537 you will find a transfer pattern of two motifs 8 1-2 by 9 3-4 inches, two and two reverse motifs 5 3-4 by 6 3-4 inches and four motifs 3 1-2 by 3 3-4 inches; color suggestions; material requirements; illustrations of all stitches needed.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Household Arts Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

My Day

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

THE WHITE HOUSE, WASHINGTON, D. C.—I had a letter yesterday telling me I had neglected to say a word of encouragement to the garden clubs which work so hard in every state. They have such a variety of programs it is difficult to pick out any one achievement.

This is, perhaps, the time of the year when encouragement is most timely, for almost everywhere flower lovers are getting out their seed catalogs and preparing for spring planting—so I do so with alacrity.

I think some of the gardening which I have enjoyed the most has nothing to do with formal or informal individual gardens. I still remember some perfectly beautiful climbing roses near a railroad station. When I asked if the railroad was responsible, I was told: "Yes, but it was the garden club that started the work."

All the work done along highways which gives pleasure to the passer-by, as well as to those who do it, has meant a great deal in increasing the realization that our roads are not just cement strips which lead from one point to another in as straight a line as possible. The scenery and landscaping are a part of the road and make pleasant or unpleasant traveling.

Our son, Franklin Jr., came in from college this morning for just a few hours. We had a grand ride.

At luncheon, Mr. Anning S. Prall, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, was kind enough to give some time of his busy day to discuss some radio questions with a young man who is working with a country school. He told us much about costs of programs, equipment and other things which were of great interest to all.

Another guest was Miss Muna Lee, the poetess and writer from Puerto Rico, who is up here to see her publishers.

Two teas this afternoon and guests for dinner have grown and grown in number. We started with eight this morning, and are 16 at the moment. I hardly think we can be more before 7:30, but it is quite possible.

HAT COMPANY PICKETS CLASH WITH WORKERS

Ten Persons Arrested in Street Fighting Freed on Bond.

Street fighting between pickets and workers in front of the American Hat Manufacturing Company, 160 Trinity avenue, yesterday morning resulted in the arrest of 10 persons.

Trouble started when pickets called by Albert Gossett, southern representative of the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery International Union, allegedly attempted to prevent workers from entering the hat company's plant.

Clothing was torn from several women in the ensuing fight, police said. Ten persons were arrested on disorderly conduct-fighting charges. They were later released on bond, said to have been made by officials of the workers' union.

Continued trouble was seen last night as leaders of the workers' union and officials of the manufacturing plant hurled charges and countercharges.

Gossett announced that the hat company "was going to play ball or else."

Lindsay D. Thompson, executive vice president of the manufacturing concern, denied that any strike was in progress, asserting that the Labor Relations Board heard the case in December and ruled it out on grounds that there was no dispute between the company and workers. He characterized yesterday's outbreaks as a "cooked-up affair."

Thompson said the picketing had been going on since Monday. He laid the disturbance to union workers and sympathizers, declaring that he had not cut wages and that his organization "paid the highest salaries of any needle indusrty in the south."

Gossett charged that hat company officials caused the outbreak by allegedly repudiating an agreement signed May 24 with the Labor Relations Board. He said the union would continue its activities in behalf of the workers.

Police were called again last night to stand by as workers left the building at the close of the day. No trouble was seen, however, both workers and strikers remaining orderly.

Those arrested in the morning outbreak gave their names as Gertrude Sheckley, Mrs. G. C. Atkins, E. J. Waldon, Maggie Traynor, Emma Pace and Sue Veal, all of 160 Trinity avenue; C. E. Fitts, of 18 Gray street; Saraha Estes, 213 Hendrix avenue, S. W.; Walter Blackwell, 597 Pryor street, S. W., and Ruby Ezell, 347 McAfee street. Hearing on the cases was set for recorder's court, Friday, March 20.

ATCHISON SERVICES PLANNED MONDAY

Hearst's Georgian Employe Was Prominent in Amateur Theatrical Circles.

Funeral services for W. Ben Atchison, a resident of Atlanta for many years and prominent in newspaper and amateur theatrical circles, will be held at 3:30 o'clock Monday at the Spring Hill chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son.

Dr. Richard Orme Flinn and the Rev. Robert Burns will officiate. Burial will be in Crown Hill cemetery.

Mr. Atchison, an employe of Hearst's Georgian and Sunday American for 12 years, died late Thursday night at his residence, 552 West Peachtree street, at the age of 66 years.

He was a member of the Atlanta Typographical Union No. 48 since 1914, and served as recording secretary of that organization and as a member of the cemetery lots committee.

A native of Nashville and a member of a prominent Tennessee family, Mr. Atchison came to this city 28 years ago. Before entering newspaper work he was an actor and played in various stock companies.

He retained his interest in the theater through amateur dramatic groups and often assisted visiting companies at theaters here. He was actively identified with the Little Theater movement.

He is survived by three sons, J. L. and Bruce Atchison, of Atlanta, and B. H. Atchison, of Dallas, Texas, and a brother, J. H. Atchison, of Ohio.

If there is one thing that we have to be thankful for in this age of tearing down idols, exploding pet theories, destroying precious dogmas that have come to us hallowed by the ages, it is the revelations of child psychology. They are being flashed on the screen, taught from the lecture platform, written in daily papers, in books and magazines, preached from every pulpit whether it is in church or public place. The students of child psychology are rediscovering some old principles that were enunciated thousands of years ago and they are explaining them, illuminating them, illustrating them. They are publicizing what they have learned so the parents, even in the hinterlands can catch on.

A professor of psychiatry and head of the Child Guidance Clinic of Columbia Medical Center, in a recent lecture, said: "The old conception of the child as the property of its parents, owing love and respect to them as such, irrespective of merit, must perish. The child is an individual, owing allegiance to himself alone. The home exists solely to provide for the full personal satisfaction of all its members. A far cry, this commonplace of today, from the 'duty' of the child to honor his father and his mother. In place of honor and forced love, the parents may work for friendship and companionship. Family ties, based on honest affection and genuine co-operation, yield a true partnership."

Most parents who are faced with the problems of insubordination, of open rebellion or sullen resentment on the part of their adolescent children have only themselves to thank. If parents are helpless and in a fog, worried over their inability to control their young, it is because in the earlier years they failed to make the only connection that gives one person power over another, whether it be parent and child, husband and wife, or friend and friend—confidential companionship, close, warm and lasting. This is what the child psychologists have learned and are teaching us anew; that the stubbornest child can be led easily if he is led right, that the most high-strung child can be quieted if he is handled wisely and that rebellion and defiance and insubordination on the part of a child are the results of parental folly or stupidity or hard-headedness. All normal children can be drawn with the cords of love and intelligence into the paths they should tread. Give Solomon credit. He said "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it."

Yesterday I saw a tired woman dragging a little 3-year-old by the hand through a crowded store. The little one stopped to admire a bauble in a glass case and was tugging at her mother to wait for her. The irritable woman spoke impatiently to the child, commanding her to step along. But the little one didn't heed her. She took a better stance and disobeyed the order. For which she received a sound slap in the face and burst into tears of impotent rage. Resentful, defiant? Yes, and rightly so. Imagine the scene in her home 15 years from now when the mother attempts to veto some cherished plan or break up a date! Won't the memory of the shopping expedition play its part in the girl's reaction? Surely it will and the memory of a thousand and one incidents in which the mother behaved similarly. She will likely be one of the parents who is in need of constructive advice, but it will be too late for her to profit by any advice she gets from any quarter.

STYLE WEEK GAINS

Attendance Double That of Last Fall, Is Report.

More than 1,700 merchants have registered with merchants of the Atlanta Style and Market Week Association since Monday, W. R. Ulrich, executive secretary of the chamber of commerce, reported yesterday.

This figure is said to be more than double the number of merchants attending market week last fall. In addition to Georgia buyers, merchants have come here this week from North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama and Florida.

Although more buyers are expected to arrive today, the climax in attendance thus far came Wednesday, when the fashion revue and dinner were held. Atlanta concerns sponsoring market week have reported increased sales all week, it was said. The heaviest volume of business is said to have been done by ready-to-wear and dry goods houses.

Fire and Matches Often Fascinate Because They Are Forbidden.

By FLORENCE La GANKE.

Peter was deeply engrossed in the newest seed catalog. He was marveling at the size of the tomatoes and the green peas. He wondered whether any gardener ever succeeded in getting such products. But just then his attention was caught by a low-spoken colloquy between his daughter, Susan, and Peter. "Come on, let's go upstairs and light them. We can go in the closest where it is dark and watch them shine. Come on, dad won't pay any attention." But dad was paying attention. He called Peter over and said quite casually, "Do you suppose, son, that you could find me a match for my cigaret? I seem to have used up all I have. If you can find me one I wish you would come and light my cigaret for me. And after he does that I wonder how you would like to hold the match and blow it out, Susan?" The children gave each other the secret look of understanding that youngsters have for use among themselves. Then they raced over to their dad.

Peter let his young son light the match. He watched carefully while Susan took the flaming bit of wood and then blew out the dancing flame. For some reason his cigaret did not light, so they had to repeat the performance three times. By that time the lighted match had lost its fascination and the children were ready to play with their blocks. Peter and Nancy believed that matches fascinated children because they were forbidden articles. Then, too, the unpredictable way in which the match would flare held their attention. But if the children were allowed to hold matches under supervision, if their use was taken as a matter of course when adults were around and only then, if a child could accidentally get a burn, not a severe one but a mere flip of flame the parents believed that the danger of secret use was lessened. It was understood that matches could be used if permission was granted by an adult and if the match or lighted candle was touched when, and only when, an adult was around. Forbidding children, attempting to keep matches hidden seldom works. The forbidden thing is always the desired object.

SPECIAL SQUAD

By Courtney Ryley Cooper

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: Inspector Sandy Ross, of the Department of Justice, and Special Agent Buck Wasey motor from Reno to Vinton City in search of information on Sociable Joe Willis, suspected of assisting in armored car robberies. Sociable Joe is warned by ex-Marshal Titters, at whose home the federal men have called. Sociable Joe admits having wanted money, which he says he won gambling, and which he turned over to Titters to return to the authorities. Sandy and Ross start on their way back to Reno.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

INSTALLMENT VI.

They straightened, glaring. In the background, the girl tensened, like a deer at the sound of a shot. They were not looking her way; quickly she bent and seized her bag. Then running on tiptoe, she veered out of the garage and down the street.

An empty ore truck rattled along, returning from a trip to the concentrating mill, down the gulch. Suddenly the driver pressed his brakes at the sight of a girl, a traveling bag, and an uplifted hand. Jane Bronson hurried forward to meet the vehicle as the driver brought it to a halt.

"Could you help me, please?" she asked.

"Surest thing you know, lady. Where to?"

Already she was in the seat beside him, with the bag on her lap.

"I can't tell you exactly, but it's a rather small house just east of the old Miner's hall—"

"Sure I know." Then as he started the truck, "You better hang on tight. Sharp turns on these hill streets."

Back in the garage, ex-Marshal Titters apologized and reapologized.

"I just thought," he explained. "It surprised me so to see you fellows here, I thought you'd gone back to Reno. But you don't need to worry. Pete here knows how to keep his mouth shut, don't you, Pete?"

"Sure," said Pete, raising the screw driver for another diagnosis of the motor.

"As for me," went on the ex-marshal, "I'll know what to do hereafter. I just never thought. Seeing you fellows here—"

He noticed then that they were not listening. Sandy had turned and was looking blankly about the garage.

"What became of that girl?" he asked sharply. "Buck, that girl's gone!"

The shades of the house were tightly drawn. Only one light was burning and that in the hall, casting a faint gleam through the doorway into the dining room where Jane Bronson sat at an outmoded, golden oak dining table with a young man. For quite a while there had been no conversation, the girl was quietly disconsolate, the man unshaven, coatless, and with collar open, smoking cigarets in chain fashion, nervously flicking the ashes into a nicked salad plate. The air of this room was rancid both from smoke and the staleness of alcohol. At last the girl said:

"Why don't you want to turn on a light in here, Lee?"

He shifted irritably.

"Aw, Sis! What's the matter with things the way they are? We've got light enough, haven't we?"

Jane Bronson did not raise her voice. It was the words which cut him:

"If you're afraid of me noticing alhocol rings on the table, and of getting a clear look at you—I've already done that."

"There you go, preaching."

"I'm not preaching. I was just asking for more light. Is there anything wrong about having a light in here? You've all the shades drawn."

Lee Bronson glanced about nervously.

"They're thin," he said. "The light shines through. It's late. The neighbors here don't like places lighted up late at night."

"It's your house, isn't it?"

"I rented it. A swell dump, eh?"

She glanced about, at the faded wallpaper, the furniture of another decade, the tattered "throw" which attempted to grace a marble topped gilt table, the rope portieres leading into what, when this tiny place was built, has been called a "parlor."

"So this is what it's getting you, is it, Lee?" she asked. Again he shifted, pawed for a cigaret and, lighting it, crushed out the discarded stub.

"Listen, Sis," he snapped, "I didn't ask you to come out here. Nobody asked you. If you like the place, all right. If you don't—go on back home."

She disregarded the thrust.

"What happened to you, Lee? The last time you wrote me, you said you had plenty of money."

Lee Bronson swung his head.

"I've still got dough." As if to prove it, he fished into his trousers pocket, bringing forth two crumpled bills which he tossed upon the worn table. "That looks like dough, doesn't it?" With pale, almost feminine hands, he smoothed the currency that she might note the denominations. "Two centuries. What are you squawking about?"

"Where'd you get them?"

"Huh?"

"I said," her voice was incisive. "Where did you get them?"

He sneered, and weaved slowly in his chair.

"Well, if you're getting so particular, I changed 20 $10 bills for them. So what?"

"And where did you get the $10 bills?"

The peculiar intonation brought his head up sharply.

"I suppose it's wrong to gamble? There's something criminal about gambling? Well, it's legal out here."

"Lee," the girl questioned calmly, "are you telling me on your word of honor that you got that money gambling?"

There was a moment of stalling, of clearing the throat, of shifting in his chair, of inhaling deeply and blowing the smoke against his nose as he tilted his head. At last he queried:

"I suppose I've got to make a report to you of everything I've done since I left home!"

It brought Jane Bronson to her feet. Instinctively she reached upward and jerked the faded, grimy pink ribbon which hung from the ceiling light. Now her brother swung about, blinking with reddened eyes against the brightness.

"That's exactly what I've come to get, Lee," the girl answered. "I've got a right to know—and I'm going to know."

Again he sneered. His was a weak face, too finely tooled to be wholly masculine, with pinkish, full cheeks and a small mouth, bigger eyes than men usually possess, a small nose. Almost flaxen haired, his two days' growth of beard showed but slightly; shaving would have smoothed his cheeks almost to a feminine texture.

"All right, Miss District Attorney," he announced, sprawling to his feet. "See if I give a damn."

"O, Lee! Please!" Jane Bronson half turned from the table. There was vast disparity between this pair—her directness, his evasiveness. Only in size were they similar; it made the man appear even more of a weakling that he should not this girl even by an inch. And while she stood straight, he slouched, even while sitting.

Her eyes were hazel, his palely blue, her mouth well formed, pleasantly resolute; his lips were too full and drooped at the corners. At last the girl forced herself back to her subject:

"Lee, when you left home, you told me you had a job in Birmingham. I heard from you in New Orleans. Then you went to Philadelphia looking for work, you said. The next thing I knew, you were in New York. You've been a dozen places since. Is it getting you anywhere? Is it doing what you said it would do to leave home—helping you stop this incessant drinking and loafing and gambling? Is it?"

"Maybe I left home because I got sick of lectures," the man growled. Again he refueled with a fresh cigaret. "God Almight, Sis, I'm three years older than you. I ought to be the one who's running the family. But no—you want to do it."

"Because you won't."

"And when I get away from you and try to lead my own life, you play the detective, find out where I am, what name I'm living under and all that—then chase me down to lecture the federal men hunting somebody, right here in Vinton City?"

"So you believed it?"

"I had to believe it."

"You could have written me and asked me about it."

"You haven't let me know where you were for the last three weeks." For a moment the girl broke. "O, Lee," she begged. "Don't act this way. I don't want you scowling at me—hating me. What have I ever done but try—"

"Oh, Sis, you're always butting in." Lee Bronson turned disgustedly away.

"Is it butting in to try to keep you out of trouble?"

He whirled.

"Who the hell's in trouble?"

"This letter said you might be soon if you didn't break from the gang you're trailing with."

He sneered again.

"Where is the gang? Why don't you take a look around? Maybe I've got it hidden somewhere."

"Please, Lee, don't talk that way." Hopefully: "Things are a lot better at home now." She laughed in wracked fashion. "I've even got a job. What do you know about that? Eighteen dollars a week."

"Then what are you doing here?"

"They let me off to come," she said eagerly. "I'm working in Mr. Matson's office—you know how he goes away all summer. He said I could stay away until September—if I wanted to take half pay. Isn't that fine, Lee?"

The man kicked about the room. Fully 27, he acted at times like a sulking boy of 16.

"Throwing that up to me, eh?" he asked. Hurriedly she went to him.

"No, I'm not, Lee." She smoothed his collar, pushed back a straying lock of flaxen hair which his low cowlick had pulled over his forehead. "I was just explaining. You used to say you didn't have enough money to go 'round—that'd all be over now. You could have your money and I'd have mine. Won't you, Lee?"

"Won't I what?" He had pulled away from her.

"Come home. And forget this—whatever you've been doing."

"But I haven't been doing anything. Old Sociable Joe wrote that letter—Butt-in Joe, that ought to be his name. What right's he got thinking I'm running with a gang? Say, that's a laugh—a gang out here. What would a gang be doing out here? How about that? What would a gang be doing—?"

He halted. The cool, appraising eyes of Jane Bronson were full upon him, looking him through, slashing away his braggadocio, stripping him, leaving him suddenly defenseless.

"Then if there is no gang, why are me again."

The girl pressed her lips, and stood silent while the man regarded her—the cheap, but becoming print dress, the fine, small hands, which work had someway filed to ruin, the tilt of her chin as she swallowed hard and looked suddenly toward the ceiling in an attempt to conceal the welling of her eyes.

"No, Lee," came quietly, "I didn't come here to lecture you—just to tell you. I can't—go on—being the sister of a crook."

"Crook?" Lee Bronson bent forward, glowering, his hands outspread upon the table and the coal of the cigaret burning unnoticed into the varnish. "Where in hell did you get that? Now I'm a crook, am I? Who told you that?"

"I don't know."

"O stop lying." Lee Bronson whirled about the table. "It was old Sociable Joe, wasn't it?"

"Sociable Joe?" she eyed him with surprise.

"Yes, Sociable Joe," the young man snapped. "He had to blab that mouth of his did he?"

"Is Sociable Joe here?"

The brother scowled.

"You know damned well he's here."

BUFFALO BILL NEVER SHOT A BUFFALO IN HIS LIFE
BILL VENN

It is often stated that "Buffalo Bill" and his companions killed 4,280 buffaloes in 18 months, and thus provided meat for the hundreds of laborers working on the construction of the Kansas Pacific Railway. The truth is: Buffalo Bill never even saw a buffalo, and has no right to such a title. There were no buffaloes in America at that time, and are none now, except those imported for zoos. The animals which were commonly called buffaloes were bisons. True buffaloes are found only in the old world. They are domesticated in India and certain other countries. The bison of America became nearly extinct before game preserves gave them protection.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

A LITTLE SATURDAY TALK.

Today I want to tell about two of the Hollywood "producers," men who, in some ways, are more important than the stars. They decide what pictures are to be made. They also choose the directors who are to manage the picture-making.

One day I talked with Jesse L. Lasky, who has had a long career as a producer and who has brought forth some great successes. He has been in the work since 1913, and right now is producing his "thousand and first" picture. He has served with the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Productions, the Famous Players-Lasky Company, and the United Artists. Recently he joined with Mary Pickford (who was a star in some of his early pictures) to form the Pickford-Lasky Company.

Among the pictures Mr. Lasky has produced are "Stella Maris," "Amarilly of Clothes Line Alley," "The Little American" and "Romance of the Redwoods." In the last, Zazu Pitts had her first contract and was started on the way to becoming a star.

One evening Mr. Lasky watched a play in Paris, and went behind the scenes to talk with a certain actor. "How would you like to go to America and make motion pictures?" asked the producer.

"Wouldn't I like it!" replied the actor. "I've tried time and again to go into pictures, but no one had enough faith in me."

The actor was given a five-year contract, and when he appeared in the movies was highly successful. His name was Maurice Chevalier.

Another noted producer is David O. Selznick. He was born in Pittsburgh and while he was growing up he was trained in motion picture arts by his father, a pioneer in the industry.

Today Mr. Selznick is in his early thirties—very young for a producer—but he is one of the leaders. Among his pictures have been "David Copperfield," "Viva Villa," "Anna Karenina" and "A Tale of Two Cities."

"David Copperfield" was voted the "most popular and most entertaining film of 1935" by the National Board of Review. Another honor came when the International Motion Picture Exposition, held in Italy, voted "Anna Karenina" the best motion picture "made in any country" during 1935.

I like the work of Mr. Selznick because he is giving to the screen pictures of a more worth-while nature than most of those which stream out of Hollywood.

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP)—Industrial shares were the strong spot today in the stock market with motors, alcohols and metals contributing the greatest firmness.

Allied Chemical gained 6 points at 198 on freely circulated rumors of a stock split and an increased dividend.

The boom in automobile stocks was traced to Cram's estimate of a production this week amounting to 84,705 units compared with 64,956 units in the previous week, the second week of the upturn which came after a drop lasting nearly two months.

Alcohol strength stemmed from Senator Copeland's proposal to eliminate taxes on distillers and place them on the retailing end of the business under the theory that prices would be reduced for the consumer and bootlegging would be checked.

National Distillers was up 1 1-4 at 33, and Hiram Walker and United States Industrial Alcohol added smaller amounts.

But the appreciation there was less than in the auto stocks measured by Chrysler, which crossed the hundred mark to 100 5-8, up 1 1-4 points, and General Motors at 63 7-8, up 1 1-2 points.

American Smelting was one of the outstanding shares among the metals, increasing 2 5-8 points to 72 7-8. Some of the coppers lost fractions, and the steels were firm with United States Steel up 1 at 67 and Bethlehem of Delaware up 3-4 at 59.

General Electric advanced a fraction after the company reported 1935 earnings equal to 97 cents a common share compared with 59 cents in the previous year. Directors also declared a dividend of 25 cents a common share. For two preceding quarters the rate was 20 cents.

Utilities were under pressure most of the day, and lost ground on the average. Communication equities appeared narrowly mixed.

There were 925 shares of all kinds traded during the day, about the same as yesterday, and the 399 advances were only slightly under the previous session. Declines numbered 352 against 326 the day before. Transactions amounted to 2,895,140 shares. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks increased .1 of a point to 63.5, the highest in around five years.

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP)—United States Rubber Company, in its financial statement for 1935, released today, showed the largest profits since 1927, at $2,231,378.

This figure included a dividend of $500,000 from United States Rubber Plantations, Inc., a subsidiary. In 1934 the company earned $573,634 or 88 cents a share on the preferred stock.

Net income, after interest, depreciation and taxes, was $7,278,611, but against this the company set up charges for adjustment of property values, provisions for contingencies, adjustments of values of miscellaneous securities and a reserve to cover mortgages of doubtful value.

Net sales for the year amounted to $127,793,615, an increase of $22,316,743 over 1934.

CHICAGO, March 6.—(AP)—Tumbles of almost 2 cents a bushel in wheat prices today resulted largely from bearish estimates of farm stocks and reports of little winter killing.

Active selling that apparently started from speculative sources revealed that wheat was without aggressive buying support, despite persistent dry weather southwest and nothwithstanding Liverpool market firmness.

Wheat closed weak at virtually the day's bottom level, 3-4 to 1 7-8 under yesterday's finish, May 98 1-4 to 98 3-8, July 88 1-2 to 88 5-8, corn 3-8 to 3-4 down, May 60 3-8 to 60 1-2, oats 1-2 to 3-4 off, and provisions varying from 17 cents setback to 7 cents gain.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May 97 1-2 to 97 5-8, 98 5-8 to 98 3-4; July 88 to 88 1-8, 89 to 89 1-8; September 87 to 87 1-8, 87 7-8 to 88. Corn—May 60 1-8 to 60 1-4, 60 3-8; July 60 1-4, 60 3-8; September 60 1-8 bids.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—Prices were shading somewhat at the close but should not go very far on the downside.

FENNER & BEANE—We doubt that the market's technical position has not been weakened by the recent rise and, although we believe the trend is still upward, we see no reason why traders should not take some profits to provide against the possibility that the market may record some irregularity before moving into higher ground.

BEER & CO.—After five successive days of advance a period of irregularity would not be unexpected.

DOBBS & CO.—The stock market appears very uneven, but in the main there is no apparent impairment of the constructive attitude.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—Improved weather conditions with continued May liquidation should cause the wheat market to work somewhat lower.

FENNER & BEANE—Fundamental conditions have not changed but it will take increased outside support to cause any sustained advance.

BEER & CO.—Both wheat and corn look to us as if they will meet a good deal of selling on all strong spots for some time to come.

DOBBS & CO.—We still continue to feel that sales of new crops futures should be made of all firm spots.

COTTON OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—The cent and one-half a pound tax proposal, of course, is liked because it is 50% of the amount expected. Any settlement of the tax question undoubtedly would release the demand for cloths and stimulate buying in advance of its enactment.

FENNER & BEANE—Sentiment is mixed with future of the market largely dependent on outcome of the Smith bill.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO. TO DOBBS & CO.—There are stabilizing influences as well as uncertainties at work in our market within recent trading ranges, and for the present we are more inclined to look for continued irregularity than the development of any well-defined trend in prices.

NEW YORK SPOT COTTON.

NEW YORK, March 6.—Spot cotton closed steady, middling 6 points up at 11.30.

AVERAGE PRICE.

NEW ORLEANS, March 6.—(AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at 10 southern spot markets was 11.19 cents a pound; government subsidy 0.81 of a cent a pound.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.

Atlanta spot cotton closed steady, middling unchanged at 11.75.

NEW ORLEANS, March 6.—(AP)—Better foreign demand again was a supporting factor in the cotton market today along with the expectation by the trade that the government's new farm program would induce a reduction in cotton acreage.

Although there was little activity, the market held steady throughout the quiet day and closed at net advances of four to seven points.

While the government pool has resumed selling of its cotton, it has not had a depressing effect on the market to any noticeable extent. On the other hand, March, the spot month, has reflected the readiness of cotton buyers to take pool offerings and that month closed the day with a net advance of seven points.

Secretary Plauche, of the New Orleans Exchange, reported takings of around 285,000 bales this week, compared with 101,000 bales for the same week a year ago.

Foreign exports for the week totaled 120,815 against 90,062 for the same week last year. The orient has come into the market again as indicated by today's shipments from United States ports most of which was for the orient.

It was estimated in some quarters that the government's cotton program, still in the formulative stage, would take about 10,000,000 or 11,000,000 acres of cotton out of production. However, the trade did not jump at any conclusions pending more details on the program.

The tendency of speculative interests was to mark time and watch developments in Washington on acreage control and surplus disposal legislation.

Port receipts today 16,980; this week 61,051; this season 6,327,023; last season 4,012,428. Exports today 27,760; this week 120,815; this season 4,448,307; last season 3,305,394. Stocks 2,348,034; same day last year 2,506,890. Stock on shipboard at New Orleans, Houston and Galveston today 101,027; same day last year 75,095. Sales at southern spot markets today 11,054; same day year ago 5,051.

COTTON FUTURES NARROW ON N. Y. EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP)—Cotton continued to move in a very narrow range today, closing steady at net advances of 3 to 6 points.

So-called pool brokers appeared to be supplying March contracts at 11.25 or above, but offerings were scarce below that figures.

Exports today 27,305, making 4,670,026 so far this season. Port receipts 8,253. United States port stocks 2,342,412.

SPECULATORS WARNED ON COTTON TRANSFERS

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP)—Speculators in 1933 cotton pool certificates were warned today by Oscar Johnston, pool manager, to register transfers of ownership.

Information reaching the Washington office was said to indicate that certificates were being purchased from farmers at prices ranging from 25 cents to 50 cents a bale. Many farmers, it was said, have received advances of 11.52 cents a pound from the pool and are selling their certificates of ownership to persons willing to take a chance on the market rising 25 to 50 cents.

Johnston said the certificates were transferable but, under the regulations, the pool manager was not required to recognize the right, interest or claim of any person other than the original party to whom the certificate was issued until notice of the transfer had been given to the pool manager by the holder on the form printed on the back of the participation trust certificate.

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP)—The general trend of today's bond market continued to point upward, nothwithstanding the appearance of a number of soft spots in the list.

United States government securities were again in demand at gains ranging from 1-32nd to 10-32nds of a point, with the volume in this department somewhat larger than in the preceding session.

The Associated Press averages of the rails, industrials and utilities managed to close slightly higher, while the composite for 10 low-yield bonds equalled its peak for many years past.

The trading pace was a trifle slower than on Thursday, transfers totalling $14,318,000, par value, against $14,582,000 yesterday.

Further firmness in the federal section was attributed in banking circles to the optimistic implications of the treasury announcement that its recent bond offering of $650,000,000 had received cash subscriptions of more than $5,000,000,000 while its note offering of $600,000,000 drew applications of more than $3,000,000,000.

Secretary Morgenthau announced that larger subscribers would be allotted only 18 per cent on the notes and 13 per cent on the bonds. In last December's flotation 23 per cent of bond subscriptions and 19 per cent of the notes were allotted.

Corporate loans to move up fractions to a point or more included Atlantic Coast Line 4 1-2s at 86 3-4, M.-K.-T. 5s at 74 3-4, Southern Pacific refunding 4s at 106 1-2, Santa Fe 4s at 114 1-2, Remington Rand 5 1-2s at 109 3-8 and Tennessee Electric Power 6s at 96 1-2.

Among the losers were Marion Steam Shovel 6s, off 3 at 81 3-8; Warner Brothers 6s, off 1 7-8 at 92 1-8; Postal Telegraph 5s, off 1 at 37 3-4, and Paramount 6s off 1 1-4 at 88 3-4.

The foreign division displayed a steady to firm undertone. Small advances were held by obligations of Japan, Denmark and Uruguay.

Market Outlook

By MAX BUCKINGHAM.

(Copyright, 1936, by United Press.)

NEW YORK, March 6.—(UP)—The stock market gave another impressive performance today which even late profit-taking could not dim.

The Dow-Jones industrial average went into another high since 1931, although down from the high established earlier in the day. United States Steel made a new high since 1931 and General Motors and Chrysler made highs since 1929—although all receded from their peaks at the close. Leadership through the entire session was good and volume was 2,890,000 shares.

Improvement in the market centered in these business reports:

Sharp improvement in motor car production this week.

Retail trade 8 to 12 per cent above a year ago and buying indicates sharp increase in spring trading.

Air line traffic increasing sharply in last few weeks.

Electric output figures increasing.

Sales of mail order and chain store leaders showing good advance over March, 1935.

Car loadings showed an increase of 86,411 cars above the preceding week.

Telephone installation gains in February above the corresponding 1935 week.

Financing operations increasing—although almost all still are of the refunding type—with the week's offerings establishing the best total since November 22, 1935.

These factors all generated a buying desire that soon was reflected in the market. As the old-time leaders such as United States Steel, Chrysler and General Motors started swinging into line and making good gains, the entire list joined in a bullish demonstration. Trading at times was sufficient to force the tickers behind floor quotations.

Profit-taking at the close was normal and a customary Friday development.

The chief obstacle continued to be the tax problem. Argument against the plan to tax undistributed profits continued. First reactions that such a law would mean wider dividend disbursements were meeting opposition. Some skilled economists feel the companies may continue to build up surpluses and hope that something will be left after the tax to give to the shareholders. Such a policy naturally would weaken the value of equities.

Meanwhile the Street warned against liquidating on recessions on the basis of the sharp gain in brokers' loans. This is based on the fact that much of the gain can be attributed to preparation for the government bond offering rather than greater participation in the stock market.

CURB SHARES ADVANCE DESPITE LATE LOSSES

Oils, Mines, Specialties Account for Much of Strength in Evidence.

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP)—There were a number of outstanding gainers in today's curb market, but late realizing cut down extreme advances in many cases and resulted in losses up to a point or so in others.

Various oils, mines and specialties accounted for much of the strength which was in evidence. Trading was not unusually lively although transfers approximated 728,000 shares against 641,000 yesterday.

Gulf Oil, up 7 points at 94, was a leader in the forward push. Others in demand included Newmont Mining, up 4 at 93; Sherwin-Williams, up 3 3-4 at 128 3-4; Humble Oil, up 1 1-2 at 72 1-2 and Creole Petroleum, up 1 1-4 at 32 1-2.

TARZAN AND THE LEOPARD MEN No. 60

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

TEX MAXON
T-60

Nkima's persuasive powers finally became effective. Orando was convinced now that the monkey wanted to show him something. He followed through the forest until the little creature stopped suddenly and pointed to bits of leopard fur scattered on the ground.

Then, in superb pantomine, which would have shamed most human actors, Nkima described the battle that had been fought here. Now it became clear to Orando. His white friend had been captured by the Leopard Men! Orando groaned, for he was powerless to give aid

. . . Meanwhile the signalman of the Leopard Army beat out weird thumps on a drum. Far away that rhythm was taken up and relayed by scattered signal stations. This was the secret telegraph of the Leopard Clan, announcing the capture of the mighty Tarzan.

. . . Cruel Lulimi, on his temple throne, heard those welcome notes and ordered Kali Bwana, the white girl, brought to him. "Tonight," he said to her, "you become high priestess and make ceremony of sacrifice; for tonight we feast well on flesh of captive!"

40,000 ARE QUALIFIED FOR FULTON PRIMARY

Record List Exceeds by 10,000 Any Former County Registration.

More than 40,000 voters are qualified to cast ballots in the March 11 primary, which is the record high in the history of Fulton county, Tax Collector Earl Suttles announced yesterday as candidates for county offices continued their campaigns with political speeches at several rallies.

The exact number of qualified voters was counted yesterday as 40,850, which exceeded by nearly 10,000 the next highest registration ever recorded in Fulton.

Aspirants in the primary election spoke or were represented at five rallies last night, the largest of which was held at the Atlanta theater, where Tarleton Collier presided. He was introduced by Wellborn Ellis, attorney.

With the exception of Cal Cates, J. C. "Mott" Aldredge and Ed Deckner, who were represented by others who spoke in their behalf, all candidates attended the meeting.

Affiliations Changed.

Longino read a letter, purportedly signed by County Attorney Ralph H. Pharr, in which he asked support as a citizen for Barrett and LeCraw.

"This certainly shows where his affiliations are, although he claims not to have any," said Longino.

Calling J. A. Ragsdale a "Me, too," man, LeCraw attacked Ragsdale as a "rubber stamp for Longino."

This drew from Ragsdale the assertion that he "refused the chairmanship of the board, which certainly proves I'm not a rubber stamp."

Ellis Barrett accused Longino of several old charges, mainly concerning insurance business said to have been "handed to a relative."

Candidates spokes also at Lakewood Heights, where the P.-T. A. sponsored a meeting; at the E. P. Howell school; at the English Avenue school, where Aldredge, running for sheriff, was host, and at the Hammond public school in Sandy Springs.

Roswell Meet Today.

An important rally is scheduled this afternoon at Roswell, with supporters of Commissioners George F. Longino and J. A. Ragsdale as sponsors. All candidates are expected to attend this meeting.

Among the last of the rallies before the voters go to the polls Wednesday will be held Tuesday night at the Cascade school on Cascade road.

Aldredge will sponsor a meeting at 7:30 o'clock Monday night at the Ella W. Smillie school, 328 North avenue, to which all candidates are invited.

Charges Hurled.

Commissioner Longino and Commissioner Ragsdale, seeking re-election, yesterday declared that an opponent, Ellis Barrett, was misrepresenting facts in connection with the Pharr fee case, which has achieved a place of political importance in the commissioners' race.

Longino said Barrett charges that he and Ragsdale did not protest the payment of a $21,304 fee to Pharr for collection of back taxes from the Coca-Cola International Corporation until they found out that Barrett was entering the commissioner's race.

"We did not have Barrett in mind at all when we exposed this fee to the public," Longino said.

"We brought out that we had been misled into signing the contract with Pharr just as soon as we learned the facts in the case—that Pharr had gotten the money without doing the work he had told us he would have to do. At that time we had never heard of Mr. Barrett as a possible commission candidate."

Tax Collector Suttles said yesterday that registration lists in the county and city wards and districts were swelled this year by the drive made by civic organizations and newspapers.

There are 26,026 persons registered in Atlanta, the greatest number being in the eighth ward where 4,452 voters are qualified.

White House Calmed; F.D.R. Finds Buttons

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP) President Roosevelt said today that peace has been re-established in the White House family by the finding of his lost waistcoat buttons.

The lost buttons, which caused the President to be late at a recent cabinet dinner, were located in the wash, Mr. Roosevelt said.

Because they could not be found when needed, the chief executive wore black buttons on the white vest of his full dress suit.

S. J. Jones, Injured in Aiken Crash, Accused of Carelessness.

AIKEN, S. C., March 6.—(AP)—A coroner's jury tonight charged a man listed as S. J. Jones, salesman for a soft drink concern at 354 Nelson street, Atlanta, with carelessness after his automobile had allegedly struck and killed an unidentified hitchhiker on the highway between here and Columbia.

Jones was severely injured when the car turned over after the accident. He is under treatment at the Aiken county hospital.

Magistrate D. K. Lybrand and Constable Clarence Courtney, witnesses to the crash, testified at the inquest. The victim of the crash was said to have been a white man, about 40 years of age.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 6.—(AP)—A man identified as Harry G. Browne, 35, of Atlanta, was fatally crushed in the collision of two automobiles on the outskirts of Montgomery early tonight.

Browne suffered a broken neck, a crushed chest and other injuries. The identification was made by Coroner M. B. Kirkpatrick, who said the man apparently was an employe of United Artists.

Harry G. Browne, killed in an automobile accident last night in Montgomery, was a film salesman at United Artists here, members of that organization said.

He is survived by a sister, Miss Zelia Mason, and a brother, R. T. Browne, both of Atlanta. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Harry G. Poole.

CAROLINA ROAD BILL IS VETOED SIXTH TIME

Johnston Again Denounces Plan as 'High Handed and Inequitable.'

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 6.—(AP) A sixth veto of a highway reimbursement bond act by Governor Olin Johnston today intensified a controversy within the state highway controversy.

The governor rejected a Florence county reimbursement act with a statement that he "once again denounced" the plan for the state highway department to build roads in exchange for county reimbursement bonds as "high-handed and inequitable."

His action followed by two weeks the first effective overriding of one of his vetoes at the present session and afforded one of the highlights of an otherwise dull legislative day.

The house overrode an executive veto of a Colleton county reimbursement act by a vote of 74 to 25, February 21, after having sustained two similar vetoes earlier in the session.

Johnston adherents were confident the chamber would support his stand on the Florence act, since it lacked a provision for a countywide referendum on the issuance of bonds which the Colleton measure, now law, included.

Won't Vote on Veto.

Representatives Bridges and Eaddy, of Florence, announced they would not vote to disregard the veto, and Representative W. C. Graham, of Florence, pointed out that nearly all Florence county road construction authorized in the local measure since had been provided for in a statewide bill passed by the house.

An amendment by Graham to the statewide measure, which calls for a $5,000,000 state highway bond issue not requiring the governor's approval, included all except one stretch of the proposed Florence highways.

The senate limited its session to a perfunctory meeting over local measures, but the representatives, passing over the veto for the time, advanced a number of state-wide measures.

The house session was marked by the passage of second reading, without debate, of a bill providing rigid control over securities offered for sale in the state. It closely resembled the federal SEC.

Prison Bill Passed.

A bill by the penitentiary committee to permit the state prison here to remodel two buildings with $60,000 of its funds was approved and sent to third reading, and a measure by Representative Wolfe, of Orangeburg, to allow the tax commission to sell rejected shipment of legal liquor was passed to the senate.

A lien bill which would have permanently exempted "all property acquired during the next five years" from judgments was continued upon motion of Representative Blatt, of Barnwell, after Representative Bridges asserted it would "declare a moratorium on all debts for the next five years."

The house sidetracked a resolution calling for the expenditure of $1,000 for floats for the Charleston azalea festival and the Columbia sesqui-centennial into its ways and means committee.

RAMSPECK DEFENDS U. S. CIVIL SERVICE

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP)—Congressman Robert Ramspeck, of Georgia, said tonight that assertions credited to former President Herbert Hoover and Governor Alf M. Landon, of Kansas, that the federal civil service system has broken down under the present administration were untrue.

At a meeting of federal employes the southern congressman, chairman of the house civil service committee, said that the civil service personnel had 9,000 more members since President Roosevelt took office.

He said that Postmaster-General James A. Farley has filled key positions with trained men who "have come up from the rank and file and know the trials . . . of those working in the postal system."

He praised Farley as "the ablest postmaster-general during my memory."

DAMAGE SUIT FILED AGAINST H. L. DOHERTY

MIAMI, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Circuit Judge W. W. Trammell instructed H. L. Rees, chief deputy sheriff, today to make another attempt to serve Henry L. Doherty, hotel owner and utilities executive, with notice of a $10,000 damage suit.

Sheriff D. C. Coleman previously reported his deputies were prevented from serving Doherty by elevator operators at his Miami Biltmore hotel, refusing to take them to the owner's tower suite.

Mrs. Dorothy Wright, who is suing Doherty for injuries her daughter, Betty, received when she was allegedly bitten during a dog show at the hotel, brought contempt charges against the sheriff when his men failed to serve the papers.

After holding the contempt hearing, Judge Trammell asked attorneys for both Mrs. Wright and the sheriff to prepare exhaustive briefs in the case because he said he did not know whether Coleman could be compelled to force service on Doherty.

Judge Trammell told Rees to report tomorrow whether he succeeded serving Doherty.

STORM-DAMAGED WIRE IS TAKEN BY BURGLARS

Seven hundred pounds of wire taken down following the sleet and ice storm which paralyzed the city in December was stolen early yesterday from a substation of the Georgia Power Company on Stewart avenue, police records showed. The wire was valued at $90.

R. L. Leach, storekeeper for the power company, reported the theft to police.

A restaurant at 597 Parkway drive was entered early yesterday morning by burglars who took a cigaret machine valued at $75, cigarets valued at $20 and a small amount of candy, police reported.

The cigaret machine was found in the rear of the place badly damaged. W. F. Heath reported the robbery to police.

FIRE SALARY DECISION TO BE RENDERED TODAY

Decision on the mandamus petition of A. Steve Nance and J. A. Harper, labor leaders, to force the city of Atlanta to pay full basic salaries to firemen, will be handed down at 9 o'clock this morning in Fulton county superior court by Judge E. E. Pomeroy.

Nance and Harper are suing in an attempt to make the city restore the salaries of firemen to the basic level from which they were cut 10 per cent. City firemen, in a mass meeting, recently, voiced their disapproval of the action, but Nance and Harper have asked a decision on the petition.

1936 Political Hall of Fame Niche Is Gained by Seminole for Vote

Washington and East Intensely Interested in Results Favorable to Roosevelt; County Was First in Nation To Hold Presidential Preferential Primary.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Seminole county, Georgia, seems destined to occupy a niche in the 1936 national political hall of fame.

Through gaining the distinction as the first place in the country to hold a presidential preferential primary, the county election of this week had been almost as widely publicized as Maine, always the first state to ballot in a presidential year.

Not only were the Seminole results treated as front-page news of the day by most of the eastern papers, but they have been the subject of generous editorial comment, even the New York Times carrying a two-column page-one story on what happened the day following the balloting.

President Gratified.

And as for official Washington, all the political heads of the administration took time out to read the reports. No comment has been forthcoming from the White House, but it is known that President Roosevelt received the news with much gratification. Loyal democrats of the little Georgia county are certain to find a warm spot in the chief executive's heart for their expression of confidence so overwhelmingly given.

It isn't that the primary contest had any measure of importance so far as the ultimate outcome of the coming presidential election is concerned. It is regarded as more significant than important. The fact that one of the smaller counties of the state heretofore considered a Talmadge stronghold voted a five-to-one preference for President Roosevelt over his chief critic in the south cannot be interpreted otherwise than meaning Mr. Roosevelt, as his friends have previously assured him, has nothing to fear in his second home state.

Naturally the returns were comforting to the President no less than to members of the Georgia congressional delegation, which is solidly backing the chief executive against the efforts of Governor Talmadge to lend comfort and aid to the republican opposition.

Election Assured.

By the manner in which they responded the democrats of Seminole county evidently appreciate the responsibility which rests with Georgia supporters of the national administration in a presidential election year. Mr. Roosevelt could lose the Georgia delegation to the democratic national convention and still be overwhelmingly nominated on the first ballot, as he is certain to be. Likewise, through the unexplainable tactics of Governor Talmadge, he could lose Georgia's 20 votes in the national electoral college and still be overwhelmingly re-elected next November.

But that isn't the point. If Georgia, the President's second home, which has received more generous treatment under the present administration than at any time in the state's recent history, should go against Roosevelt, not only would the state receive a black eye against its unbroken record of party loyalty, but republicans would be able to make unlimited capital of it in the later campaign to unseat the democratic President. The confidence of party workers over the country generally would be shaken if the opponents of the President should be able to down him in a state like Georgia.

All of this explains the united purpose of the Georgia delegation not to allow the disgruntled governor to carry his discontent so far afield as to deliver the state into the hands of the enemy. It explains also why the returns of the county primary have created so much interest here and elsewhere.

Hope Talmadge Sees Light.

In the minds of Georgia delegation members, the Seminole results may fairly be taken as an indication of sentiment in the state as a whole. Governor Talmadge, they feel, is perhaps the only person in the state who has not fully sensed the people's loyalty to the President. Their hopes are that even he may yet see the light of day and abandon the futile attempt to embarrass the party, yielding to the sentiment expressed in the primary and declining to raise a further contest against sending a Roosevelt-instructed delegation to the Philadelphia convention.

All members of the group have about reached the conclusion Talmadge now will dodge a state-wide preferential primary. Several believe he is prepared to junk his president candidacy, never treated seriously in informed political circles.

As a sample of some of the editorial comment on the Seminole election, the following appeared in the editorial columns today of the Washington News, one of the Scripps-Howard chain of newspapers:

"ONE BORN EVERY MINUTE."

"Those eastern men of money, who have more hate for Roosevelt than political savvy and who have been shelling out good cash for the 'Talmadge-for-president' movement on the assumption that the Georgia Governor could split the solid south and thereby weaken F. D. R.'s chances of re-election—what are they thinking today?

"The democrats of Seminole county, Georgia, Governor Gene's own backyard, voted five to one for the renomination of Roosevelt, over Talmadge. Will the campaign contributors sue the Kirby-Talmadge organization for obtaining money under false pretense or will they forfeit and admit that Barnum was right?"

Sturdivant Likely To Learn Fate Within Week as Trial Nears End

Prospect that the defense in the trial of Police Chief T. O. Sturdivant may rest its case at Monday night's meeting of the police committee and that a verdict may be reached during the week was seen yesterday.

Committee members said George Finch, chief defense attorney for Sturdivant, on trial for illegal release of impounded liquor cars, inefficiency and incompetency, had told them he had no thought of burdening them with an unwarranted number of character witnesses.

During two defense hearings, Finch has placed 27 witnesses on the stand and he asserted yesterday he will repeat the performance again Monday night.

Large crowds have attended every session of the committee while both prosecution and the defense of Sturdivant has been aired.

Members of the committee declared Friday night a recess until Monday because of the indisposition of Councilman J. Allen Couch, member of the group which is conducting the probe of police irregularities.

Testimony of Mayor Key and former police committee member Councilman Howard Haire, of the ninth ward, Friday night featured the second hearing of defense testimony. Thus far the defense has spent its efforts in a parade of witnesses designed to prove that Sturdivant is regarded as an efficient and competent officer.

After the close of defense testimony, it is expected the prosecution will place a group of rebuttal witnesses on the stand and then will come to final arguments, after which the committee will retire for a verdict.

Finch last night asserted he could produce more than 1,000 witnesses ready to testify that Sturdivant is efficient and competent, and that he will continue presenting them, calling citizens until the committee indicates it has heard enough.

Rumors Plentiful.

Many reports were being circulated yesterday but none of them was confirmed. Among the rumors were:

1. That the police committee is now ready to file charges against both Sturdivant and A. Lamar Poole, assistant chief, who also is suspended under charges of incompetence and inefficiency.

2. That Sturdivant will be reduced to ranks and that another chief will be named.

3. That Mayor Key can not control his present committee and it will relegate Sturdivant to the detective bureau ranks.

Police committee members declined to discuss any of the possible turns the case may take and there appeared little probability of any precipitate action either one way or another.

Finch said yesterday "if Key cannot control the police committee, thank God the courts can."

That is the only statement which Finch has made relative to a possibly adverse verdict since the trial opened, and is a clear indication he plans to appeal to the courts in the event the committee takes any disciplinary action against the accused police department head.

DISCARDED CIGARETTE IS BLAMED FOR BLAZE

Fire and smoke, believed to have been caused by a carelessly discarded cigarette, did considerable damage to the Ro-Lane Garment Company plant at 174 Pryor street at about 6:30 o'clock last night.

The building was owned by Harry G. Poole. Firemen said most of the damage was caused by smoke.

Fire also damaged the residence of R. B. Dickerson, at 1181 Lee street, yesterday afternoon when the roof caught fire from chimney sparks.

CHECK CHARGE IS LAID TO WOMAN ON BAIL

PHILADELPHIA, March 6.—(AP)—A woman booked as Elizabeth Martin, 35, of Newport News, Va., who was free under bail on a charge of passing worthless checks here, was arrested today in connection with a similar crime in Chester.

She is under $1,500 bail for the Philadelphia crime. A magistrate held her in $800 additional bail for a further hearing on the Chester count. Miss Martin said she was born in Chester.

JUDGE SCORES POLICE IN IGNORING SUMMONS

Lack of Response to Subpoenas Is Expensive, Says Humphries.

Failure of city police officers to appear in superior courts after subpoenas for them had been sent to the office of the chief of police was criticized yesterday by Judge John O. Humphries, senior judge of Fulton courts.

The judge's remarks came when Assistant Solicitor Quincy Arnold told Humphries he was unable to proceed in trying a criminal case because Detective J. W. Cody, under subpoena, was not present. He said it was the second day the officer had failed to appear.

'If subpoenas cannot be delivered under the present system of sending them to the office of the chief, then it will become necessary for the court to enforce the orders," Judge Humphries said.

He declared such things caused the courts to become clogged at greater cost to taxpayers.

Arnold was directed by the judge to write the chief of police a letter calling his attention to the failure of officers to appear and to tell the chief to order his men to communicate with the solicitor-general when they were subpoenaed for two divisions of court at the same time.

"I am not criticizing the police department and I realize they probably have some other things to think about just now," said the judge, evidently referring to the police investigation and trial of Chief Sturdivant. "I am merely sympathizing with a situation," he added.

HOUSE VOTES FUND FOR RITTER TRIAL

Managers Named and Case Expected To Be Opened at Early Date.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP)—Preliminaries to the senate impeachment trial of Federal Judge Halsted L. Ritter, of the southern Florida district, were cleared away today as the house selected its trial managers.

Judiciary committee Chairman Sumners, democrat, Texas, will head the managers, together with Representatives Perkins, republican, New Jersey, and Hobbs, democrat, Alabama.

The house adopted a resolution naming the managers, setting a $2,500 limit to their expenses, and directing them to appear before the senate and demand Ritters' "impeachment, conviction, and removal from office." The judge was accused of "high crimes and misdemeanors in office."

Sumners said the managers probably would appear in the senate chamber Monday to deliver the impeachment articles.

Subsequently, the senate, under usual procedure, would adopt a resolution informing the house when it was ready to open the trial. The house managers will prosecute. Ritter can appear on the senate floor with counsel.

Senate Majority Leader Robinson, democrat, Arkansas, said the trial should begin soon and indicated he preferred the case he heard before the senate as a body instead a committee as provided by a resolution on optional impeachment trial procedure adopted by the senate last year.

YOUTH, 20, SENTENCED IN BRICK-BAT KILLING

BONIFAY, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Horace Rolling, 20, convicted yesterday of second-degree murder for the brickbat slaying of his 75-year-old grandfather, George Rolling, today was sentenced to serve 20 years in Florida state prison.

It was the minimum sentence possible under the law. Life imprisonment could have been imposed. Circuit Judge E. C. Welch pronounced sentence after denying a motion for a new trial.

Supersedeas bond was set at $2,500 and young Rolling was kept in jail in default of the bail.

The youth testified he threw a brick and hit his grandfather on the head when the aged man advanced on him wit han ax during an argument. The jury, however, convicted the boy of second-degree murder.

Speed on Slippery Road Results in Death and Injuries

This picture shows what often happens when drivers speed on slippery roads. Two men met death when the small sedan shown here collided with a larger car on a smooth, slippery, wet road. A young woman suffered a broken arm, fractured skull and concussion of the brain.

Bad Tires, Wet Road, Carelessness Bring Sudden Death to 2 Autoists

Two men met violent death in the wreckage of the small sedan shown above. In the large car, with which it collided, a young woman received a broken arm, fractured skull and concussion of the brain, and her father suffered painful injuries.

It was a foggy evening and a slight rain was falling. The small sedan, with well-worn tires, was following another car down a smooth, macadam road. Two young men sat in the front seat. The smooth roadway—moist surface—worn tires—downhill grade—all should have suggested skidding.

The driver heeded none of these danger signals. Near the foot of the hill he suddenly shot around the car ahead. As he did so, he was faced with another automobile coming in the opposite direction. He cut the front wheels sharply to get back on the right side of the road, but his car started to skid. It swerved around, completely blocking the road and crashed broadside into the front of the large automobile. It then rebounded against a telephone pole and the shattered remnants tumbled down a steep bank at the side of the road. Two battered bodies were still within the wreckage when it came to rest.

Look out for dangerous skidding whenever the roadway is wet or slippery! Don't make matters worse by using badly worn tires or excessive speed. Fancy yourself in the combination of circumstances that ended the lives of these two young men.

Drink of Liquor and $30 Puts Man In Shadow of Jail Bars for Life

One drink of liquor calling for another upset his reasoning and Frank H. Daniel, of Center Hill, for $30, faces life in jail.

Daniel doesn't like jail. He was in them for 15 years and twice he risked his life in escapes. Finally, he appealed to the sympathies of Governor Talmadge and was paroled.

Daniel does like his liquor. It was a tough problem he had weighing that $30 and another drink of liquor against freedom for the rest of his life and no liquor until he could find a job and buy a drink.

Daniel picked the $30. It looked like easy money. He was sure he could get away with it and he needed that drink badly. He needed that $30. With that much money, his drinking problems would be solved for several days, at least, and how in the world would anyone know? He had had a hard night the night before. So, he made up what mind he had left on the spot.

A mail carrier, making his rounds on February 1, was accosted at Ashby and Bankhead avenue by Daniel.

"I'm Olin Pugh—you got a letter for me?" said Daniel.

"What sort of letter?"

"Well, I ought to be getting my pension check today."

"Where do you live?" asked the mail carrier.

"Over there—1309 Bankhead highway," answered Daniel.

The carrier shuffled through his letters and handed Daniel the check.

Forged Name.

Daniel walked over to a postoffice substation near by and borrowed a government pen to forge Olin Pugh's name to the check. Then he went to a near-by store and bought some flour, some sugar and some coffee. He pocketed the change.

Daniel knew Olin Pugh, a war veteran, who lived at the Bankhead highway address and was sick at home—in fact, on his deathbed. He died February 2, the day after Daniel stole his check.

Daniel took the flour, sugar and coffee to Mrs. Pugh, but he kept the money he had received as change.

United States Secret Service Operative Henry S. Tyson arrested Daniel late Thursday night in a Walton street poolroom and yesterday Daniel was placed under $2,500 bond by United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith. Unable to make the bond he he was locked up.

Was State Lifer.

In the confession that Daniel signed yesterday, he revealed himself as a paroled state prisoner. He had been serving a life term at Milledgeville and in various chain gangs for the murder of a bailiff in Cherokee county, in 1921. The bailiff had tried to seize a truckload of Daniels' liquor and Daniel killed the bailiff, he said yesterday.

Shortly after he was sentenced. in 1921, he escaped. He was working in a rock quarry, he said, and he broke his ankle chains with the sledge hammer he was using in the quarry.

"What did the guards do?" asked Tyson.

"Oh, they never have enough guards. Three of us got away that time," answered Daniel.

Paroled By Talmadge.

He was recaptured, but in 1926 he escaped again. Again he was recaptured. Last year, Governor Talmadge paroled him. Under the parole, he was to behave himself for a year and the life charge would be wiped off the record.

He only had until June 17 to go to finish up his parole term. But the pressure was too strong. He took to drinking, he said yesterday and the theft and forgery resulted.

Under the law, as soon as Daniel has finished whatever punishment he gets for forging the United States treasury check, he must be returned to the state prisons to resume his life sentence for murder.

All for $30 and a drink of liquor.

SLEEPING SICKNESS VICTIM IMPROVING

Mother of 3 Children Ill 3 Months From Strange Disease.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., March 6.—(AP) After three months of "sleeping sickness," Mrs. Sylvia Weber, middle-aged mother of three children at Wollcottsville, near here, was reported recovering rapidly today by her physician.

Dr. Theodore Corlis, of Medina, who has attended Mrs. Weber the last five weeks, said she was now able to sit up several hours each day.

He said she complained of feeling ill while visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schultz, more than three months ago, and that she lapsed into a deep sleep on going to bed.

Dr. Corlis said she began to show signs of awakening about four weeks ago.

He described the disease as not the usual sleeping sickness, but a rare type "caused by her ductless gland system being out of balance."

M'BRIDE WILL SPEAK AT CHURCH TUESDAY

Dr. F. Scott McBride, of Washington, D. C., general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America, will deliver an address at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night at the St. Paul's Methodist church, Grant street, near Capitol avenue.

His subject will be "Temperance and Prohibition." The public is invited, and there will be no admission fee. Dr. McBride was recently re-elected to his present position as head of the league.

HUSBAND IS HELD IN DEATH OF TWO

Woman and Mother Are Found Slain in Creek by Fishermen.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 6. (AP)—Two fishermen today found the bodies of Mrs. M. C. Powell and her mother, Mrs. Lou E. Speers, in Loftin creek in Nassau county and police here immediately charged Mrs. Powell's husband with the slayings.

The bodies had the abdomens split open. Mrs. Powell's body was nude. Mrs. Speers' body was clad only in a corset and stockings.

Powell, who reported the women had been missing from their home here since Sunday afternoon when, he said, they left to attend a motion picture show, had been held by police for questioning since yesterday at noon.

He told officers in his first report that both women wore diamond rings and Mrs. Speers had about $200 in cash with her. Police drained a creek here when a woman's pocketbook, identified by Powell as belonging to his mother-in-law, was found floating in the stream. They found nothing more.

O. T. Harris and James Otis, Yulee. Fla., fishermen, discovered the bodies in the Nassau county creek this morning. They notified the sheriff's office at Fernandina. Jacksonville officers took neighbors of the two women to the scene and they identified the bodies.

Dr. R. R. Killinger, Duval county medical examiner, went to Fernandina to perform an autopsy.

GOTHAM RIDING CLUB WILL CLOSE ON MAY 1

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP)—The Riding Club, million-dollar haven of Manhattan's distinguished horsemen, will close its doors May 1. Reason: Too expensive for the present membership.

In its prime, the 55-year-old club had six Vanderbilts on its rolls, and also J. Pierpont Morgan, Andrew Carnegie, August Belmont and John Jacob Astor.

Feminine social leaders used to view its famous riding drills from a glass-enclosed balcony while sipping team served by periwigged servants.

The modern trend away from formal park riding, members said, proved the club's downfall. The club is near Central Park.

Theft Racket Tops Bug, Avers Judge Humphries

The biggest racket in Atlanta is robbery, Judge John D. Humphries declared yesterday in Fulton superior court as he sentenced Bill Cain, confessed robber and pal of Jimmie Rosenfeld, to serve from 8 to 19 years imprisonment.

"There is a furore here to represent the lottery as the greatest racket in Atlanta," said the judge, "but robbery is the biggest racket and greater efforts should be taken to stop it than to wipe out the bug."

Cain, captured by Atlanta police several days ago, entered a plea of guilty to three robberies for which he was under indictment with Jimmie Rosenfeld, convicted slayer of Lester V. Stone, and one attempt to rob Mrs. Fred Walker, of the Veteran's hospital. He said he helped rob the Federal Investment Company of $443, the First Mutual Building & Loan Association of $99, and a Thom McAn store of $24. He declared he did not aid Rosenfeld in robbing the Atlantic Ice & Coal Company brewery.

MEMORIAL HIGHWAY SURVEY IS INSTITUTED

The City Planning commission yesterday took steps to make the proposed Peachtree Creek parkway and Memorial Park highway connecting Kennesaw National Park and Stone Mountain a reality.

At a reorganization meeting at which all 1935 officers were re-elected for 1936, Alderman Frank H. Reynolds, commission member, at the suggestion of Mayor Key, was asked to seek permission from city council to make a definite study of the proposal. Reynolds also will ask that rights-of-way for construction of the North avenue underpass at Marietta street be referred to the planning commission.

Wilbur G. Kurtz was elected chairman for another year; Robert G. Lose, again was designated as vice chairman, and Raymond W. Torras, engineer-secretary for the past several years, was selected by unanimous vote to succeed himself.

ACTION IS DEMANDED ON VOTE COERCION BILL

Stiff Fine Proposed on Employers Who Dictate Balloting.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(UP) New Deal leaders were disclosed tonight to be forging a powerful weapon to combat expected big business opposition in the forthcoming election campaign.

Orders went down the congressional line for swift action within the next two weeks on an almost unheralded bill providing stiff penalties for employers attempting to coerce their employes during national elections.

The bill was introduced originally in the senate by Senator Frederick Van Nuys, democrat, Indiana. Without debate, it unanimously passed the senate February 4. It was referred to the house judiciary committee where a subcommittee headed by Representative Zebulon Weaver, democrat, North Carolina, has it in charge.

"I am familiar with that bill," Speaker Joseph W. Byrns said. "You need have no apprehension but that it will be taken up promptly and passed, if and when brought out of the rules committee."

Byrns parried questions as to who was behind the bill but it was said in congressional cloakrooms that there is terrific pressure behind it.

Byrns said he personally felt it was "a good bill" to insure fair elections and that numerous congressmen had been urging it strenuously.

The bill, a brief 16-line affair, is admittedly packed with political dynamite.

It provides that it shall be unlawful for "any person or corporation to influence or attempt to influence through fear or intimidation the vote of any persons employed by them in connection with any election at which presidential and vice presidential electors or a senator or representative in, or a delegate or resident commissioner to, congress is to be voted for."

Corporations violating the law would be subject to a $5,000 fine and officers, directors or agents who violate it or "consent to the violation" would face $1,000 fines and one year imprisonment.

An administration leader in the house said that the measure "will be a godsend to a great many of us coming from industrial centers."

The same leader said it would prevent "members of the American Liberty League and similar big business organizations" from carrying out "their doctrines through coercing employes."

An unofficial survey by an administration spokesman resulted in a prediction that the bill would pass the house "overwhelmingly."

10 MEN ARE ARRESTED IN CATTLE-THEFT RING

CHARLESTON, Miss., March 6.—(AP)—Ten men were under arrest here today in connection with a round-up by Sheriff Harry Dogan and County Attorney James Blount of an alleged cattle stealing ring.

Sheriff Dogan declined to divulge the names of the men arrested at present as other arrests are imminent.

From time to time complaints have been brought to the sheriff's office by prominent planters of cattle depredations in this section, Dogan said.

The cattle stolen was reportedly shipped to northern markets in trucks.

MISSION OFFERING INCREASE SHOWN

Baptist Board Names Two New Missionaries at Meeting Here.

Two new missionaries appointed and reports which showed a marked increase in offerings in February of this year as compared with the same month last year were features of the monthly meeting of the executive committee of the Baptist Home Mission Board.

JUDGE HOLMES GIVEN SUBCOMMITTEE OKAY

Senate Chairman Declares Bilbo's Charges 'Without Substance.'

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP)—A senate judiciary subcommittee closed its two months of intermittent hearings today on qualifications of Judge Edwin R. Holmes, of Mississippi, for appointment to the fifth circuit court of appeals. A report to the full committee will be made Monday.

Chairman Burke, democrat, Nebraska, indicated the subcommittee again would recommend that the nomination be confirmed, despite objections by Senator Bilbo, democrat, Mississippi. The subcommittee previously recommended confirmation, but hearings were reopened upon request of Bilbo.

Colonel Richard G. Wooton, of Hattiesburg, Miss., today contradicted previous testimony that Holmes had never participated in Mississippi politics.

Wooton told the committee that in his opinion a statement made by Holmes at a political rally in the 1928 senatorial campaign had resulted in former Senator Hubert D. Stephens defeating T. Webber Wilson, although Wilson previously denied this.

Bilbo, who is opposing confirmation almost single-handed. charged Holmes was "planted" in the audience by Stephens.

Although Bilbo today urged the committee call additional witnesses, Burke said "All the evidence convinces me there is no merit or substance to your complaint against Judge Holmes."
